NEW-ORLEANS:

FRIDAY MORNING, JANUARY [illegible], 18[illegible].

An old man, a [illegible], appeared yesterday before the Criminal Court, under an indictment for murder. Our enlightened state advocate expressed in a very feeling and impressive manner, the delicacy of his situation, and the [illegible] which the mandate of the law imposed upon him, in making it his duty, [illegible], for a heavy crime, a man bearing all the marks of venerable old age—a man, the measure of whose days, in the course of nature, was already told. "The defence rested on a plea of insanity, which was so fully made out, that the jury acquitted him without leaving their box.— The outpourings of the old man's gratitude, after his acquittal, were highly moving indeed; clasping the hands of the jurors and members of the court, he thanked them affectively, for the preservation of his life. It appeared, in the course of the evidence, that the imprudence of the deceased, in obstinately teasing the poor demented being, was unfortunately the cause of his death. He reminded us forcibly of old Desaules, baring his scarred bosom, he pointed exultingly to his wounds, pronouncing with reverence the names of Washington and Lafayette, under whom, it would seem, he "has done some service." [illegible]

In the Legislature, yesterday [illegible] Mr. [illegible] presented a report of the [illegible] committee to whom was referred the petition of sundry inhabitants of East Feliciana, accompanied by a bill transferring part of the territory of the parish East Baton Rouge, to the parish of East Feliciana. Mr. McConnell presented a [illegible] report. The House adopted the report presented by Mr. Saunders, and the bill was ordered for a third reading this day.

The account statement of the Bank of the Consolidated Association was laid before the House, by Mr. Allard, on the part of the Comptroller of that institution.

The Speaker laid before the House the presentment of the Grand Jury of the 1st District, which, on motion [illegible] [illegible] referred to the committee charged to make a report on that part of the Governor's Message relating to a penitentiary.

The Governor sent to the House the report of the Adjutant and Inspector General, which was ordered to be printed.

Several notices were given of bills to be introduced, and others being in the order of the day, underwent a second reading.

A resolution appointing a committee to draught a bill authorising the Governor to purchase the Charity Hospital, was taken up, a long discussion ensued, the question turning upon the expediency of purchasing property to so large an amount, and of the propriety of locating the government house in a large and [illegible] city. The resolution was ultimately adopted by a vote of 21 to 19.

CITY COUNCIL.

(Continuation of [illegible] of the 11th of Jan.)

MESSAGE OF THE MAYOR.

GENTLEMEN,—On the 5th instant, the farm of the market, St. Mary's faubourg, was adjudicated, at the mayoralty, to Mr. Luke Hill in consideration of the sum of $1,000—the contractor offers, for the approbation of the Council, Mr. Joseph Butler as his security. It is probable that some of the members may be better acquainted than I, with the degree of solvability of the person offered, whose name figures on the tax-roll for a sum of $1500.

He further states, that he is the owner of a few slaves.

The necessity of keeping the market, in a cleanly state, has induced me, from the moment of its adjudication, to employ, saving the approbation of the Council, the services of Mr. Constantine Heissler, who, in consideration of a salary of $25 per month, has bound himself to meet all the expenses of keeping said market cleanly—to throw away the spoiled fish, and to supply brooms and other necessary articles; this agreement, the utility of which will easily be perceived by the Council, would preclude the necessity of employing the chain negroes, for the purpose of cleaning the market, and diverting them from a more useful employment of their time.

It would be necessary that the Council should authorise me to purchase such a quantity of lamp-oil as the city may need for the lighting up the streets, during the year.

I have the honor of transmitting the Council an answer which I have just received from Edward Livingston, acknowledging the receipt of the records in the matter pending between the U. States and Corporation, taken up, by appeal, to the Supreme Court. He has hinted at the necessity of certain expenses, relative to sundry copies of the plans which are annexed to the records; the Council will no doubt, deem it expedient to authorise me to make good the disbursements which Mr. Livingston may make for that purpose, as also all expenses relative to the suit, in which he is employed to defend the corporation, and seems disposed to stand as security in the Supreme Court, for costs and fees, in case the corporation should become liable for them.

Mr. Joseph Reynes has transmitted to the Council, through my hands, the annexed letter, and the accompanying plat; the object in view, is to obtain from the City Council, in a certain manner, to rebuild his saw-mill, which was accidentally destroyed by fire about the close of the month of December last.

I deem it my duty to suggest to the Council the necessity of referring to the message of the 7th of May last, in which I urged the expediency of compelling owners of carts, who pay no taxes, because they make use of them for their own service, to take numbers for said carts, and have them registered together with the names of those to whom they belong, to be made use of in case of any damage caused by negligence or misconduct on the part of the drivers. It is not too late to provide for the better maintenance of public order on this head.

When the Council shall have been able to devote their attention to the means of diminishing the number of dogs in the city, and establishing such necessary measures, relative to some of those useful animals which our citizens would be inclined to preserve; I think that the great advantages, which may result from such measures, will generally be gratifying to the public, especially if they be not protracted to such a remote period as to defeat the hoped for effect. Respectfully yours.

D. PRIEUR.

On motion, the Mayor is authorized to accept Mr. Joseph Butler as endorser of Mr. Luke Hill.

His Honor is likewise authorized to employ Mr. Heissler, and buy such a quantity of oil as is necessary for the lighting up of the city.

On motion, Resolved that the Mayor shall defray all the expenses, made and to be made, by Ed. Livingston, in the suit pending between the United States and Corporation.

A resolution authorizing Mr Reynes to build a bridge, [illegible] feet long, if we understood correctly, on the public highway, was offered by the member of the 7th ward. A dispensation of the rules was granted.

Mr. Baule holds it to be the duty of Aldermen to fasten as much as possible the improvement of property bordering on the city; but that that they cannot assume the responsibilities of accidents, which might redound from any building, located on the public highways. He favors the resolution, but wishes it to be so amended as to place the contemplated work under the inspection of the city surveyor. The motion for amendment is seconded, and the resolution is adopted.

That portion of the Message, relative to unlicensed carts, is referred to a special committee.

On the the subject of decreasing the number of dogs, Mr. Thomas says that the subject deserves more consideration, than has hitherto been bestowed upon it; he moves this article be referred to a special committee.

Mr. Blanc informs the council that the subject has already been referred to a committee, of which he is the [illegible], and promises to report at the next sitting. Mr. Thomas withdrew his motion.

The secretary read a petition from the inhabitants of the lower city; they pray to be authorised to pave at their cost, provided the corporation will agree to come in for a quota of the expense. On motion of Mr. Baule, a resolution to that effect is adopted.

A petition from Theramie Tuman prays that a certain quantity of stones belonging to him, and seized [illegible]

[illegible] the question of several other questions, the Court [illegible].

Young [illegible], who poisoned the family of Mr. Mayne, [illegible] been convicted [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible] beyond [illegible], were believed to be out of danger. [illegible] the family, Miss Maynard [illegible] of the water, into which arsenic had been thrown, without injury.

From the U. S. Gazette of Tuesday.

We [illegible] this morning the painful task of announcing the death of STEPHEN GIRARD, [illegible] banker of this city, who died yesterday afternoon, between 3 and 4 o'clock.

Mr. GIRARD was, we believe, a native of Bordeaux, in France, and, at a very early period, he commenced a sea faring life. He came to this country a considerable time before the American revolution, and resided in this city for upwards of fifty years.

Up to the year 1811, Mr. Girard was exclusively engaged in commerce, which he pursued with unwearied and successful industry. But when the Congress of that year committed an act of almost political suicide, by destroying the charter of the old Bank of the U. States, or, what amounted to the same thing, refused to renew it, Mr. Girard purchased the building which belonged to the institution; and commenced the business of a banker. The liberality and good faith with which he conducted the banking establishment, and the immense benefit he hereby afforded to commerce, are well known to this community. Of late years, Mr. Girard has improved and embellished our city by a vast number of elegant and substantial buildings. In the year 1793, when the yellow fever first made its appearance and spread its ravages through the city, Mr. Girard was a constant attendant at Bush Hill Hospital, regardless of personal danger, attending the sick and dying, and using his best efforts to stay the raging pestilence.

Mr. Girard has left the largest fortune, perhaps, in the new world. In what manner he has disposed of it, is, of course, not yet made known. His loss will be deeply felt by our city, particularly by the commercial part of the community.

FROM THE LATE EUROPEAN NEWS.

(By the Sheffield.)

The conference has suspended its consultations respecting the boundaries of Greece, in consequence of the assassination of Capo d'Istrias.

The Paris papers are to the 6th Nov. It is stated that the Emperor of Russia has annulled the sentence which decreed all the property of Czarnowski to be confiscated. The bill on the Peerage will probably be carried in the Chamber of Peers in a very few days; but it is believed there will previously be a creation of Peers. In the Sittings of Friday of the Chamber of Peers, the project for granting 18,000,000 francs for public works was adopted; on the last article, allotting 4,000,000 francs for unforeseen contingencies the Marquis de Dreux Brezé urged that before this was accorded, some grounds ought to be shown for confidence in the Ministry. The Minister of Commerce observed, that the efforts of Ministers had obtained for France a durable peace. After some further discussion the article was agreed to, and the project passed on a division of 86 to 8.

In the Chamber of Deputies, the discussion on the amendments proposed in the project for regulating the laws of the recruitment was postponed.

The Glasgow Chronicle of 7th Nov. says—On Friday, (4th) the American ship Boston, sailed from Greenock for New York with 37 passengers, which gives a total of 1225 who have sailed this season from Greenock for New York.

Mr. Van Buren transacted business on 5th Nov. at the office of the Secretary of Foreign Affairs.

At Dublin on the 5th Nov. Mr. O'Connell entered the Court of Chancery with a silk gown and full bottomed wig, and stood at the side bar. The Lord Chancellor said—"Mr. O'Connell, His Majesty has been pleased to issue his letters patent authorising you to take precedence, next after the Attorney and Solicitor General, and the two senior Serjeants. You will therefore take your place accordingly." Mr. O'Connell then bowed and proceeded to take his seat.

From Poland there is now nothing of interest—an address to the Poles by their countrymen in England and France appears in our latest papers.

From Spain, Portugal, or indeed any other part of the Continent not already noticed, we find little or nothing of general interest.

Address to the Poles by their countrymen in England and France.

POLES!—Confident in the enlightened spirit of the age, and in the sanctity of your cause, you rose to throw off the yoke of the oppressor.— The world, in astonishment, has witnessed your achievements; but nations whom honor, duty, and even interest, commanded to assist you, have pusillanimously betrayed the common cause. Future ages will show how base was their conduct, how short-sighted their policy. The contest is at an end; the sword of the autocrat has triumphed. Europe, by her callous indifference to your misfortunes, participates in the unhallowed act. Poland is no more; erased from the list of nations, she is doomed anew to a long slavery.

Countrymen!—What can we expect from the conqueror? His rage and fury we have already defied, and if an unexpected effort of humanity should attempt to spare our sufferings, feelings of patriotism would be more deeply wounded than they have ever been by every cruelty and torture, formerly devised to suppress them; for what, short of the independence of Poland, can satisfy men who have sworn to die for her freedom?

Poles!—You have hitherto done all that became a great and noble nation. You have spared no sacrifices to attain your great object: thousands of your brave brethren have already sealed with their blood the great compact with Heaven to die for their country. But if the sword of the enemy has spared our lives, let us remember that we are bound to devote every hour that remains to us to emulate the heroes that have fallen, and whose honor and glory are our most sacred trust. No inducement of fortune, rank, or interest, shall betray us into an act unworthy of our most solemn vows; these must be guarded as spotless as the name of Pole, which will henceforward be left to Europe as that of patriotism and devotion.

Poles!—Let us leave that wretched country, now no more our own, though soaked with the best blood of her defenders—let us leave Europe, a heartless spectator of our struggle and our despair. America is the only country worthy of affording an asylum to men who have sacrificed every thing for freedom; there Poland will be enshrined in our hearts, and Heaven will perhaps bless our devotion.

From the Boston Courier

Supreme Court.—We are indebted to a friend for the following report of a case lately decided in the Supreme Court for this country, which is of some importance to the mercantile community.

Hastings et. al. vs. Pepper.—This was an action upon a bill of lading signed by the defendant, master of the brig Mexican, by which he acknowledged to have received at Philadelphia, for account and risk of the plaintiffs, a box, containing a quantity of the oil of clover, put up in a glass bottle and packed with straw into said box, and the box was marked in addition to the initials of the plaintiff's firm, "Glass, with care, this side up." Said box was proved to have been delivered [illegible] which in Philadelphia [illegible] arrival of said vessel at [illegible] found to be broken and its [illegible] upon the top whereon it was [illegible] of said vessel, and the marked [illegible] upwards, but upon its side, so that [illegible] instead of standing upon its bottom lay upon its side. The Court decided that as the carriage is a matter of contract and as the owner has a right to judge for himself what position is best adapted to carrying goods of this description with safety; and to direct how they shall be carried, and the carrier has a right to fix his price for the carriage, or refuse altogether to carry the goods with such direction, if the carrier accepts the goods for carriage thus marked, he is bound to carry the goods in the manner and position required by the notice upon the box; the storage of the box, contrary to directions, is such negligence in the carrier that he is bound to pay the loss, unless he can prove clearly that the loss was not occasioned in whole or in part by such disregard of the directions.

Tricks upon Travellers.—Our readers doubtless remember the story of the Southern planter, who shipped a grindstone to Europe, carefully packed in a bale of Sea Island cotton, and the exclamation of the child on seeing it returned, "la! pa, here is the old grindstone come back again." We were forcibly reminded of it by an incident related to us a few days since, which we cannot refrain laying before the public and expressing our hope that it will serve to put travellers upon their guard. A person from this town went to Providence a few days since, and put up at one of the first hotels in the place, where he called for him the next morning before light. On settling the bill, a one dollar bank note, a little torn, was given him in change from the house; but as, by the glimmering from a lantern he perceived it to be of Perkins' steel plate, of which there is no counterfeit, he put it into his pocket without further examination. On his return home he looked at the bill, which proved to be of the Belchertown Bank, whose notes are taken by the New York brokers at ninety-nine per cent discount in payment for lottery tickets. He immediately despatched it back to Providence, requesting the bearer to demand exchange from the keeper of the hotel, who on having it handed to him, declared he was ready to take it back, but that he really thought he "had got rid of the d—d bill this time." His conduct proved him to be guilty of an act which rendered him liable to a criminal prosecution: and had not our informer recollected of whom he had taken the bill, he would have been swindled out of the amount by this honest publican.—New Bedford Gaz.

American Railroad Journal.—Mr. D. K. Minor, publisher and part proprietor of the New York American, proposes to issue a weekly publication under the above title, in a large octavo form of 16 pages each, at $3 per annum in advance; to commence about the 1st of January. "A part of this journal will be devoted to the subject of internal improvement—giving a history of the first introduction of Railroads into England and their improvements to the present time. It will also notice the meetings in different sections of the country upon the subject of Railroads. The remaining part of the paper will contain the literary, miscellaneous, and news matter of the New-York American, as prepared for that paper, omitting all political subjects except such as are of general interest." Letters upon the subject of the American Railroad Journal may be addressed, free of postage, to D. K. Minor, No. 23 Wall street, New York.

The Sora.—It has long been a question among Naturalists, (and still unsettled, unless the fact we are about to mention should put it at rest,) whence cometh the Sora, and whither goeth it? This interesting bird usually makes its appearance along the tide waters of Virginia about the middle of August, and leaves on the first severe frost.

During last week, one of a party skating on a meadow in the vicinity, happened to break in, when immediately extricating himself, four or five Soras came through the aperture, one of which was caught, the others retreated beneath the ice and thus escaped. The captive bird was brought to the town, and has been seen by many, and there can be no doubt as to its species. The Sora does not always emigrate, if it changes its clime at all; which, from its being a clumsy flyer, it is as little able to do as any individual of the feathered race.—Petersburg Int.
