The continuation of general demand for Cotton during the week, especially in the earlier part of it, and [illegible] extensive sales, evidence strong feelings of confidence on the part of buyers, both in speculation and [illegible] trade; the stock on hand, and the supply expected [illegible] rather too large to admit of holders not meeting the [illegible] liberally, so that, notwithstanding very great business, we do not, upon the whole, raise our quotations, since our last circular—though the [illegible] has somewhat advanced on Monday, during the [illegible] days they receded and are now the same as [illegible] last, at the currency of which day the market [illegible] quiet, but without much animation. FOR THE SENATE OF LOUISIANA.

ALBERT HOA.

Mr Hoa & Mr Burthe.

It is worthy of remark that, ever since the announcement of the candidates of the different parties, however political malignity may have desired to brand the character and opinions of Mr Hoa with the seal of reprobation, the efforts of his enemies have been entirely limited to a single charge, a charge, so much the more vague and impotent as although it may be considered a crime by some, it most assuredly constitutes a merit in the eyes of others. The reader need not be reminded that we allude to the support extended by Mr Hoa to the Bank bill, to that project of reform in our financial institutions, to which Edward D White, the truly consistent and patriotic governor of Louisiana, affixed his veto. In the numerous tirades launched by our adversaries against Mr Hoa, this accusation is always made to figure prominently,—it forms, in fact, the sole shadow of a pretext, which the whigs can possibly employ, to extenuate their infamous desertion of a comrade, and affords at the same time a striking evidence of the poverty and [illegible] of their objections. We have exposed over and over again, the crafty manœuvering by which the whig party were made to play into the hands of the Banks, and by which Mr Hoa became subject to this stern edict of political proscription. Our object is not now to renew the subject, since we are willing that our opponents should prate of the Bank bill and denounce Mr Hoa for his support, with all further reply, as we are perfectly confident, that their feeble and meagre animadversions can effect but little change in the intentions of those, as well as Whigs as Democrats who knowing his worth, are prepared to sustain him. We are only surprised that the Federalists have not yet been ingenious enough to discover something more serious against him. They have doubtless examined his entire political career, and as they are so well versed in that species of party legerdemain that can successfully blacken the most unspotted fame, we expected long since to have to combat more specious and solid charges. The stale denunciations of party hacks are too familiar by this time, to excite any other emotion than quiet contempt, and the Whigs should certainly call into requisition other than the oft repeated slanders of the day, if they wish to struggle successfully against the overwhelming tide of Mr Hoa's popularity.

Throughout the entire course of this gentleman's public service, he has displayed the most untiring zeal and devotion to the interests of Louisiana. In every measure calculated to promote her prosperity, increase her commerce, or extend her resources, whether mercantile or literary, he has been conspicuous. He devoted at the late session, with great eloquence and almost single handed, the claims of the Medical College of Louisiana to legislative munificence. A few years since, by his efforts solely, a bill which had already passed the house, imposing enormous taxes on Cabarets, was rejected. Had this bill been adopted the poor and honest cabaret keepers would have felt it as a ruinous exaction, and would have been forced to close their shops, while the wealthy and roguish one would have paid the tax out of the proceeds of the pilfered property extorted from negroes and knaves in return for liquor. At the last session Mr Hoa brought forward and sustained with energy and ability, a bill to grant pecuniary aid to the New Orleans Commercial Library. He likewise gave the whole weight of his influence to the bill to come to the relief of the Charity Hospital. In fact, his conduct has been consistent, and high minded to the last degree, honorable to the state that gave him birth, & creditable to himself as a gentleman of fine talents and the strictest integrity. If such a man is not re-elected to the senate Louisiana will be morally disgraced.

With regard to Mr Burthe, the antagonist of Mr Hoa, his best friend's preserve a profound silence respecting his qualities and claims. One simply prefers him to Mr Hoa, another likes him because he is an older man. If they can allege nothing stronger in his favor, their candidate must be pitiably deficient in the requisite qualifications. We have heard something of Mr Burthe, which may or may not be true, but if true, it should deprive him of the vote of every American citizen. We respectfully put the query whether Mr Burthe did not, on the plea of obtaining an inheritance that had fallen to his children in France, have those children, who were native born AMERICANS, BAPTIZED SUBJECTS OF THE FRENCH KING? We demand a reply to this interrogatory. Public opinion has already nearly furnished one. The rumour is rife in the mouths of honest men of both parties. If the report be correct, we appeal to every voter in the first senatorial district, and ask, whether an individual who comes to this country, becomes a citizen of Louisiana, is elevated to one of the most important offices in the state, and in return, has his American-born offspring baptized subjects of France, whether such a man is worthy of being State Senator, and whether we would not be recreants to every sentiment of patriotism if conferring upon him such an office.

One more query—Did not Mr Burthe peruse and approve the Bank bill presented by Mr Hoa in the Senate at the last session? Did he not behold and sanction this bill, as it was originally drafted, with all its imperfections on its head, with all the obnoxious sections which were subsequently stricken out? We pause for a reply.

Mr Prieur's Qualifications.

The Prieurists have not yet exhausted their imagination in lavishing praises on their candidate. Each day beholds another eulogy, more fulsome and hyperbolical than its predecessor. Mr Prieur is considered by these gentleman as something only inferior to divinity—a political demi-god, with the martial qualities of a Napoleon, tempered by the mildness and the justice of a Washington. His most trivial actions are exaggerated into movements of the utmost consequence—his words are oracles, his will law.

We are well aware of the proneness that exists in the minds of political writers, during a period of warm and bitter party strife, to magnify the abilities and good qualities of their candidates a trifle beyond the limits of discretion and truth; and we are perfectly willing that the Prieurists should assume the privilege, and employ it to any extent short of utter and unqualified absurdity; but really, this overdose of adulation—this "pelting with rose leaves"—this constant, unflagging, system atic species of flattery, has something in it that smacks most strongly of ridicule. Mr Prieur would gain infinitely more by the discreet silence and moderation of his partizans—he would then pass for what he, in reality, is—an honorable, worthy man, with no very signal capacity, or remarkable pretensions; but this persevering effort to establish his claims to a political apotheosis startles credulity and awakens suspicion. People listen to such overcolored eulogies with a conviction that they are entirely false, and conclude, as most persons commonly do, when the marvellousness is somewhat too heavily taxed, that the abilities of the individual are precisely in the inverse ratio to the strained commentaries of his panegyrists.

The prestige, which the Prieurists fondly think, encircles the military renown of their champion, has induced them to overcharge and insist upon this point [illegible] little merit that Mr Prieur might have derived from it, has been completely neutralized by the extravagant and silly manner in which it has been dwelt upon. Divest it of the gorgeous tints which have been thrown around it, and what does it amount to? Simply that Mr Prieur is a brave man; that he was in New Orleans at the period of the attempted invasion by the British, and that, like many other brave men, he joined the standard of General Jackson, and had the misfortune of being captured. It is all very right and proper and fitting that Louisianians should feel a degree of grateful recollection towards all who contributed to save New Orleans from the power of the English foe, and Mr Prieur is entitled, in common with every soldier that bore arms on that memorable occasion, to the thanks of his country—but, as an individual, he is not entitled to one whit more, and it is the most preposterous farce to found his claims to become the executive of the State upon the simple ground of his military services.

Important stress is laid upon the fact, that Mr Prieur entered office poor and went out poor, and we are told to reverence and honor him, because he had opportunities of making his fortune and did not profit by them. We live, in strange times, when we are compelled to do homage to a man for being honest. Mr Prieur went into office poor—very good, and if he had gone out rich he would have owed his wealth to having defrauded the people, yet his friends require us to laud him for not having robbed the citizens. The Mayor fulfilled a duty in the performance of his duties—if he defrauds his citizens, he is a dishonest man. Mr Prieur is not consequently an honest man, but, therefore, a different man. He expended only his own income and not the city revenue; he did his duty, and no more. Had he done otherwise, he would have been detected, exposed and held up to public abhorrence. His partizans had better study some other system of political ethics, before they seek to impose on the good sense of the community, by inducing them to honor a public officer, because he did not rob the citizens.

Another leading feature in the panegyrics of the Prieurists, is their endeavors to represent their candidate as a man of consummate and commanding intellect. We call for the proof of this assertion. We demand a single iota of evidence that establishes the superior ability of Mr Prieur. Where is it?—let us have one piece of tangible testimony to establish this postulate. Give us something a little more convincing than indefinite generalities. What document displaying vigor of thought, extended information or sound views did Mr Prieur ever write? What projects of public utility did he ever propose? What measures of wholesome reform did he ever suggest? Did he ever himself compose a single message of all those transmitted to the different councils? Did he ever himself indite a single one of the innumerable vetoes which characterized his career? Are those vetoes to be considered unequivocal evidence of his enlarged capacity? In the name of common sense, Messrs Prieurists, deal a little less in broad and vague assertions; and make your vauntings good of the intellectual excellence of your candidate.

CONGRESS, June 4th.

The debate of the Indian appropriation bill continued in the House, and some warm words ensued between Messrs Biddle and Downing. After tedious discussion, the question was taken and passed the bill by a large majority.

JUNE 5th. In the Senate Mr Hubbard gave notice that he would move for the indefinite postponement of the bill for the relief of the heirs of Robert Fulton.

Mr Morris offered a resolution proposing the adjournment of Congress on Monday the 2nd day of July, and the re-union on the first Monday in November, with no per diem allowed in the interim. It lies over for one day.

The House bill making appropriations for the suppression of Indian Hostilities was taken up, read twice and referred to the Committee on Finance.

In the House a number of bills from the Senate were read and referred.

SPECIE PAYMENTS. The Baltimore American says "We learn that a meeting of the officers of the Banks of Baltimore, held on Monday, it was determined to ask the Banks in the Eastern, Southern and Western States, to meet in convention either in Baltimore or Philadelphia, in the course of the ensuing month, for the purpose of fixing on an early day for a general resumption of specie payments."

☞ An air and water tight dress, denominated "sub marine armor" has been invented, by which the wearer can walk the bottom of the sea at will, and explore at leisure the sub-agrueous foundation. An ample supply of atmospheric air is furnished from above by means of a forcing machine. The experiment has already been tried in a successful attempt to recover some articles from the wreck of the Bristol, lost some time since near New York. Sufficient property has been found to indemnify the projectors of the enterprize for the expenses incurred in providing the schooner used on that occasion and other necessary equipments.

The Baltimore Banks.

A letter received this afternoon by Mr Bicknell from the cashier of a Baltimore Bank, states that "a communication has been received from the Philadelphia Banks, asking the views of our banks as to a resumption of specie payments. Our Banks met to-day, [Monday] and recommended a convention to be held in Philadelphia about first July, to fix the day. This course was understood to meet the views of the Philadelphia Banks."

Latest from Buenos Ayres.

Captain Reed, of the brig Sophie & Eliza, at Boston from Buenos Ayres March 10th, reports, as we learn from the Boston Daily Advertiser, that just previous to his departure, some of the German residents had endeavored to obtain from the French Admiral, an extension of the time, May 10, allowed for Foreign vessels to leave the port, but did not succeed. The Buenos Ayrean government sent information to the Admiral on the 8th, that the Frenchman who had been imprisoned had been set at liberty; but as this did not meet the demands of the Admiral, no notice had been taken of it. It was thought that before an adjustment, there would be a revolution in Buenos Ayres, and the present state of things strongly tended to weaken the Government.

BANKS OF KENTUCKY.—A letter, to a gentleman of Nashville, dated the 6th instant stated that the banks would resume specie payments on the 11th.

STEAMBOAT CONQUEROR BURNT.—This boat, while at Maysville, from Cincinnati took fire at the wharf, and burned to the water's edge. No lives lost.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE IN NANTUCKET.—A tremendous fire broke out in Mr J. James's Steam Rope Walk, Nantucket, on the 2d inst. It spread rapidly and destroyed about twenty five buildings. The loss is thought to be from three to four hundred thousand dollars. Part of the property was insured. From 150,000 to 200,000 gallons of oil were consumed, on which not one hundred dollars was insured.

☞ During the passage of the Gov. Pike from Louisville to Cincinnati, a deck passenger named Smith, leaped overboard and was drowned. He is said to have been delirious.

ANOTHER MURDER AT ARKANSAS.—Gabriel Sibley of St Francis County, Arkansas, was wantonly murdered on the 16th May at a dinner party, by a Mr James W. Grant, in presence of a large number of persons. The murderer was immediately arrested, but found means to escape and has not since been retaken. The sons of the deceased, who are indigent, have offered a reward of $100 for the apprehension of the murderer.

BRITISH FORTIFICATIONS.—It is said that Sir George Arthur, Governor of Upper Canada, and a corps of British engineers, have surveyed and selected sites for forts at Niagara, Queenstown and the Falls, and that fortifications will be immediately erected on those spots.

Trouble in Canada.

The Lewiston Advocate has the following paragraphs:

The sun has not passed over our heads for the last six weeks without daily witnessing serious rows and riots in Canada, jeopardising the dignity of the crown and destroying the lives of Her Majesty's subjects—and yet no mention is made of them in the Canada papers. On Wednesday afternoon last Her Majesty's negroes at Chippewa, threw a Mr Wright, of St Catharines, out of the window of the third story of Slater's Tavern. We hear that Mr Wright died and the negroes are suffered to run at large. The day after, the negroes of that place put a magistrate and another person in the guard house.

On Thursday night last, the evening of the Queen's birth day, the soldiers at Queenston jollified themselves with whipping their officers to their heart's content. At Brockville the soldiers destroyed a vast deal of property, in one of their regal rows, and at Prescott they had a princely fight. At Niagara seven tailors whipt forty five of the soldiers, 23 of whom will "stay whipt," for they were carried to the hospital with broken heads. At Lundy's Lane the negroes have had several fights and have several times assaulted the citizens in various places on the opposite frontier.

BY THE EXPRESS MAIL.

NEW-YORK, June 5—[illegible] o'clock.

NINE DAYS LATER FROM FRANCE.

By the packet-ship Albany, Capt [illegible] from Havre on the 9th May, we have received Paris papers to the 8th. The Trial of Hubert for an attempt on the King's life, occupies some space in their columns, and the discussion in the Chamber of Deputies relative to railroads much more. Of political news there is not any of interest except the rumors of a dissolution of the Cabinet.

SPAIN.

A Courier who left Madrid on the 2d at midnight brings a supplement of the Madrid Gazette, which contains the following official despatch of brigadier Aspiros, dated Carbonera, 30th of April.

The brigadier of the enemy which invades their province was this day completely defeated by my troops under the walls of Cuenca. Its commander, the colonel of cavalry, Don Pedro Mara, some other colonels, 38 officers, 160 soldiers, some cases of arms, 50 horses and many other articles have become the prize of my brave soldiers, who have gained the honour of being the first to charge the enemy. This new triumph tends securing the tranquillity of the country, gives me an opportunity of going to the assistance of the canton of Maya which is in a deplorable condition. I will transmit to your Excellency as soon as possible the details of this affair; I can only say in the mean time that the enemy's loss in killed and wounded is considerable. Ours, though small, is important, in that Don Zacarius Villar, the brave Captain of the volunteer company of this province, the intrepid Allarez of the provincial royal guards, and Don Augustin Mario were several wounded.

The news produced a favorable impression at Madrid, and the queen has ordered her thanks to be given to Brigadier Aspiros and the soldiers of his column, reserving to herself to determine their reward when the bulletin of the details of the affair arrives.

It is said, that the royal families will pass the month of May at Trianon, and would remain there until the Dutchess of Orleans is delivered of the son so prematurely announced by M Dupin. Some, however, say that apartments will be prepared at Versailles for the Dutchess, as Trianon is too circumscribed to accommodate all the members of the family.

Last night the report was general that the breaking up of the Council, which was prolonged to a late hour, all the members of the cabinet with the exception of the keeper of the seals and the Minister of Interior Affairs, resigned their places. All who believe in the reality of a representative government believe the news, the determination of the President of the Council seemed to them certain, and any doubt as regards him, insulting after the declaration which he himself had made respecting a vote which he denominated an insolent defiance which still the chamber passed, placed before the eyes of the country to the cruel alternative of abandoning their dignity or sacrificing it to the Cabinet.

The conviction of the public became stronger when this morning they saw the Journal des Debats which belongs less to the Minister than the Minister to it add to the defeat of the cabinet by the bourdes of a censure by no means restrained, excusing their want of success only by want of courage, and reproaching them with being unfortunate only because they were unskilful.

Still the minister remains, after all the reverses which he has experienced; he believes himself stronger, and considers as a triumph a majority of 116 against him on a question called by himself one of defiance.—Constitutionnel.

M. Molé yesterday handed in his resignation to the King. If he permitted himself to be persuaded, as it is said that the government could not do without him, he can hardly help perceiving that he has become, by his own fault, not indispensable, but impossible.—Siecle.

On Sunday evening, his Excellency, Lord Granville, the Sardinian Ambassador Gen Bazer [illegible] Russian service, and Count Arberg, had the honor of being received by the King. Yesterday, his Majesty transacted business with the Minister of the Interior and the Chancellor of the Legion of Honor. At two o'clock, the King, Queen, and Princesses, went to Neuilly.

Count Le Hon, the Belgian Ambassador, has returned to Paris.

The 47th Anniversary of the proclamation of the Constitution of May 3d by the Grand Duke [illegible] has been celebrated, this year, by the Polish Literary Society of Paris, with an extraordinary meeting.—The President, Prince Czartoryski, delivered an impressive address to his fellow countrymen, calling upon them, at the conclusion, to show as much moral courage and resignation in adversary as they had displayed valor in the field.

The Madrid journals of the 30th ult, have reached us. The report [illegible] victory over Negri, officially published in the Madrid Gazette, had caused the greatest joy in the capital, and it was unanimously resolved in the Chamber of Deputies that a solemn vote of thanks should be given to him.—The Queen Regent is represented as highly gratified at the numerous attendance at Court, which had to celebrate her birth-day. Cabrera was reported at Madrid [illegible] menacing Cuenca as well as Alcania, which he had not entered, as a legitimist journal stated. A [illegible] from the army of Andalusia of three battalions and 200 cavalry has been ordered to cover Aranjuez, and to protect the mines. Espartero in his report dated from Villafranca de Montes de Oca, states that, on the 25th he was prevented by bad weather from advancing further than Saucuanza and Huermeces in pursuit of Negri's corps, which, however, was [illegible] He marched straight, and early in the morning arrived at Robiedo, which the enemy had only just quitted with the help of guides, his own cavalry [illegible] and the Polish squadron he galloped on, and after coming up with the stragglers pushed on to Mirandiella. Two pieces of artillery, some officers, and men had already fallen into their hands. The main body of the enemy had retired to masses beyond the village and was flanked by [illegible] touching on Prudiana [illegible] After reconnoitring them, Espartero judged that they would not stand a sudden attack, and, therefore, without waiting for his infantry to come, he made a short harangue to the cavalry which he had with him, and charged into the midst of the Carlist lines. The effect of this was the immediate dispersion of the enemy; the greater part of his infantry were cut down their arms, and the rest fled into the hands of the Queen's troops during the pursuit which was kept up as far as Villafranca. All the equippages, horses, mules, arms, ammunition, and artillery, of Negri's corps were taken, and that chief himself escaped with only ten horsemen to Zavala during the same evening. The number of officers of all ranks made prisoners is stated to be 221.

Government has received the following telegraphic despatches:

"BAYONNE, May 4th.—On the 27th ult, Espartero came up with the expedition of Negri, between Burgos and Briviesca, and completely destroyed it, taking 3,000 prisoners, of whom upwards of 200 were officers. All the Carlist baggage and artillery are in the hands of the General [illegible]."

"NARBONNE, May 4th.—Two Carlist Companies, surrounded in the Castle of Oriola, near Vich, by the troops of Baron de Meer, capitulated on April 30th."

PARIS, May 1, 1838.—Government has received the following telegraphic despatches:

"BAYONNE, 3d May.—They are firing cannon at Hernani and St. Sebastian, in rejoicing at a great victory gained by Espartero over Negri, on the 26th, near Pedrahita. It is not known at Bayonne where Don Francisco is."

PARIS, May 7.—Mr Wheaton, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary from the United States to the Court of Berlin, has arrived in Paris.

The tax laid on theatrical representations and places of public amusement, etc. for the support of charitable establishments in Paris, amounted, in 1837, to 842,106 fr, or $162,585.

The damming of the Rhone at the Vitroliere of Lyons has been successfully finished. This arduous operation insures to the city of Lyons all the advantages of its position on the right bank of the river. The steamboats will not have to stop at Perrache, as they have been hitherto forced to do; but in future will be able to come along side any of the quays.

PARIS, May 8.—We learn, from the Constitutionel, that the indisposition of M Thiers has become serious, without, however, causing uneasiness. His complaint is inflammation in the throat, the more painful symptoms of which have given way to an application of leeces. He is not expected to be able to attend the Chamber some days to come.

The indictment against Hubert and his accomplices was published, setting forth all the particulars of his plot against the King. The trial was to commence on the 14th of May.

The bill for the conversion of the 5 per cents had been adopted in the Chamber of Deputies, 251 to 145.

The frigate Nereide had arrived at Brest, from Hayti, having on board the Haytien commissioners and 2,[illegible] 000 francs, part of the indemnification agreed to be paid by the Haytian Government.

The committee to which the subject was referred had reported in favor of granting an annuity of 100,000 franks to the Countess Lipano—the widow of King Murat.

The ex-King of Holland, Louis Bonaparte, was married to the Signora Strozzi at Florence, on the 23d of April.

The Duke d'Archambault de Talleyrand, brother of the famous Talleyrand, is dead.

The advices from Africa were of the most satisfactory tenor.

The 5th of May, being the anniversary of Napoleon's death, a great number of garlands were as usual deposited at the foot of the column in the place Vendome.

LONDON, May 5.—In the Court of Bankruptcy a meeting of the creditors, under the fiat issued against Messrs Warwick and Claggett, the extensive American merchants, who failed during the commercial crisis, was held to-day, for the proof of debts and the declaration of dividends upon the joint and the separate estate of Mr Warwick. The declaration of a dividend upon the joint estate was postponed, in consequence of several large claims standing over for consideration. A further dividend of [illegible] in the pound was made upon the separate estate of Mr Warwick, making the amount paid to the creditors [illegible] in the pound.

LONDON, May 5.—The Thirtieth anniversary of the Society for promoting Christianity among the Jews was held yesterday in the great room, Exeter Hall.—Sir G Rose, on taking the chair, briefly adverted to the objects of the meeting. The Hebrew hymn, at the conclusion of his address, was sung, in which the Jewish children who were on the platform, joined. At the conclusion the report was read, from which it appeared that the labors of the society in the promotion of their benevolent objects were very successful; there was an increase of upwards of £4,000 in the contributions of the present year over those of the past. The great room was crowded, and, among the friends and supporters of the society on the platform, was the celebrated missionary, Joseph Wolf.

LONDON, May 7.

Among the Spitalfields weavers a considerable improvement, and no little degree of briskness, have begun to manifest themselves. This favorable reaction, we understand, has taken place in consequence of Her Majesty having patronised British manufactures.

HANOVER.

The King was to set out for Berlin in a few days, whence he would go to London, it was said, to be present at the coronation. It was supposed that his great object was to negotiate a marriage for his son with Queen Victoria.

The opposition to his measures was growing stronger, being increased by the return of the deputies of the first chamber to their several places of residence.—The assembling of the second chamber was proceeding very slowly, and it was doubted whether a quorum would be got together.
