THE BILL

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1883.

The Legislature will re-consider their sitting to-morrow, in the evening, heretofore occupied by the usual sessions of the State Treasurer and that of the Danish Treasurer have been removed thence.

We are authorized to announce H. F. Debbieux as a candidate to fill the place become vacant in our Legislature by the resignation of D. R. Hopkins, Esquire.

IONIAN ISLES Smyrna Oct. 2.

The expedition for the island of Scio, will sail the 11th of this month. Col. Fabrier is appointed chief of the land force composing it, and Lord Cochrane will second by sea the movements of the army that will be landed on that island.

Since the Greek government has given his consent to this enterprise, the unfortunate Sciotos dispersed at the time of the catastrophe of their country in different parts of Greece, have opened a subscription among themselves and have amassed the sum of 20,000 talars for the relief of those of their brothers who may wish to make a part of the expedition.

The inhabitants of the Ionian isles who have embraced the Greek cause, have united themselves to them and have formed a battalion under the name of Ionian Phalans. The Hydriotas, the Spezzias and Isporiotes, offered the use of their vessels gratis and sent five in advance to prevent the Turkish troops from passing into the island of Scio.

The Sciotos united, have named a commission of five members who are to furnish the munitions for the expedition; the president of it is Pantelys Platis, a very brave man, who enjoys the esteem of his countrymen.

The commission has addressed circulars to all the Sciotos dispersed throughout the different parts of Europe since the carnage exercised in their unfortunate country. Two distinguished persons, friends of Greece, have advised President Platis to write these circulars and to address them to the allied powers imploring them not to permit their armed aid to be sent to the aid of the Sciotos.

The allied powers have agreed to be being without a scruple. This offer was adopted, but as the allied powers have not yet sent their aid, the Sciotos are still in a state of suspense.

COMMERCIAL LAW.

Forgery by alterations.—We observe in a London paper, an account of an action in the County of King's Bench, instituted by Hall and another against the bankers Fuller & Co; to recover the amount of an altered check. Hall had obtained a three-pound check from the bankers for one Wagstaff, which Wagstaff altered to a check for 300 pounds, and the latter amount was paid before discovering the forgery.

The bankers charged Hall with the difference, and refused to allow the amount in the banking account. The chief Justice at nisi prius, had a verdict entered for plaintiffs, subject to a special case for the opinion of the whole court. All the Judges subsequently decided, that bankers are responsible for all money that they pay on forged or altered checks. Wagstaff was under sentence to be executed for forgery.—Phil. Aurora

An insurance case was tried before Lord Tenterden, Lord Chief Justice of the Court of King's Bench in England, in October last, in which a question was determined that may be of general interest. The policy was on a ship from Mauritius to Ireland which was wrecked. It appeared by the testimony of the master, that previously to the ship's departure from Mauritius she was surveyed, and that she appeared to be a perfectly substantial vessel. She sailed on the 4th of July. The master had been in bad health for two months before sailing. Immediately after sailing weather came on, which made him worse. There were two mates on board, both taken in at Madras—neither of whom was competent to take charge of the ship in case of the Captain's incapacity. The ship was injured 18 hours after sailing, the Captain being below at the time.—When he came on deck she was filling with water; and after fruitlessly endeavouring to get at the leak, and save the ship, she was run ashore and totally lost.

The defence was, that by the plaintiff's own witness it was admitted, that the ship had sailed without being properly manned, there not being a second person on board capable of taking charge of her, in case of necessity, and therefore she was not sea-worthy.

Lord Tenterden in charging the jury, was of opinion that a ship could not be deemed sea-worthy unless she sailed with a competent crew. The vessel in question ought to have had, at least, a second person capable of taking charge of her. The verdict was for the underwriters.—Bat. Gaz.

The Washing, has arrived at Philadelphia from Vera Cruz, with specie and medicinal, to the amount of three hundred thousand dollars.

The death of Washington which occurred on the 15th December, 1799, gave the first Consul, (Napoleon) an opportunity of making known his feelings in relation to the United States of America. He wore mourning for this illustrious citizen, and caused the whole army to do the same by an order of the day following, dated 9th February, 1800: "Washington is dead! This great man contended against tyranny; he established the liberty of his country; his memory will ever be dear to the French people, as to every freeman of the two hemispheres, and particularly to the French soldier, who, like him, and the Americans, contended for liberty and equality."

The first Consul gave further orders, that, during ten days, black drap should be suspended upon the flags and standards of the republic.

Guarant's Napoleon.

Thames Tunnel.—On Saturday evening, a dinner was given in the Tunnel, to commemorate the expulsion of Thacker.

About eight o'clock, after the usual hours of admission to the public were over, the festive preparations commenced. Tables were spread for between thirty and forty gentlemen, immediate friends of Mr. Brunel, junior, the resident engineer, who presided on the occasion. The tables were lighted with large handsome chandeliers of portable gas; the smallest arches of the Tunnel were hung with crimson drapery. At a short distance from the bottom of the tables were placed the band of the Cold Stream Guards, who, in compliment to the occasion, had been directed to attend in their uniforms, which added to the great brilliancy of the scene.

Criminal Justice in Georgia.—We noticed some days ago the fact of a convicted murderer succeeding in escaping the sentence of the sheriff.

On the day of execution, but the sentence of the law could not be carried into effect. It appears by the annexed paragraph from the Charleston, that this has not been done, any obstacle to carrying the sentence into effect, by having been removed.

Induced Watts.—This unfortunate man was seized for his crime by yielding up his life on the gallows on Wednesday last, at State Court-house. It is said, that he was starved into submission. The sheriff is represented as entirely blameless in relation to the delay in fulfilling the sentence of the law. On the day appointed for the execution, he was about breaking into the prison on finding the criminal in possession of arms, but deterred from doing so, report says, by the Justice of the inferior court assuring him, that they would make him personally responsible for any damage which might be done to the building. The private papers and confessions of Watts, were, it is said, entrusted to the sheriff, for the information of the community. It is expected they will assert the surprising fact, that Watts, though guilty of a similar crime formerly perpetrated, was not the murderer of Daniel, and that the name of the real murderer will be disclosed.

On Sunday last, in Philadelphia, an elderly gentleman employed a carriage to take a ride; when on the Schuylkill permanent bridge, he offered the driver a bank note in payment for his fare, requesting him to call back with the change in about an hour, stating that he intended to remain there; but before the carriage had got off the bridge, he was seen to leap from one of the windows and was drowned. No cause is assigned for this rash act. His body floated down to Gray's ferry bridge, on the Schuylkill river, and was there picked up.—[Gaz.]

Navarino, the Pylos of the Ancients, and the supposed birth-place of the venerable Nestor, is situated on an eminence, and overlooks the vast harbor of the same name. The Turks took from the Venetians in 1499, and in 1722 built the citadel, which is defended by six bastions. The Russians took it in 1770. It is about ten miles from Modon; and consequently, near the most S. W. point of the Morea.

A Modern Tell.—A few days since, a brickmaker, in the employ of Messrs. Green & Co. Castle Mills, near Goldington, undertook for the trifling wage of a quart of ale, to choot an apple off his companion's hand; which hazardous undertaking he accomplished without his comrade sustaining any injury.

Amovable Justice.—Under the Spanish law, a judge who had given an unpopulous judgment was obliged to take the oath of the party wronged, if the latter chose to challenge him, and the law therefore ordained that a judge, on giving sentence, should put his hands on his own.

Macao.—The Island (or nearly the Island) of Macao is about six miles in circumference. The appearance of it is naked and sterile. It is inhabited by 45,000 individuals; of whom 40,000 are Chinese, and live chiefly in the town of Macao, the remaining 5000 are Portuguese and English. The climate is very healthy, and the heat very endurable. It contains a great number of Chinese temples, fourteen Catholic churches, to which nearly a hundred priests are attached; and one Protestant chapel, belonging to the East India Company.

GOVERNOR CLINTON ON PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Parents to solicit your attention to the true estimate of education, the highest and the lowest, and to do in order to promote the cultivation of those whose nature has gifted with genius, but to whom fortune has denied the means of education. Let it be our ambition, (and no ambition can be more laudable,) to dispense to the obscure, the poor, the humble, the friendless, and the oppressed, the glow of raising to eminence and enjoying distinction.

Which this view, provision ought to be made for the gratuitous education in our colleges, of youth eminent for the talents they have displayed, and the virtues they have cultivated in the subordinate gymnasia. This would call into activity all the faculties of genius—all the efforts of industry—all the incentives to ambition—and all the motives to enterprise—and place the merits of transcendent talents on a level, at least, with the selfishness claims of fortune and ancestry.

REMEMBER, that Saturday next, will afford every one an opportunity of advancing the Prosperity of these
