STIRRING EVENTS.

Our foreign relations—even now complicated and uncertain—promise ere long to become seriously unsettled. We have at this moment a controversy pending with Great Britain on the true signification of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, and another in reference to the violation of our Neutrality laws by British attempts at enlistments on our soil. Either of these difficulties may lead to a rupture, as the apparent policy of the English ministry is to persist in the false interpretation of the one, and to refuse all satisfaction for the other. Add to these sources of discussion the recent intelligence of the outbreak at Panama, and the deliberate massacre of unarmed Americans by bands of infuriated natives, assisted and abetted by the police and the Governor of New Granada, and we presume that Mr. Pierce, with all his pacific intentions, will find work enough upon his hands of a decidedly belligerent character.

But now we have news of a still more stirring nature from Central America, and which will open the eyes and prick the conscience of Mr. Secretary Marcy, if that veteran fogy may be possibly thought to possess a conscience. On the one hand, the refined, gentle and humane Costa Ricans have deliberately murdered in cold blood eighteen prisoners—a part of them Americans by birth—captured at the battle of Santa Rosa, while President Mora proclaims his intention to inflict the same fate on every filibuster taken in arms. On the other hand, these same lambs of Costa Ricans entered Virgin Bay on the 11th in force, headed by their President, shot down and killed nine of the officers of the Transit Company, though defenceless and unresisting, plundered the store, robbed the dead bodies and set fire to and destroyed the wharf. Lastly, it is rumored that the savage Costa Ricans had murdered all the Americans left at Virgin Bay, including four ladies and one infant.

We rather think that these various occurrences will have the effect of compelling our government to display a certain modicum of vigor, and to suspend its rôle of passive observation and non-intervention. If Mr Pierce does not think fit to recognize the government of Nicaragua, it is no reason why he should fold his arms, and with supreme indifference allow a set of uncivilized marauders and cut-throats to commit outrages on Americans, disgraceful to humanity, and which, if tolerated, would be a burning reproach to his administration, and to the American name. The Transit Company at the Isthmus is composed of non-combatants. It is a peaceful association for purposes of commercial enterprise, and it has a right to claim that protection extended by all civilized nations to individuals engaged in lawful trade. We are glad to perceive that Mr. Wheeler has taken up the subject warmly, and we trust his representations will stir our government into a recognition of its duties.

The reports of the blockade of San Juan by a British frigate, and of the proffer by the British government, to the Costa Ricans, of two thousand stands of arms, if true, prove too clearly that Great Britain construes the Clayton-Bulwer treaty after a fashion which America cannot concede without dishonor.—We await impatiently some positive information in regard to the action of our government on these points. If Great Britain is really desirous of driving us into a war, she is unquestionably employing the most effectual means for attaining that result. On her head will rest the awful responsibility of the deed.

Suicide in St. Louis.—Capt. Allen Stevens, a pilot, deliberately shot himself in the head with a pistol, at his boarding-house, in St. Louis, on Monday last. Pecuniary embarrassment, it is reported, caused him to act so rashly. A few minutes before he shot himself, he was seen by a servant girl, sitting in his room in a state of meditation. Her presence aroused him, and he asked her if she should not go out and split her some wood. She replied that she would do it herself, and in a moment or two after going out heard the report of a pistol. The alarm was given, and rushing to his room, the boarders found him still sitting in the chair with his head lying on one of his shoulders, and the blood streaming from the bullet hole in the middle of his forehead. In his hand, which lay across his lap, the pistol was still retained. The deceased has a wife in this city, and a step-daughter in St. Louis.

The advertising columns of the London Times are estimated to yield the establishment the enormous sum of $3,000,000 per annum. One firm alone pays the Times as high as $150,000 a year for advertising, and there are several business establishments that pay it over $50,000 a year for advertising alone.

Philadelphia, April 25.—At exactly 12 o'clock to-day our citizens were informed by the sound of the cannon of the arrival of Mr. Buchanan, ex-Minister to England. The avenues in the vicinity of Walnut street, and the wharf, were thronged with excited and curious spectators, and upon the pier itself a considerable number of persons were gathered. On the arrival of the boat the crowd formed into a line, and as Mr. B. accompanied by Samuel V. Merrick, chairman of the Committee of the Board of Trade, stepped on shore and proceeded to his carriage, cheers in abundance saluted him. One exhilerated individual shouted loudly for President Buchanan and seemed determined to inspire the surroundings with his own enthusiasm. Accompanied by the several councilmen, Mr. B. proceeded to the Philadelphia Exchange reading-room, where he was received and welcomed in a short speech by John Welsh, Esq. Mr. B., in reply, said that he felt as if his foot was again upon his native heath, and knew that in the opinion of his fellow-citizens he had not disgraced his country nor its principles. He had been absent above three years, and was happy to be once more in his native land. He was as a visiter, not as a party man, and he would respond in the same feeling.

The large hall in which the reception took place was crowded in every part. During the progress of Mr. B.'s speech he was interrupted by frequent applauses, and at the termination he was loudly cheered. Mr. B. then proceeded to the Merchants' Hotel, where he was greeted by many friends.

Erie, April 25.—A street fight occurred between young Walker and a Mr. Cochran. Cochran was whipped, and from this grew a general row. The Constitution newspaper office has been destroyed, gutted and burned. The rioters are firing a cannon, and it is proposed to destroy the houses of the railroad men.

New York, April 26.—The condemned slaver Falmouth, recently seized in our harbor, was sold at the navy yard in Brooklyn to-day, with her cargo and fixtures, for $4,676.

Boston, April 26.—Advices from Gibraltar announce the total loss of the screw steamer Minho, from Liverpool for Barcelona, she having come in contact with the transport ship Mildon, off Tarifa. The Minho was sunk, and out of 105 souls on board, only 21 escaped. The captain is said to have gone down with his vessel.

Col. Fremont.—It is a melancholy thing to see a man who has made a name in the world, on account of meritorious achievements, suddenly sink away from public confidence into the mere factionist. Fremont is by birth, we believe, a South Carolinian. He performed important services to the country, and to science generally, by his hazardous enterprises, and entitled himself to the respect and gratitude of his countrymen. But Col. Fremont, like other ambitious men, went into politics, and from national politics into sectional faction, and is now regarded as the most available man in the Black Republican party for the Presidency. He had written a letter to Robinson, the Gubernatorial pretender in Kansas, whose course he endorses, and promises to stand by him in the battle with slavery in Kansas. [illegible]

BATTLE OF RIVAS.
Walker's Victory Confirmed!
MASSACRE OF THE COSTA RICANS.
MINISTER WHEELER'S PROTEST.

By the Isabel, at Charleston, copies of El Nicaraguense, of the 19th of April, were received. The Charleston Standard publishes the following important details [illegible] from that paper.

Second Battle of Rivas—500 Costa Ricans Killed—Americans Lost [illegible] Killed of the Enemy.

Rivas has again been the field of a bloody conflict. On the morning of the 7th, intelligence reached Granada that, immediately after the departure of the American troops from Rivas, a force of 1500 or 2000 Costa Ricans entered and took possession of the city. As the information was authentic there was no time to be lost on the part of Gen. Walker in making ready to repulse the enemy. By daylight on the 8th inst., a force of 500 men, including 100 native troops, were on the march from Granada to engage the presumptuous invader. Gen. Walker, in person, was at the head of the army. The force under his command encamped the night of the 10th within nine miles of Rivas, and in the meantime it had been ascertained beyond doubt that the city was held and fortified by 3000 Costa Ricans and Chandistas. Early on the morning of the 11th the march was resumed, with the prospect ahead of a lively engagement. Evidently to the surprise of the enemy, the Democratic force instead of entering the city by the usual route from Granada, came in by the road leading from San Jorge or Virgin Bay.

The troops, without halting, were assigned their respective positions, and instructed as to appropriate points of attack. The battalion under command of Col. Sanders, was ordered to enter by the street leading along the West side of the Plaza, and the East side was to be charged by the force under the command of Col. Fry. With a whoop and a yell, a rush was made for the Plaza, and as the troops were discovered by the enemy ascending the eminence which concealed the approach to the city, they were saluted with a volley of musketry, which gave indication of a firm and obstinate resistance. On both sides of the Plaza a brisk and incessant fire was kept up by the enemy, but the fearless and undaunted forces of the Democracy charged them with as much rapidity, that in less than five minutes the Americans were in entire possession of the Plaza.

The Costa Ricans abandoning an open attack, precipitately betook themselves to the barricades and fortressed houses, and from their places of protection and concealment, continued an unremitting fire. Their cannon, too, with thundering voice, gave testimony of the efficiency of the preparations for defence. To prevent the destruction that must inevitably ensue [illegible] was the determination was instantly formed and carried into execution by Lieut. Colonel Sanders, of taking it from the possession of the enemy.

The order to charge was given, and the gallant colonel, followed by [illegible] soldiers, rushed, heedless of peril, into the face of danger, and, with the loss of four men only, succeeded in capturing that essential weapon of war. It was immediately brought and stationed at the Northeast corner of the Plaza, and placed under the control of Captain McCardle, a most excellent and intrepid artillerist. The ammunition belonging to it was also seized, and a few minutes only elapsed before the weapon that was destined for the destruction of the Democratic forces, was pouring a fatal fire upon the Costa Ricans.—Enraged at the loss of their gun, they made [illegible] thundering, [illegible] rapidly followed by the deadly discharges of the Mississippi rifle, intimidated their endeavors, and drove them back to their place of concealment. In the meantime, 15 or 20 riflemen stationed themselves on the roof of a building, from which they could plainly observe a large body of the enemy on the back street. A continuous fire was kept up by these gallant fellows, and at least a hundred of the enemy fell from their destructive aim.

The conflict became too fierce for the enemy, and 300 of them were discovered making their rapid retreat in the direction of San Juan del Sur. Following the retreat of these, about 12 o'clock the enemy received a reinforcement of 250 men from Virgin Bay.—Captain Waters, of the Rangers, who held possession of the tower surmounting the unfinished cathedral on the North side of the plaza, immediately communicated to Gen. Walker information of their approach, and a body of men was sent to protect that portion of the town. In the meantime, Captain Waters and his rangers, from their commanding position, opened upon them with their rifles, and did most signal execution.

The intention of the enemy of surrounding the city and hemming in Walker's forces in the plaza, was thwarted with the most gratifying success. The N. W. corner was held by Col. Don Bruno Natzmer and Major O'Neil with their command, and over a hundred dead bodies of the enemy were ample proof of the gallantry of these officers, and the intrepidity of their men. The Southwest corner was in charge of Captains Rudler and Mason, with their companies, and that, with the exception of the position held by Lieut. Col. Sanders, was the one from which the greatest danger was to be apprehended.—Those brave officers and their brave men maintained their ground against a concealed fire with a firmness and courage deserving of the highest commendation. Some of our noblest spirits in the exhibition of this point of feeling and undaunted courage, fell martyrs in the cause of democracy. Among them, it should not be deemed invidious to mention Lieut. Morgan, of Gen. Walker's staff, and Lieut. Doyle, of the army, men of as sterling heroism and as true hearts as ever belonged to humanity. From three corners of the Plaza a constant fire was maintained from 8 o'clock in the morning until noon. Four hours of unremitting service in the field, following a tedious march of more than two days, had necessarily the effect of burdening the energies of the soldiers with irresistible fatigue. The enemy, too, seemed to have become weary of the fight, and little firing for an hour was done on either side, except by sharp shooters, adventuring chances at long distances.

The temporary cessation of hostilities by the enemy was discovered to be a ruse for the purpose of secretly possessing themselves of the building on the Northeast corner of the Plaza, where, unharmed, they could pour a destructive fire upon the American troops stationed directly in front upon the Plaza. This stratagem of the enemy was discovered by Lieut. Gay, and communicated by him to Gen. Walker. Ten true and fearless men, armed with rifles and Colt's revolvers, were all that were required to dispossess the enemy of their position. They were composed of Captains Houston and Potter, of Walker's staff; Col. Kewen, Major Rodgers, Major Webber, Captains Breckenridge and Mahon; Lieutenants Winter, Stith and Gay. A few privates joined, making the number thirteen. Crossing the street under fire, they pressed through the corner of the building that was sought to be possessed by the enemy, to the far end of the corridor, which was partially barricaded by an adobe wall or breastwork. From that position they cautiously surveyed the enemy, and hastily determining the plan of operations, the order to charge was given, and with a yell and a bound they rushed in the direction of picket fence, behind which the enemy were cautiously making progress. The yell was immediately responded to by a roll of thirty guns, but as the attack was so sudden, the disconcerted foe were unable to aim with precision, and the only damage effected was a slight wound inflicted upon the hand of Captain Breckenridge, not interfering at all with his prosecuting the charge. The fence was gained without loss, and thence a brisk fire opened upon the retreating enemy. They fled for protection behind a neighboring building, whence with more security they could prevent pursuit. It was necessary, however, that they should be driven entirely from that vicinity; and in order to get a position to effect that object, it was necessary to cross a street exposed to the enemy's fire.

It was a hazardous experiment, as the opposition force was ascertained to be more than a hundred strong. Nothing daunted, however, the thirteen essayed the perilous adventure, and although the bullets whistled in fearful proximity to them, not a man was touched. The position they sought was gained, and then to cement the crack of the rifle became the death-knell of the foe. The enemy sought to retain their ground, and turned to the fray with apparent zeal and eagerness. In this engagement Capt. Houston fell mortally wounded. With his parting spirit escaped the pulsation of a true and valiant heart. As an atonement for the death of Captain H. not less than thirty of the enemy were made to bite the dirt. Those of the remaining twelve became too [illegible] for the Costa Ricans to brave, and [illegible] compelled again to relinquish [illegible] and seek shelter elsewhere. They [illegible] precipitate retreat, but were hotly pursued. Fortifying themselves behind a wall, they again turned upon their pursuers and opened a determined fire. In this assault Lieut. Gay was wounded. The enemy again fled, with the loss of eight or ten more, and succeeded in reaching the building from behind, whence they again sought to repulse the advance of the Americans. In the pursuit Lieut. Gay was mortally wounded, and "French Louis" killed. The enemy never good their [illegible]. The fight on the Plaza had almost ceased, and during the day and night there was little firing, except by a few of the enemy ensconced, with Minie rifles, firing from concealed places. The possessors of these weapons were Englishmen or Germans, who had long experience in their use. The majority of the Americans fell at the hands of these foreign mercenaries, who have hired themselves out in service against the liberal party of Central America.

This battle of Rivas, the second fought in that city by General Walker, was vigorously contested. The strength of the enemy was [illegible] and the [illegible] and so forth; [illegible] to fight at every disadvantage.

The Costa Ricans lost six hundred men. The early retreat of three hundred, and the subsequent, almost entire abandonment of the city, are sufficient indications of their defeat. The American loss does not exceed thirty, and the wounded is the same.

John R. Mora, President of the Republic of Costa Rica, and General-in-Chief of the Army of Nicaragua:

All the filibusters taken with arms in hand will be subject to all the rigor of the law, which is that of death. But all filibusters who have not used their arms against this Republic, and give up out of free will their arms and persons to officers of the Costa Rican army, shall be pardoned.

Appended to this was the following list of persons taken prisoners at St. Rosa, and subsequently shot on the 24th of March:

James Solomon, Ireland; John Pikin, Italy; Andrew Courtaniss, B. Amen, Manuel Grego, Cuba; Theodore Lidiken, American; Henry Bero, Ireland; Isaac A. Rose, American; Henry Jobelter, Germany; Peter Fymer, Ireland; Phillip Johnut, Germany; Peter Connar, Ireland; James Hollin, do; Antoine Porrn, France; David Koek, Germany; Wm. Phillip Egan Toothy was also taken prisoner, but his punishment was changed to imprisonment, because he was the correspondent of the New Orleans Crescent.

United States and Costa Rica—Murder of American Citizens—Forcible Letter of the American Minister to President Mora.

Republic of Nicaragua, Granada, April 15.

This day came before me, Charles Mahony, a native and citizen of the State of Pennsylvania, aged 33 years, who being duly sworn, saith, That he has been for the last four years in the employ of the Transit Company on the Isthmus, as an engineer, and as such was employed as superintendent for building the wharf at Virgin Bay; that on Monday morning, the 17th of April, the army of Costa Rica, headed by John R. Mora, the President of Costa Rica, entered said Virgin Bay. The defendant was standing in front of the office of the Transit Company, with Aaron B. Cooles and John Brown, employees of said Company.

The troops of Costa Rica immediately surrounded the office, and an order was given to fire by the officer in command, when at least one hundred shots were fired. Three of the balls struck this deponent, and killed Peter Malone, a citizen of New York, a stone quarrier in the service of the company. 3d. Michael Long, citizen of New York. 3d. Thomas Walsh, citizen of New York, in company's service. 4th. Wilson, of Easton, Pa., in the service of the hotel. 5th. A lad, native of N. York. 6th. Thos. Hannegan, of New York, company's service. 7th. Thos. Loyd, of New York, Transit Company's service. 8. A lad from California. 9th. Keenan, of Pennsylvania. All of whom, except Long, who lived eight hours, died immediately. Michael Kashford, of Jersey City, was wounded.

None of these persons killed or wounded had any arms, or made any resistance whatever. The forces there broke open the doors of the store, broke open trunks, and robbed the dead persons of money and valuable. On the following morning, the steamer Virgin came into the harbor, and this deponent was sent by an officer to request the Captain to come ashore. He went ashore and remained on board, leaving the forces of Costa Rica in Virgin Bay, and came in the steamer to Granada.

The conduct of the Costa Rican troops was barbarous and savage; for, after the massacre, persons were shot, and lay [illegible] on the ground, they [illegible] with bayonets and swords. This deponent has heard since he left Virgin Bay, that all the Americans left resident there, including four ladies and one infant, have been murdered by the Costa Rican troops. He further states that he does not believe the life of the American Minister is safe at this time.

CHARLES MAHONY.

Signed and sworn to before me this 15th day of April, 1856.

In addition to his former testimony, C. Mahoney testifies that they set fire to the wharf built by the Transit Company, and completely destroyed it. It cost $130,000.

The forces of Costa Rica have now the possession of the Transit route on the isthmus, and the officers have declared that they are determined to exterminate every American now in the country, and in this intention they were sustained by the Merchants of England and France, from whom they could procure, and had procured material aid as to arms and munitions.

CHARLES MAHONY.

Legation of the United States, Republic of Nicaragua, Granada, April 15, 1856.

Sir—The enclosed statement shows me a state of facts which you are already aware of; that on the 7th instant unarmed and inoffensive citizens of the United States were cruelly butchered at Virgin Bay, by the troops under your immediate command.

I have also seen your proclamation, that all persons taken with arms in their hands shall be shot; and another, that all American citizens shall be immediately driven out of Costa Rica. To prove the sincerity of your first proclamation, you append a list of persons who were taken prisoners at St. Rosa, and shot on the 24th of March, among them I find the names of Isaac A. Rose and John J. Gildin, natives of the United States.

I have no right, and certainly no disposition to interfere in any way with the unhappy war now raging between two sister Republics; but it is my right as well as my duty, to inform you, as Chief Magistrate of Costa Rica, that the acts of murdering in cold blood unarmed American citizens, who are in no wise connected with any belligerent act, or party, is an offense against the law of God, of humanity, and of nations.

This offence is too [illegible] aggravated by the fact that those who committed so wanton an outrage were under your immediate command. That you were on the ground, and did not prevent it, as it was in your power to do.

I would remind you of the letter of Mr. Molina, the Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of our government, dated Washington, 13th Dec., 1854, to the Secretary of State of the United States, wherein he states that "the laws of Costa Rica are exceedingly liberal (on the subject of granting lands) and offered great facilities to emigrants who would come to Costa Rica and fix their residence there.

The treaty between the United States and Costa Rica, made in 1853, in the 12th article, guarantees to citizens of the United States residing in Costa Rica, in their persons and property, the protection of your government. Under these inducements and guarantees citizens of the United States have come to settle. What excuse can be offered, or how will you appear in the eyes of the world, when you publish a proclamation expelling these same persons without being guilty of any crime, and murdering them without mercy?

In the name of the United States and of the government thereof, I protest against such infamous conduct; and be assured, sir, that the government of the United States, aided as you may be, by invidious and powerful allies, will inquire into such acts of lawless violence, and if unexplained and unatoned for, will take decided measures to protect the lives of our citizens and vindicate the honor of the nation.

Rumors have also reached me that some fourteen or eighteen citizens, four ladies, (one with an infant) were recently murdered by some troops at Virgin Bay. I am slow to believe so diabolical an outrage. John B. Sawler, Esq., the bearer of this, is instructed to inquire, in the name of the United States, for this information, into the facts touching this rumor. I send him with my flag with this despatch, and I pray that you give him a conduct through your lines, and a prompt reply to

Your obedient servant,

J. H. WHEELER
Minister of U. S. America.

To his Excellency J. R. Mora, President of Republic of Costa Rica, in Camp at Rivas, Nicaragua.

In addition to the foregoing details, we find the annexed despatch in the columns of Thursday's Mobile Tribune. It will be seen that it adds somewhat to the accounts furnished by El Nicaraguense:

The steamship Orizaba has just got in from Greytown.

The Orizaba brings news confirmatory of the reported defeat of the Costa Ricans by Walker; but adds that he was compelled to abandon his vantage ground from want of ammunition. The battle lasted eighteen hours.

The Panama Outrages.
GOVERNMENT ACTION UPON THEM.

Washington, May 1.—The Government will take prompt and decided measures relative to the outrages committed at Panama.

A vessel of war will be sent immediately from the Atlantic coast to the scene of the murderous transactions; and it is not improbable that a commission will be also sent to ascertain the real facts of the affair.

GREAT FIRE IN PHILADELPHIA.
TWO MILLION DOLLARS LOSS.

Philadelphia, May 1.—A most terrible and destructive fire took place in this city last night.

The fire broke out in Jessup & Moore's paper warehouse, on North street, below Race.

The New York and Erie Railroad depot on Centre street was partially burned. It is an immense structure, covering four blocks, occupied by innumerable tenants, whose losses were heavy. The total loss is estimated at two millions of dollars.

The following despatches were published by the Mobile papers of Thursday. They failed to reach here by telegraph in consequence of the interruption of the line between Mobile and New Orleans.

Additional by the Persia.
WAR RUMORS IN EUROPE.

New York, April 30.—Late advices received from Italy, by the Persia, speak of a growing difficulty between Austria and Piedmont. The former power is sending large bodies of troops into Lombardy and strengthening her garrisons in that district.

Although the armies of these two powers have not actually come into collision, they are virtually at war with each other.

The general impression abroad seems to be that Austria avoids bringing affairs to a crisis, and is holding back with the intention of fomenting a difficulty between France and England on the Italian question.

NEW YORK COTTON MARKET.

New York, April 30.—The Cotton market here has been firm under the advices by the Persia, with sales of two thousand bales.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Washington, April 30.—In the House to-day Hon. John A. Quitman, in a speech on the state of affairs on the Isthmus, advocated the repeal of the Neutrality laws, and the seizure of the isthmus by the government.

Hoosierdom is a great country and no mistake, but we must say that the following story of its fertility, told by the Indianapolis Journal, is rather steep:

Fertile County.—Hamilton county is a very fertile county. We always knew that, but we never knew that it was so prolific as it appears from the following circumstance in a friend informs us that one night recently, a farmer in the Southwestern corner of the county was presented by his wife with three girls; by his cow with two calves; by his mare with two colts, and by his old sow with twenty pigs, all in the same night. Can any other county beat that? This, we are assured, is a fact.

Death of John von Henery.—Egiede Van Kehr, born in France, a soldier of Napoleon I, was expatriated by the government after the downfall of the great general, when the Bourbons resumed their dynasty, and came to the United States, died in Erie county poor-house last week, where he was conveyed on the morning before death. He came to this city near thirty years ago, and avoiding human society, has made his home in the forests around the city, living in hollow trees or burrowing in the ground. He would speak no English, although he was versed in the language, repeating that he would not speak the tongue of those who defamed and deserted Napoleon. He was a companion of Napoleon in his brilliant march of the great army upon Russia, and returned with the wreck of its innumerable squadrons, on the fatal and horrible retreat from the conflagration of Moscow. During the whole of the recent cold winter he slept in an old barn.—Buffalo Republican.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

For Nicaragua.—The stirring news received yesterday from "the seat of war" in Central America produced great fervor in our city and hundreds of adventurers, brave spirits are all anxious to join the heroic Walker and his intrepid little band, who are engaged in regenerating that beautiful, but misgoverned and distracted country. The schooner Minna Schaefer is to sail on Monday for San Juan, and is, it is expected, will take out upwards of 200 men. Those desirous of going can procure passage of Captain Douglass J. Wilkins, No. 10 Royal street.

Amusements.—The Ravels appear for the last time but one at the St. Charles theatre this evening. To-morrow night will be the last night of the season at the St. Charles.

Adolphe Adams's popular opera, "If I Were King," will be performed at the Orleans to-night.

At Armory Hall, Davis' Minstrels give their sixth concert. They will remain but a few nights. We would advise our friends to give this capital band of Ethiopian delineators a visit before their departure.

At Vannucchi's Museum, St. Charles street, a fine collection of wax statuary and cosmoramas are on exhibition. Also the Central American horned cock, which has excited so much wonder in the minds of ornithologists who have seen him.

The Chief of Police Committed for Contempt of Court.—The Chief of Police was committed for twenty-four hours to the Parish Prison yesterday morning, by Recorder Bright, for contempt of Court. The matter grew out of an affidavit made by a person of the name of Daimler, against Mr. James, before Recorder Bright, charging him with assault and battery and false imprisonment, he having been arrested and confined in the Second District lock-up. The case was continued for examination on the 7th inst., and the Recorder told the Chief that he should procure bail in $1,000. The Chief replied that he would go out and get the required bail, but the Recorder refused to let him leave the Court, and desired him, in a very peremptory manner, to leave the witness stand, on which he was standing at the time. Mr. James said he would leave when he got through. This remark the Court considered into a contempt of its authority, and ordered the commitment, as stated. The Chief was sent down in custody of an officer, but returned in about an hour afterwards, and gave the required bail. The question of contempt was left over till to-day, the Chief being discharged upon security by the Recorder.

Committed.—Charles Green, John Robinson, alias Daugherty, and J. H. Cole, were examined yesterday before Recorder Bright on a charge of having, on Saturday last, stolen $150 from the schooner, Condor, and were committed for trial before the First District Court. HAS received from France, England and New York, a large assortment of surgical instruments and Orthopedic Apparatus, such as anatomical instruments, knives, dissecting cases, pocket cases, instruments for autopsy, for amputations, for trepanning, obstetrical instruments, instruments for eye operations, for artificial pupil, for lacrymal fistula, for strabismus, for operations on the eyelids, Bougies, instruments for stricture, cupping instruments, dentist's do, a complete assortment of instruments of various sizes and prices.

Elastic knee braces, suspensory bandages—various models—artificial limbs, mechanical arms and legs—various models—assorted crutches, elastic leg supporters for the cure of false anchylosis of the knee, do for the relief of distortions; apparatus for the cure of club feet, and a complete assortment of instruments for the cure of every species of human deformity.

Injecting Apparatus of Various Models.

Adrien Petit's hydroclyse with continued stream, operating with one hand, syringe pumps of various models. All the bandages and apparatus are applied to the satisfaction of customers. All the instruments and apparatus are of assorted sizes and prices. Surgical and other instruments repaired with promptitude and despatch.

It is well known that it is extremely difficult, when one's not upon the spot, to obtain proper herniary bandages. By observing the following directions, I believe there would be no difficulty of being satisfactorily accommodated. First of all, the form of the desired bandage should be indicated in the clearest and most precise manner, next, whether the rupture is inguinal crural and umbilical, in the two former cases, if it is on the left, right or on both sides, if it is small or large, if the spring should be weak or strong, and finally the circumference of the pelvis must be given if the hernia be crural or inguinal, and the circumference of the abdomen if the hernia be umbilical. These various measurements must be made with great exactitude upon the naked body, and must be made known to me with the utmost precision for every species of apparatus.
