ORLEANS HIGH SCHOOL,
Esplanade Street.
EZRATUS EVERETT, A.M., Principal & Proprietor
THE course of instruction in the main buildings is taught by Mr. EVERETT and three Assistant Professors, selected with a view to good character and skill and experience in teaching.
The system of education embraces the Grammar and Literature of the French, Latin, English, French and Spanish Languages; History, Geography, Rhetoric, Versification, Logic, Political Economy, Moral Philosophy, Book keeping, Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry, Natural Philosophy, & Chemistry.
No pains are spared in imparting a thorough knowledge of these branches, so that all students who resort to this Institution may be fitted to enter with advantage upon the duties of the more responsable avocations of life, or upon the study of the learned professions.
As the Modern Languages, (particularly the English and the French) and the higher Mathematics receive very special attention, the school offers singular advantages to boys designed for mercantile pursuits.
☞ For particulars see the prospectus, which may be found at Mr. Steel's Book store, 14 Camp street; at Mr. Lelievre's, Royal street; or at the School, 57 and 59 Esplanade street. 1m-1y

ST. LOUIS' INSTITUTION.
DIRECTED BY MADAME DERON.
BOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES.
(Years 1850—'51.)
No. 145 St. Louis st. between Dauphin & Burgundy.
THIS Institution, founded nearly twelve years ago, combines every material, moral, and intellectual advantage. Madame Deron, formerly principal and proprietress in the "Institut de la Legion d'Honneur," (Maison St. Denis,) has founded her Seminary, as much as possible, on the model of that great establishment, as well as on the plan of the first Northern Academies.
This situation of St. Louis' Institution is one of the most agreeable and salubrious in town. The whole locality, including dormitories, class and study rooms, and play ground, is kept dry, airy and airy, and overlooking several gardens, is in so healthy a position, that, not a single pupil has experienced the least serious illness.
The plan of instruction both in French and English embraces all the literary and scientific branches of a finished education.
The study of English is the object of particular attention. Madame Deron is scrupulously careful that the creole Young Ladies should not lose time to the study of the English language and literature than to any other branch. Mr. Orton, a professor well known in New Orleans, combines this course of lessons every day. Two English governesses reside in the establishment, preside over the elements of the English language, and the progress of the pupils by the continual use of that language in all the relations of ordinary life.
With respect to the moral education of girls, besides the lessons of able professors and governesses, M. and Madame Deron themselves instruct in the different branches, and are constantly guided by the unceasing efforts to insure the stability and rapidity of the progress of their pupils.
The principal Ministers of Music, including the piano, harp and singing, is under the direction of Madame Lavallebeuvre, an excellent mother mistress, who formerly held lessons in Louis' Institution, and who is now especially attached to the establishment. This young and talented lady, was justly called by the Journal des Artistes, celebrities of Louisiana, successor to the study of Music in Madame Devon's Academy a most high dignity. Her talents can be relied upon in example to precept, and this is often the secret of the scholar's advancement. A musical amateur of the highest order, she is intended to prove the rapid and brilliant progress of Madame Lavallebeuvre's pupils.
Religious and moral instruction, which is the basis of every really good education, has received greater developments than in any other Boarding School in the city. Madame Deron and her company tends the religious exercises of the Catholic pupils, and M. l'Abbe Tholomier prepares them for their first communion, and for confirmation by giving religious instruction several times every week in the Chapel of St. Louis' Institution.

YOUNG LADIES' ACADEMY,
DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL
Directed by Mrs. A. Clark,
Corner of St. Peter and Rampart sts., No. 178.
MRS. CLARK respectfully informs her friends and families, that from the first of September she has succeeded to Mrs. D'Hallis in the management of her Boarding School. This Academy, which is already so well known for the good order and superiority of its classes, will have all the improvements which a long experience has taught, for the moral and physical welfare of the pupils. The domiciliaries are large and well ventilated. Mrs. CLARK, who places herself to the direction of the French and English classes, will be assisted by able English and French Professors, who have been long attached to this establishment. The greatest attention will be paid both to the conduct and progress of the pupils. There will be no holiday during the week.
Parents are respectfully invited to visit the establishment.

New Orleans Female Institute.
FOR DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES.
At No. 252 Camp street.
CONDUCTED BY MR AND MRS B MACAULAY.
THIS Institution is under the personal supervision of Mrs. Macaulay; the advanced classes in the literary and scientific departments are taught by Dr. Macaulay, assisted by another gentleman. To give instruction in the French, Spanish and Italian languages, in Drawing, Dancing, Vocal and Instrumental Music, the most accomplished professors are employed.
The school is arranged so as to make it both an English and a French school, and the aim of the principals is to conduct their pupils through a substantial and systematic course of studies, adapting at the same time a progressive knowledge and progressive discipline of the heart as well as the mind. For the instruction of pupils of every age and grade of intellectual culture, ample arrangements have been made. No efforts will be wanting to promote the improvement of the pupils, and a young ladies reared in the family as boarders, will share in the enjoyments, privileges and attentions of daughters.
The play-ground—an item essential in a school—is large, dry and secluded from public view; and references, when required, will be made to parents who have had their daughters at the Institution for years.
A course of lectures on History and Biography will be delivered to the advanced classes by Dr. Macaulay, during winter; and to aid the pupils in understanding the lectures on scientific subjects, the school is furnished with the requisite apparatus.
For further information application may be made personally or by letter.
P. S. To enable DR. MACAULAY to give undivided attention to the duties of the Institute, he will retire from teaching at Madame DESRAYAUX'S.

JEFFERSON ACADEMY,
53 Bourbon street, New Orleans.
CONDUCTED BY J. G. LORD.
THE plan of this Institution comprises a general and extensive system of education. Pupils are admitted at six or seven years of age, and can continue till their education is completed, or till they are prepared for their future pursuits in life.
They are distributed into classes according to their talents and advancement.
The seminaries are perhaps the best to be found in the city, with ample space for exercise and recreation, every necessary convenience is combined for an institution of learning on a large scale.
The Professors are gentlemen of talents, chosen with care. Good order reigns in the establishment, and strict attention is paid to the moral conduct and improvement of the pupils.
