

THE BELL

FRIDAY, MAY 14, 1853

Extract from a letter dated Paris, April 4. We are authentically informed that orders have been given for the first division of the French expedition to the North...

It is rumored that an order has been received from Washington, directing the company of the United States troops, now at Sackett's Harbor, to remove forthwith to the disputed territory on the north-eastern boundary of the United States...

It is also said that a communication to Congress is daily expected from the President, which will be received with closed doors...

A law has been introduced into Congress, and has, we understand, passed the House of Representatives, allowing the Parishes of Iberville, St. Mary, St. Martin, Lafayette and St. Landry, each 10,000 acres of land, to open our navigation with the Mississippi...

GREEK.—The Committee of the Greek National Assembly at Egina have drawn up a declaration addressed to the European Powers respecting the limits of the Grecian States, as contemplated in the treaty of the 30th July. This document is important...

LEAGUE, March 22.—The conduct of Don Miguel still continues extraordinary. His recent visit has lowered the price of the Government Paper Money 25 discount, and there is no doubt for the other Securities...

The first act of Sir F. Leake, in his official capacity, has been worthy of an English Ambassador. He has refused permission for the 24 barrels of shell, which Remondini sent from Boston on board his cutter, the Sir William Carr...

We understand that the last despatch from Calcutta, received by the Court of Directors, being favourable to the views of the former Directors of the Company, a Government...

Memorandum and German papers received on Tuesday morning, say, that the Emperor of Russia has ordered his army to leave St. Petersburg...

On Tuesday evening, pursuant to public notice, a most numerous and highly respectable meeting of the friends and supporters of the Society for educating the native Irish, through the medium of their own language, was held in the Music-Hall, Bold-street...

The Rev. Mr. Blackborne moved the next resolution, and expressed an ardent wish that, ere long, the Emerald Isle would be as distinguished for holiness, as it is for its abundant internal resources...

The Rev. Mr. Riddicom, in a strain of most impressive eloquence, proposed the next resolution, which was seconded by the Rev. Mr. Daly in a long and eloquent speech, in which he took a comprehensive review of the operations of the society since its establishment...

The Rev. Mr. Daly proposed the next resolution, which was seconded by the Rev. Mr. Cropper, who, for his able and proper conduct in the chair, and in the name of the Irish language, tendered him his undivided thanks for his exertions to improve the condition of the country...

Mr. Priestley moved the next resolution, which was seconded by the Rev. Mr. Cropper. The Rev. Mr. Daly proposed the next resolution, which was seconded by the Rev. Mr. Cropper...

Mr. Cropper returned thanks, after which the meeting separated. Collections were made at the different doors, and we believe the contributions were considerable.

The House of Lords on Tuesday night, was almost exclusively occupied in the discussion of petitions in favor of the Roman Catholic claims, and the repeal of the Test and Corporation Acts...

In the House of Commons, after several petitions of a similar nature had been presented, Mr. W. Stewart proposed to bring before the House a petition from three Unitarians, the first...

was for a copy of the reports made by Colonel Cockburn, who was sent out as a Commissioner to our Colonies in North America; the second for a report of the Passenger's Bill; and the third to enable the parties of England to pledge their Poor Rates for loans of money to enable them to assist a portion of the redundant population to emigrate...

The right hon. Gentleman, after some further observations, concluded by moving that as humble address be presented to his Majesty, that he be graciously pleased to order that there be laid before the House copies of the report of Col. Cockburn, on the subject of Emigration to the Colonial Department, together with the instructions received by him, from that department, on the 6th of January, 1827.

THE great Panoramic picture of the City of Paris, the Capital of the Kingdom of France is now exhibiting in the building on the public square of Rampart street.

The view is taken from the roof of the south end of the palace of the Tuilleries; the spectator therefore imagines himself placed on this elevated situation which commands an extensive prospect over the whole city.

Immediately under the eye of the spectator is a northern direction, in the roof of the King's apartments, and on the right hand the long picture gallery stretching eastward as far as the Louvre;—This gallery bounds the place de Carrousel on the south side, and the new gallery on the north, in the centre of this square is seen the triumphal arch.

On this square Bonaparte was wont to review his battalions previous to their departure for their respective destinations, and here oft the walls resounded with the clang of martial music. On the west side of the palace the opera-house looks down on the Garden of the Tuilleries, and beyond that is the distance is seen the palace of the Ordes de Meubles, and the woods of the Champ Elysees in the distance.
