

AVIS A CEUX QUI ONT BEBON D'ARGENT.

Il se trouve des personnes qui de... d'argent, elles n'ont qu'à adresser...

LOTTERIE DES ECOLES PUBLIQUES.

Table with lottery prizes: 1er Prix de 5,000, 2e de 2,000, 3e de 1,000, 4e de 500, 5e de 200, 6e de 100.

Billets entiers 5 piastres, demi 2 et de... quarts dix escalins.

Aujourd'hui le Tirage! LOTTERIE DES ECOLES PUBLIQUES.

Grande Loterie de 4,000, 4,000, 300,000, 100,000, 100,000, 114,000.

Billets: 25, moitié 10, quarts 5. Papiers de 10 billets, 50 piastres.

Qui a voulu à la dernière Loterie, des Gros Lots: 24 23 4 lot principal 510,000.

PANORAMA DE PARIS.

Une grande peinture panoramique de la ville de Paris est maintenant ouverte au public dans la place de la Courneuve.

La vue est prise du haut du toit de la partie méridionale des Tuileries en conséquence le spectateur doit se figurer qu'il est placé dans cette situation élevée qui commande une partie considérable de la capitale.

Immédiatement sous les yeux du spectateur vers le nord, sont les croupes des appartements du Roi, et sur la droite la grande galerie des salons, se prolongeant jusqu'au Louvre.

Si l'on considère de combien de grands événements politiques Paris a été le théâtre, événements qui durant les trente dernières années ont bouleversé l'Europe, on comprendra qu'aucun sujet de peinture ne pourrait offrir plus d'intérêt au public.

Le spectacle intéressant est ouvert au public, tous les jours depuis 9 heures jusqu'à 5 heures du soir.

Le Souffleur, Adjudicataire de la ferme des Licences à accorder aux Cabarets, Poteries, et autres personnes, trafiquant, vendant, ou échangeant des marchandises sur les grandes routes et les cours d'eau dans cet Etat, prévient ceux qui ont pu se procurer, que son bureau est ouvert tous les jours au coin des rues Conti et de la Levée, No. 43, où l'on délivre les divers licences pour douze mois, au taux qui est fixé par l'Assemblée législative, approuvée le 25 Février 1825, conformément à l'article intitulé 'Art. 1er' du règlement de l'Etat et au paiement des dépenses causées de l'année 1825 pour d'autres objets, approuvé le 25 Avril 1825.

Le Souffleur prévient ceux qui trafiquent ou vendent eux-mêmes, ou par leurs esclaves ou salariés, hors des limites de cette cité, qu'il a vu contre ceux qui ne seront pas munis de licence.

Il annonce également que Mr. P. B. Henry est son agent, et qu'il est autorisé, en conséquence à délivrer des licences signés par moi.

Il a placé dans chaque paroisse un agent de surveillance, l'année est de 850 à 100. Ceux dont le terme des licences se trouve expiré, sont requis de venir les renouveler, sous les peines énoncées ci-dessus.

6 mai. LOUIS ALLEPY, fermier.

REGUS par les navires Américains du Havre, et Dewitt Clinton de New-York.

Circassienne Bourcaou Couidi Cotonnade croisée Guinguis, Madama, Mouchard demi-deuil. A vendre chez AUGUSTE BIOTAT, 188 rue Toulouse.

CHEVAL TROUVE. Il a été trouvé le 13 de ce mois, sur la Levée, entre les deux Halles, un cheval blanc, petite taille, marqué M sur la croupe droite. Il n'a pas d'autre marque distinctive. Il a été trouvé sans selle ni bride. On prie le propriétaire de le réclamer, en s'adressant à JEAN GOFFROD, Rue de la Levée.

THE BIRD SATURDAY, MAY 24, 1825.

As the Governor of New Brunswick is to be present at the arbitration, by the Emperor of Russia, of the United States boundary question—the Governor of the State of Maine should also be present.

It will doubtless be regretted that the prisoner was last seen upon her trial on one of two indictments, charging her with the wilful murder of her father and mother, by infusing a large portion of arsenic into some grog which she administered to them, and they died in consequence; but although there was little doubt of her guilt, in consequence of the absence of material witnesses, the surgeon's assistant, learned judge (Bayley) directed an acquittal, and ordered the other trial which was for the murder of her mother, to be put off until these assizes.

There is a strong indication of war between Russia and the Porte. The Liverpool Albion of the 17th. says: "Russia, incensed at the conduct of the Porte, rather bent on aggrandizing herself at the expense of Turkey, has resolved to attack the latter power, and to wage hostilities against it on her own separate account, and to avenge her own individual quarrel. The details connected with this momentous event will be found below, and so them we refer our readers. We have no room to indulge in conjectures as to what is likely to be the result of this movement of Russia. Despatches were unquestionably given to Prince Lieven, the Russian minister in London, of a hostile character, as regards Russia and the Porte. And it is not improbable, that in consequence of the Turkish Firmans, the former may order Frank to cross the Pruth, and take up a position on the North Bank of the Danube, in order to cut off the supplies from Moldavia and Wallachia, and to prevent the desertion of those principalities by the Turks. The present intelligence "bath this event, no more."

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

From the London Courier, March 15. Russia and Turkey.—A Russian messenger and a French one arrived this morning. A cabinet council was held to-day, and was sitting when our paper went to press. The week is closing upon us, and leaving us in a state of great anxiety for the next arrivals from that which, if not already become the seat of war, is likely to become so immediately. The Russians, after crossing the Pruth, expected to stretch along the bank of the Danube, and thus prevent the Turks from drawing supplies, or making in the inhabitants of Moldavia and Wallachia. Meanwhile a report prevails, and is circulated with great confidence, that the Reis Effendi had, some time ago, but after the departure of the allied ambassadors, a conference with the ambassador of the Netherlands, in which he expressed his regret at the departure, particularly Mr. Stratford Canning's who might have been the channel of re-opening a communication with Russia, and of whose return he was very desirous.

She had on board 2450 barrels of flour, all of which she was robbed of by the Spaniards; the mate and one of the crew were killed, and the cook, the captain had arrived at Nassau.

From Dore's (Liverpool) Gen. Merchant. Murder at Presburg. Jane Scott, aged 21, was put upon her trial on an indictment charging her with the murder of her mother, Mary Scott, on the 17th. It will doubtless be regretted that the prisoner was last seen upon her trial on one of two indictments, charging her with the wilful murder of her father and mother, by infusing a large portion of arsenic into some grog which she administered to them, and they died in consequence; but although there was little doubt of her guilt, in consequence of the absence of material witnesses, the surgeon's assistant, learned judge (Bayley) directed an acquittal, and ordered the other trial which was for the murder of her mother, to be put off until these assizes.

Mr. Dore Hulloch, in a very feeling manner, addressed the prisoner upon the enormity of the crime of which she had been found guilty, and whilst he expressed his conviction of the propriety of the verdict stated at the same time the impossibility of his being able to give her any hope that the sentence which was his duty to pass upon her would not be carried into effect. The learned judge, in the usual terms, sentenced her to be executed on Saturday, and her body to be given to the surgeons for dissection.

When the prisoner was about to make her appearance at the bar this morning of her trial, she came from what is called the penitentiary—she walked across the Castle-yard with one of the attendants, with a sad step and apparent composure; but it is right to state, that for some few days she had shown some marks of contrition—still she expected an acquittal. When she left the dock and had to retrace her steps to the penitentiary, she said to her attendant, "Well, now, tell me the truth—tell me what you really think—fattery and deception are out of the question." She was told, "Jane, depend upon it, you must and will suffer on Saturday morning." She then became frantic—the poignancy of her mental suffering—the sting of conscience—became almost too much for her, and with some difficulty she ascended the steps to the penitentiary.

Arrived there, she told the truth—she acknowledged the fact—she did more she acknowledged that she had administered the poison to her father and mother, but she further stated, that she had administered poison to one child, the offspring of her own body; and to another, the offspring of a relative. The detail is revolting—suffice it to say, that she was conveyed to a cell, there to reflect upon her past conduct; and there, if possible, to make her peace with God. After a short time had elapsed, the Rev. Mr. Rowley, the chaplain of the Castle, attended her, to give her all the religious consolation in his power.

From the period when sentence of death was passed upon her, she took no sort of sustenance until Saturday morning, when she took a little refreshment. At an early hour on Saturday morning the scaffold was erected, and some time before the hour appointed for the execution, the area opposite the Castle wall, as well as the churchyard, was crowded with people. At twelve o'clock the door in the Castle wall leading on to the scaffold opened, and the Castle bell commenced tolling. The wretched woman was seen to appear, but the sight was truly appalling; she was then led to all sense of understanding, and seemed as if life was, even at that time extinct. She was carried or dragged on to the scaffold by two female prisoners, preceded by the executioner, and followed by the reverend chaplain. Her eyes were closed, her head hung back, and she never moved a muscle or a limb. The rope having been adjusted, and the cap placed over her face, the two women left her, and she would then have fallen to the ground, had not the rope supported her by the neck. She made no struggle or motion to stand but swung round. The fatal signal was then given, and the unfortunate woman was launched into eternity.

After hanging the usual period, the body was cut down and taken inside the Castle, for the purpose of dissection.

A little man asking how it happened that many beautiful ladies took up with but indifferent husbands, after many fine offers? was thus aptly answered by a mountain maiden.—A young friend of her during a walk requested her to go in a delightful canebreak, and there get him the handsomest reed; she must get it once going through, with out, brought him quite a meau-

When he asked if that was the handsomest reed, she saw! she replied, "I had many more as I went along, but I kept on in hopes of a much better, until I had gotten nearly through and then was obliged to select the best that was left."

In Thompson's "History of the Royal Society," we are told that Dr. Hallycote used to relate a conversation that passed between Queen Caroline and the celebrated Dr. Hallycote, one of her visits to him, which is illustrative of what we have been advancing.—Queen Caroline expressed her regret at the smallness of his salary as Astronomer Royal and offered to use her influence, with his majesty to get it increased. Dr. Hallycote requested the Queen not to make any such application. "Why," said he, "the consequence of an increase of salary will be, that the place will come in time, to be bestowed on some younger or son of some nobleman, to supply the office, but drawn to it merely by the emoluments."

A facetious canon of Windsor taking his evening's walk, as usual, into the town, met one of his clerics at the castle gate, returning from a neighbor's port. "So, sir, whence came you?" said the canon. "Why," said the vicar, "I have indeed been spinning it out with my friend." "Aye," returned the canon; "and now you are feeling it loose, I see."

Securing Remedies.—For the gout, toast & water, for bile, exercise; for corns, easy shoes; for blue devils, bluntness; for rheumatism, new shoes; for patience; for the toothache, suck it out; for debt, oxalic acid; and for love, matrimony.

On the fence.—The phrase "on the fence," is a very common one, and originated as follows: Gen. Washington once asked a negro man belonging to Imlay, of New Jersey, whether his master was a whig or tory? The reply was—"Massa on de fence—him want to know which de strongest party."

ADMINISTRATION TICKET. Domestic Manufactures.—Internal Improvements. ADAMS EXPRESS: JAMES VILLIERS, of St. Bernard, ANDRE LE BLANC, of Assumption, C. BUSHNELL, of East Baton Rouge, N. DELOUET, of St. Martin, E. MOSES, of Natchitoches.

FOR CONGRESS: JUDGE EDWARD D. WHITE. FOR GOVE. VOR: PETER DENIGNY, ESQ.

ST. LEONARD'S. G. A. WANGAMAN, of St. Martin, P. LANDREAUX, of St. Martin, M. DURALDE, of St. Martin, ANTONIO BUCROS.

BY J. LE CARPENTIER. WILL be sold on Saturday the 24th instant, at 10 o'clock A. M. at his auction store, by order of the syndics of Bousse, sen. all the goods and effects surrendered by said Bousse, to his creditors.

Ten Dollars Reward. Were stolen from the subscriber on the 22d of April last, two American Horses; one grey, old; very large legs and wounded on the shoulder, the other black, with a small white star in front, with a mark near the left leg, occasioned by the rubbing of the girth.

The above reward will be given to any person who will bring said Horses to No. 146 Esplanade street. FRANCOIS LABROUCHE DUSIN. May 9.

PANORAMA EXHIBITION. THE great Panoramic picture of the City of Paris, the Capital of the Kingdom of France is now exhibited in the building on the public square of Rampart street.

The view taken from the roof of the south wing of the palace of the Tuileries; the spectator must therefore imagine himself placed on this elevated situation which commands an extensive prospect over the whole city.

Immediately under the eye of the spectator in a northern direction, is the roof of the King's apartments, and on the right that of the long picture gallery stretching eastward as far as the Louvre;—This gallery bounds the place de Carrousel on the south side and the new gallery on the north, in the centre of this square is seen the triumphal arch.

On this square Bonaparte was wont to review his battalions previous to their departure for their respective destinations, and here oft the walls resounded with the clang of martial music. On the west side of the palace the spectators look down on the Garden of the Tuileries, and beyond that in the distance is seen the palace of the Garde de Meubles, and the woods of the Champ Elysees in the distance.

When we consider that Paris has been the theatre of so many great political events which have convulsed Europe for thirty years past, few, if any subjects of equal interest for a picture could be offered to the public.

Admittance—30 cents. New Orleans, April 30, 1825.

TO BE DRAWN TO-DAY, THE PUBLIC SCHOOL LOTTERY, HIGHEST PRIZES: $6000, 4000, 3000, 2000, 1500, 1000, 1900, 1140.

Grand Capital Dollars—$50,000. Tickets 50 Cents, 25 Cents, 12 1/2 Cents, 6 Cents, 3 Cents, 1 1/2 Cents, 3/4 Cent, 1/2 Cent, 1/4 Cent, 1/8 Cent, 1/16 Cent, 1/32 Cent, 1/64 Cent, 1/128 Cent, 1/256 Cent, 1/512 Cent, 1/1024 Cent, 1/2048 Cent, 1/4096 Cent, 1/8192 Cent, 1/16384 Cent, 1/32768 Cent, 1/65536 Cent, 1/131072 Cent, 1/262144 Cent, 1/524288 Cent, 1/1048576 Cent, 1/2097152 Cent, 1/4194304 Cent, 1/8388608 Cent, 1/16777216 Cent, 1/33554432 Cent, 1/67108864 Cent, 1/134217728 Cent, 1/268435456 Cent, 1/536870912 Cent, 1/1073741824 Cent, 1/2147483648 Cent, 1/4294967296 Cent, 1/8589934592 Cent, 1/17179869184 Cent, 1/343597383