INSECT TENT.

A NEWLY invented article called an insect tent is now on view at our gallery at No. 46 St Charles street opposite the Exchange Hotel, of such an elegant and novel form and construction, and so light portable and comfortable, that it must meet with universal approbation.

As a complete protection against mosquitoes and all winged insects, without causing the least inconvenience in a room, this tent is all that the manufacturer claims, and is positively desirable. It will give to the total exclusion of all insects a comfort and luxury never before approached by any other mosquito lounge. The tent is suspended from the ceiling of the room, hung on a hook or any other thing to which it may be distantly attached, and has its fastenings so low as to allow the occupant to lie down on the floor, or a very low bed. It is quaint to hold that it may be instantly folded up into a bundle not larger than an umbrella, and ready to take its place and be as much out of the way as a suspended lamper chandelier would be, and it may be as quickly unfolded and prepared for use. The time required to form the tent after its fold is upon the way will not exceed quite more than one minute. It will be unnecessary to be down informed of its simplicity, durability, and the ease with which it is constructing that it cannot get out of order. It is intended to be used for sitting, reading, writing, dining and sleeping and, in fact, for all purposes of a dwelling. Lovers and officers, and may refused by researchers, sportsmen or parties of pleasure, while intent on work. People will never know the comforts that may be had in sleeping in their warm regardless of sometimes until they have tried the invented tents. They may be made of any required dimensions and of any desired richness in ornament.—These new and perfect specimens, are square and 5 feet 6 inches in diameter, 7 feet 6 inches high, and weighs 25 lbs. It will make a bale of 4 feet 8 inches long and 8 or 10 inches in diameter. The cost of one is only $20.

The ladies should examine this new tent, especially as it will afford them complete protection against the bites or annoyance of the insect nuisance of the ordinary mode of protection against insects. The tent is perfect in really one of the most useful and comforting inventions of the day and should be used by every family either in the cities or in the country.

The above description of the insect tent now appears to be a grant and calculated to give the reader an idea of the nature of it, but it is not so to the eye with notices and advertisements of such things, but the public may be assured that no such art implies been made, in this article, of which people will be convinced by calling at our St Charles street. 19 2m

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.
New-Orleans, May 17th 1841.

THE undersigned is authorized and prepared to contract for the cutting of a canal through the Rapides of Red River, in the parish of Alexandria, provided the same can be done in accordance with a plan and estimate made by the late T. Dunbar, Esq. Civil Engineer, of the State of Louisiana, and in accordance with an appropriation made for the purpose by the Legislature of the State—all of which can be seen at the office of the Board in this city of New Orleans, on application to E.
