CATHOLIC EMANCIPATION BILL.
PASSED.—In the House of Commons on the evening of March 30th, Mr. Peel having moved the third reading of the bill for the relief of the Irish Catholics, the Marquis of Chandos proposed an amendment, that it be read a third time that day six months, i. e. rejected. A long debate ensued, in which Mr. Moore, Gen. Gascoyne, Mr. Cust, Mr. Place, Mr. H. Davis, Sir Robert Inglis, and Mr. W. Bankes, appeared as the advocates of the amendment, and Mr. Peel, Mr. Fitzgerald, Mr. Villiers, Mr. Campbell, and the Solicitor General against it. At 3 o'clock in the morning of the 31st, the question was taken, and there appeared.

For the amendment, 142.
Against it 530.

Majority in favor of the Bill, 178.

The bill was then read a third time and passed.

The Morning Post of the 31st says, "It is to be presented to the House of Lords this day. No debate is likely to take place on the first reading. The great discussion will be reserved for the second stage of the bill, which is expected to be fixed for Friday or Monday next."

The Duke of Wellington had a long interview on the 30th with Mr. Peel, and afterwards left town for the king's Palace at Windsor, to have an audience with his Majesty.

Mr. James, v. l. w. of the late Bishop James, of Calcutta, has arrived in England.

London, Mar 31.
We received last night by express the Paris papers of the 29th inst. The Gazette de France of Sunday states, on the authority of letters from Swerva, all the circumstances relative to the frequent interviews of M. Jaubert with the Reis Effendi at Constantinople, which have already been so often mentioned in our communications received through various channels. The same article then proceeds thus:—

"The calculations which certain persons have made to prove the impossibility of starving Constantinople may not prove very correct, however, the article has just taken a measure, by which it is expected to relieve this scarcity. The following is the translation, which has just been sent, of the agreement between the Stiechiebat Naziri and the Austrian and Sardinian merchants:

"His Excellency the Stiechiebat Naziri, Minister of State for the administration of provisions, on the one hand, and the Austrian and Sardinian merchants on the other, have made a Convention between them, by which the price of the wheat called arrant, that is to say, hard, of Tigarock, has been fixed at 10 roubles per kilo; that of the hard wheat of Odessa and Ismael at 9; that of the wheat called kiron, or soft, of Odessa, at 8 1/2; and that of the soft wheat of Ghiazlerri at 7 1/2. It has also been agreed, that on the vessels arriving at Constantinople, no regard should be paid to the greater or lesser amount of the cargoes of these ships; that one should be discharged here and the other have permission to pass into the sea of the Marmora; and that independently of the cargoes, which in consequence of this arrangement shall sail from the Black sea, the passage shall also be permitted to vessels in ballast. This convention having been approved of by his Excellency the Reis Effendi this Teskire has been delivered."

LONDON, March 30.
Private letters from St. Petersburg, this morning, are of a very warlike description. A great addition of cavalry is going to be added to the Russian armies, and a vast quantity of new accoutrements, of the best qualities, have been sent to the head quarters; a line of battle ship has been sent from Toulon to Naples to be under the orders of Count Guilleminot, by which it is supposed he is going on board to proceed to Constantinople.

Letters from Corfu, to the 4th of February, state the English Admiral has given orders to his ships in the Archipelago to return to Malta.

SEMLIN, March 7.
Five hundred cavalry from the domestic troops of the Pacha of Travnik, are all marching to the direction of the camp at Choumla. A corps of Arnauts under the command of a renegado, are also said to have gone thither. It was uncertain whether the Pacha would join them or not. The enrollment in Bosnia is going regularly forward; and it is affirmed that 20,000 men are to be engaged in active service upon the Danube, and 30,000 for Livadia, which, however, appears to be altogether disproportioned to the Mahomedan population in Bosnia. The newly appointed Grand Vizier, Redhid Pacha, might have already arrived in Choumla, if he had not been detained at Constantinople by the Sultan. The Pacha of Belgrade, who feared the loss of his post, on the dismissal of the former Grand Vizier, is said to have received favorable information from Constantinople, and will probably remain in Belgrade.

A piratical vessel had been captured and destroyed by a boat from the British brig Atalaya, near Cassandro, in the Gulf of Salmicia. A lieutenant and 5 men were wounded. The pirates attempted to escape by jumping into the sea, but four were captured and carried into Malta.

Letters from Gibraltar state that many merchants had left that place to establish themselves in the free port of Cadiz.

The Courier of March 26th, says— "The Ambassadors of France and England will repair forthwith to Constantinople, the Emperor of Russia having consented that the representatives of these two states shall carry on, in the name of the three Powers, the negotiations relative to the execution of the Treaty of London. Much remains to be done on this subject, and many difficulties to be overcome. But we trust that the benefit of their return to Constantinople will not be confined to the Greek question. Being on the spot, they can take advantage of any favorable opportunity for disposing the Porte to open a negotiation with Russia for the settlement of all the differences between them."

The London Courier, of March 30, says—According to the Gazette de France of Saturday, a new treaty has been concluded and signed between England, France, and Russia, which relates to the settlement of Greece, and has been sent to Constantinople to be ratified by the Turkish Government.

After the engagements entered into by the three Courts in 1827, no new treaty was necessary. Their object was defined, their determination clear and firmly expressed, and the steps since taken to carry it into effect have been equally public and decisive. We are happy, however, to be able to confirm the statement of the Gazette, that the most perfect harmony continues to exist between the three Powers.

At Pekin, the capital of China, a newspaper of extraordinary size is published weekly; it is printed upon silk stuff. It contains no foreign news whatever, but dwells entirely upon domestic occurrences. This Gazette claims, it is said, to have been in existence for about one thousand years past, and enjoys an uncontested reputation for veracity. In the year 1727, a public functionary dared to cause some false intelligence to be intruded, and was punished with death, since which time no similar instance has occurred. Divers sheets of some of the numbers of this Gazette, bearing date the 18th and 26th February, 1798, are preserved in the Royal Library of Paris, which are ten yards and a quarter in length. There are likewise Chinese visiting cards there, the size and color of which depend on the rank of the individual who sends them. They are also of a colossal size. Lord Macartney received one of those visiting cards from a viceroy, with which he could have had a moderate sized room haw.—Balt Gaz.
