HONOR TO HENRY CLAY.

There is to be a great ball at Niblo's on Monday evening, the 10th instant, in honor of Henry Clay. Although we have no sympathy with balls as such, yet we deeply feel that any compliment which may be paid to the great statesman of the West, falls far beneath the merit of his service. With profound admiration we watched his course through the arduous conflict which resulted in THE COMPROMISE; and are full in the belief that without his powerful cooperation, that great achievement of legislative diplomacy would not have been accomplished. Far be it from us to disparage the patriotic exertions of other men, such as Webster, Cass, Dickinson, Foote, and many more. Some of them may have made even greater personal sacrifices than he; and the honor which belongs to him does in no way detract from that to which they are entitled. We would that they could all be here, to share in the applause of the above occasion. Mr. Clay was, however, in an important sense, the father of the scheme; he first presented it, in its substantial features, and he illustrated and enforced it with all the energies of which he was capable. Nay, the very greatness of the effort and the imminence of the crisis, gave him unwonted powers, both of mind and body, and he bore up against a torrent of opposition, with a steadfastness which evinced at once his honesty and his patriotism. Long may he live to enjoy the fruits of the triumph.—N. Y. Jour. of Commerce.

The patriot Statesman who fearlessly does his duty, in the midst of trials and bereatments, and who spurn alike the hollow praises of the multitude and the bitter animosity of partizans, may sometimes, even in this world, look for a noble appreciation of his motives and his conduct. Such has been the case with that bold, inflexibly honest and lofty minded Statesman, HENRY CLAY. To him belongs the crowning glory of living down opposition, of silencing slander, and of reaping the reward of political honesty, not merely in the smiles of an approving conscience, but in the heartfelt aprobation of all good men. Here for instance is the Journal of Commerce—a paper of high reputation of acknowledged ability, which for a series of years, has been battling against the theories and doctrines sustained by Mr. CLAY, and especially against those opinions on the subject of protection to Home Industry, of which Mr. CLAY was in some sort the originator, and which he has embodied as a fundamental article in the political creed of the Whig party. Yet the same Journal of Commerce, which at one period could never afford a kindly word to the illustrious and venerable patriot; which has time and again, labored long and arduously to defeat him and to blot out from the history of the government every vestige of his services, now disarmed of its opposition and compelled to render homage to transcendant worth and virtue, expresses "profound admiration" for Mr. CLAY and bears willing and enthusiastic testimony to his honesty and his patriotism. This is a moral victory of which any Statesman might well be proud. It is the triumph of truth, manliness, rectitude, and indomitable firmness over long cherished prejudices and ingrained antipathy.

We cite the case of the Journal of Commerce as a pointed illustration of the fact that eminent services are not always destined to become pensioners on posterity. Let it not be imagined that the paper in question stands alone, or that Mr. CLAY has encountered justice and impartiality in but a single quarter. Wherever independent Republicans are to be found; wherever candor and sincerity outweigh the fickle breath of popular caprice; wherever intelligence and liberality exist unawed by the imperious voice, and unintimidated by the insufferably oppressive despotism of faction—there may we look for admirers and venerators of the aged patriot, who has given his life and his services to the country, and who, now trembling on the verge of that unfathomable abyss which divides time from eternity, still stands prepared to consecrate to America the last lingering hours of waning life. Thrice glorious old Hat. of the West! when thy parting spirit is about to fly from its earth'y tenement, it will yet fondly cling to the hallowed memory of the country, over which it so long and so unremittingly watched, and not until the heart which it inspired and the brain which it animated have become dust, will it surrender to others its noble and exalted mission.

CREVASSE AT LAKE PROVIDENCE.—The Carroll Republican of the 15th inst., says, the Point Look-Out Levee gave way on Monday, the 10th, about the middle of the day, while a number of persons were there watching it.

We understand it gave way from the heavy pressure of the water, the levee being new and not able to bear it. Some forty or fifty feet of the levee bursted up all at once, and then the levee on each side of the break continued to wash away rapidly from the great force and rush of the water it being some eight or ten feet deep.

The opening is now supposed to be between a quarter and a half mile wide, and the ends of the levee are still washing off.

TEXAS.—By an arrival from Galveston, we have received Texas papers to the 14th inclusive. They contain nothing of interest. The population and productions of Eastern Texas are increasing with great rapidity. In many counties they have doubled.

STEAMBOAT SUNK.—The officers of the steamer Texas, which arrived this morning from Red River, reports that on the morning of the 13th instant, the steamer Jim Gilmer, then lying at Sabine landing, "Soda Lake," sunk, having on board 637 bales Cotton. She was from Little River bound for Shreveport; the steamer New Latona had taken a portion of her cargo on board. Two persons, the cook and one deck hand were drowned. The boat is a total loss.

DEATH OF GEN. BROOKE.—We learn from Captain Lawless of the steamship Louisiana, arrived yesterday from Galveston, that an express arrived at that place previous to their sailing, who reported that General Brooke died at San Antonio on the 9th inst.

JENNY LIND AT MEMPHIS.—The Nightingale gave a concert at Memphis on the night of the 14th. The receipts exceeded $7,000.

DEATH OF GEORGE MCDUFFIE.—We regret to learn (says the Columbia Telegraph of yesterday,) by a despatch from a friend at Camden, that General GEORGE MCDUFFIE expired at 9 o'clock A. M. yesterday, at the residence of Richard Singleton, Esq., in Sumter. The event at any time for years past would not have been considered improbable from his condition of physical prostration and suffering, but coming now near the anniversary of Mr. Calhoun's death, it must excite sadness and regret. The name of GEORGE MCDUFFIE is now enrolled on our list of the departed whose memories Carolina will ever cherish, and to this list the last few years have made fearfully rapid additions.

FIRE PROOF TILLER ROPES.—We learn from the Washington Union of Friday, that the late Dr. J. H. Johnson, of New Orleans, has discovered "a method whereby cordage, sheeting, and, in short, all vegetable fibre can be rendered completely fire proof." The inflexibility of wire tiller ropes renders them almost useless; consequently if this discovery can be made effective, it may be considered one of the most important of the innumerable age. The widow of the inventor is now in that city for the purpose of calling the attention of Government to the invention, which is one of chemical combinations.

☞ The balance of the troops and Lafayette estate, comprising about 80 lots, will be sold THIS DAY, at 10 o'clock, at Beard's Auction Mart, as authorized by Mr. Beard, to state that the whole will be positively sold to the highest bidder. A good chance offers itself to speculators.

MR. WEBSTER AND HIS OLD SCHOOL MASTER.

We learn says the Gloucester News, of the 5th inst., that Col. Jas. TAPPAN, a venerable citizen of that town, now eighty-four years of age, has the honor of being one of Mr. Webster's earliest teachers—it was more than sixty years ago. The old gentleman regards with an honest pride the fame of his illustrious pupil, and a few days since addressed to him a letter, recounting to him some incidents of boyhood, and the leading events of his political life, with a brief sketch of his own ups and downs since he taught school at "New Salisbury."—The letter was promptly answered, and inclosed was a fifty dollar bank note.

"We doubt, says the Gloucester News, "if any letter that Mr. WEBSTER has written to public bodies, or any of the thousand great and noble acts of his life, reflect more credit upon him than this kind letter and generous gift to his aged, and unfortunate old school master.—It was only by much persuasion that we induced the old gentleman to allow us to make public an act which was expressly intended to be private, and he only yielded because convinced that it did honor to the character and heart of his distinguished pupil."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26, 1851.

Master Tappan:—Ithank you for your letter, and am rejoiced to know that you are yet among the living. I remember you perfectly well as a teacher in my infant years. I suppose my mother must have taught me to read very early, as I have never been able to recollect the time when I could not read the Bible. I think Master Chase was my earliest schoolmaster, probably when I was three or four years old. Then came Master Tappan. Most of those whom you knew in "New Salisbury" have gone to their graves. Mr. John Sanborn, the son of Benjamin, is yet living, and is about your age. Mr. John Colby, who married my oldest sister, Susannah, is also living. On the North Road is Mr. Benjamin Hunton, and on the "South Road," is Mr. Benjamin Pettingall. I think of none else among the living, whom you would probably remember.

You have indeed lived a chequered life. I hope you have been able to bear prosperity with meekness, and adversity with patience. These things are all ordered for us, far better than we could order them for ourselves. We may pray for our daily bread; we may pray for the forgiveness of sins, we may pray to be kept from temptation, and that the kingdom of God may come in us, and in all men, and his will every where be done. Beyond this, we hardly know for what good to supplicate the Divine Mercy. Our Heavenly Father knoweth what we have need of better than we know ourselves, and we are sure that his eye and his loving kindness are upon us, and around us every moment.

I thank you again, my good old master, for your letter and your gift, which has awakened many sleeping recollections; and with all good wishes, I remain your friend and pupil.

DANIEL WEBSTER.

Mr. James Tappan.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE SENATE.

On the 8th instant Mr. Upham presented the credentials of the Hon. Solomon Foot, of Vermont. Mr. F. appeared and took his seat.

Mr. Morton presented a communication from the Hon. D. L. Yulee, claiming to have been elected senator by the Legislature of Florida, and that the Hon. N. Mallory who received the Governor's commission was not legally elected. Laid on the table.

Mr. Bright moved to take up the order that on Monday the Senate would adjourn sine die, and after debate the motion was lost.

Several resolutions of inquiry were offered and adopted.

The resolution directing that each Senator be given 12 copies of the Congressional Globe, was debated and rejected.

The resolution allowing extra compensation to the employees of the Senate was taken up and debated for more than two hours, and then adopted.

After an Executive Session, the Senate adjourned.

☞ The National Intelligencer says: The statement so positively made in several from this paper, and extensively repeated in the northern papers, of the removal from office of Mr. LAWRANCE, Commissioner of Patents, we have reason to believe to be entirely unfounded.

So, also, the statement that Mr. ASHTON has been appointed Collector of the port of Boston.

WALL STREET BANK EXCITEMENT.—A telegraphic despatch from Albany, states that all the notes of the Lewis County Bank which were presented on Friday, were redeemed. Previously an opposite statement was received by some of the New York brokers. They consequently declined purchasing.

A despatch was also received at New York, announcing that the Hollister Bank of Buffalo had not and would not fail.

The failure of Messrs. Austens and Spencer, the auction house, is confirmed. Their liabilities are supposed by good judges to be about $1,000,000, a large part of which, it is believed, will be ultimately paid.

THE CHARGES AGAINST MR. WEBSTER.—The Boston Journal of the 8th publishes an authorized statement from Messrs. Greely and Otis, relative to the charges against Mr. Webster. It is to the effect that the conversation between them in July last, related entirely to the rumor relative to the formation of the Cabinet, and whether Mr. Webster was to be Secretary of State.

Mr. Otis believes that Mr. Greely said to Mr. Havens, in addition to stating that Mr. Webster had been offered the office, that Mr. W. hesitated on account of the pecuniary sacrifices he would have to make; and that Mr. Havens replied that he would write to Mr. W., urging him to accept the place.

Mr. Greely has no recollection of this as coming from Mr. Havens, but thinks Mr. Otis confounded the conversation then held with another. It is agreed that there was nothing in the statement that could by any ingenuity be perverted to the purpose of showing a proposition from Mr. W. to obtain money, or that could be used by any one for that purpose, either according to the recollection of the conversation by Mr. Otis or by Mr. Greely.

A COMPLIMENT WORTH HAVING.—A Mexican history of the Mexican war, lately published, says of Gen. SCOTT:

"His humanity on all occasions, his kindness, as evinced to every individual, and, his sympathy and attention to the sick and wounded, endeared him to the whole army, officers and men. In fact, the very generosity and excellence of his heart led him sometimes too far, and he has since reaped in ingratitude the good seed sown in the fullness of his noble sensibilities."

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.—A terrible calamity happened a few days ago on the Columbia (Pa.) Railroad, near Oakland, as one of the burden trains was running along under full head of steam. Two boys, of the ages of 18 and 19 years, (their names not known) were on the top of the cars, jumping from one to the other, and not perceiving a bridge over the road, were both struck off the train in a horribly mangled condition. One was instantly killed, and the other cannot survive.

SEIZURE OF AN ENGLISH VESSEL.—The brig Margaret Ann, which arrived at New York on Friday morning, 17th instant, from Majunga, (Madagascar,) reports that the schooner Relizance, of London, England, had been carried by a prize crew from a Portuguese national schr. from Anzotha to Mozambique, where she was detained about two months, and fined $2,300 for an alleged infraction of the Revenue laws, all Portuguese ports on the coast, except Mozambique, being closed against American and British vessels.

Appointments by the President.

By and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

John S. Pendleton, of Virginia, to be Charge d' Affaires of the United States to the Argentine Republic.

Ogden Hoffman, Jr., of San Francisco, to be Judge of the District Court of the U. States for the northern district of California.

Horace Mower, of Michigan, to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the Territory of New Mexico.

John S. Watts, of Indiana, to be an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the Territory of New Mexico.

Louis Linder, to be Consul of the U. S at Sonneberg, in the Duchy of Saxe Meininger Hildeburghausen, in Germany.

H. Jones Brooke, of Pennsylvania, to be Consul of the United States at Belfast, in Ireland.

Henry A. Homes, of Massachusetts, to be Assistant Dragoman and Secretary to the Legation of the United States to Turkey.

WASHINGTON, March 9, 1851.

FIRES IN WASHINGTON.—Three stables were destroyed by fire to-day, near Jackson Hall—one owned by Daniel Campbell. One cow was consumed, and a horse badly burned. The other two stables were attached to the dwelling of Mrs. Waingsford and Mrs. Green.

FIFTEEN DAYS LATER FROM CALIFORNIA.

The Steamship Mexico, Captain TALBOT, arrived yesterday morning from Chagres, which port she left on the 10th instant, at 4 P. M., in company with the steamers Philadelphia for New Orleans, Prometheus and Crescent City for New York, and Falcon for Havana. The Mexico brought no mail, or gold dust, except that in the possession of her passengers, a list of whom is subjoined. We have received from private sources one or two newspapers, from which we make up the annexed summary of intelligence.

No election of United States Senator had yet taken place. The 17th had been selected for a joint meeting of both Houses. It is hard to say who has the best chance. The San Francisco Herald says:

The most prominent candidates at present are Messrs. Fremont, T. Butler King, Heydenfelt and Weller. Since the arrival of the President's Message recommending a sale of the gold lands, Mr. Fremont's strength in the country and in the Legislature has visibly increased. The fine weather, too, we have had all this winter has regained him some of the reputation he had lost as a correct observer. Mr. King has succeeded in making himself the only whig candidate; and his presence at the capital seems to have enhanced his chances for an election. It is currently stated that the whole force of executive patronage in this State is to be brought to bear in Mr. King's favor.

Mr. Heydelfeldt has, it is thought, been injured by the indiscretion of his friends in wishing to hurry on the election. His supporters are all ardent and staunch; for he goes into the canvass as the avowed and decided advocate of what are called southern principles. Col. Weller is not much talked about; though it is probable that if the balloting are numerous, he will, towards the end, be the most prominent Democratic candidate. Recent signs indicate that none of the prominent candidates will be elected, and that the Legislature will finally agree upon a man not yet openly and actively supported. If such a man is chosen, the probabilities are that he will possess acknowledged abilities and be capable of acquiring the confidence of the country.

The Legislature has passed the bill making Vallejo the future seat of government. A contract has already been made for the construction of the State House.

We copy the following from the Herald's review of the fortnight.

Since the sailing of the last mail steamer, on the 1st instant, the agitation in regard to land titles has somewhat subsided. The day after the steamer sailed, a collision occurred between one of our largest land owners, Captain Folsom, and a squatter by the name of Page; and the result of that collision, as well as the decision rendered in the matter by the Recorder of the city, Judge Tilford, has had a tendency to check squattersism in San Francisco. The bill giving up the rights of the State to certain lands to the city, will undoubtedly become a law, and thereby the security of land owners will be largely increased.

The whole State has been agitated by the decisions of the Supreme Court, lately made about mining claims; and the indignation of the people has been expressed north, south, east and west. A bill is before the Legislature making all Alcalde and Ayuntamiento grants proof of possession; and, if it becomes a law, it will fully relieve the quiet the country. The Supreme Court, too, finding how disastrous were the effects its late and little decisions produced, retracted its zeal and refused to confirm some of the opinions Justice Bennett had expressed.

A bill concerning divorces has excited a deal of feeling at the capital and elsewhere. The pulpit has been called on to declare against a divorce act, and numerous petitions on the subject have been presented to the Legislature.—The proposed county act has called forth remonstrances from the commercial interest of the city, and the feeling against it is much stronger and more reasonable than the opposition to the divorce bill.

The Indian Commissioners, with the U. S. troops, have set out from Stockton for the purpose of treating with the Indians on our eastern borders. A war loan bill has passed the Legislature, and the State is taking steps to protect the miners from the Indians. The Indian difficulties have, however, been greatly exaggerated, and it requires very little exertion to destroy all the Indian tribes in California.

Our mining intelligence will show how the places are developing. New fields for diggings are being constantly opened, and a large emigration is setting towards Scott's river. The old diggings yield well yet, and though there have been some rapids washed away, the miners are not wanting in zeal to wash out their gold. They are making extensive canals for gold washing purposes. Hence there will be no lack of gold dust this year.

Dr James Shields, formerly of this city, suddenly disappeared from San Francisco, on the 8th November, and had not been heard of up to the 15th of February.

The friends of Col. Collier presented him with a splendid gold gobet on the evening of the 5 h of February.

The papers contain the average amount of murder, robbery and lynching cases. Society does not seem in California to have greatly improved therefore.

UNITED STATES TROOPS.—One hundred rank and file of U. S. troops arrived here on last Sunday morning, on their way to the head waters of the San Joaquin, to quell the Indians, who are daily committing outrages upon the miners. They are accompanied by the United States Indian Commissioners. The troops are under the command of Captain Keyes, who is associated in the charge of the troops, with Capt. Burton, Capt. Moore, Capt Kane, Q M; Lieuts. Landrum, McLean, Gibson and Hamilton. They will probably move for the city to-morrow, taking the route to Gravson.

Stockton Journal.

Among the marriages in San Francisco, we perceive that of Mr. Francis Maillot to Miss Margaret Duncan, both late of New Orleans.

The Markets.

We are glad to have to record an improvement in the general tone of our market during the past ten days. An advance has been made in the rates of some articles, and a larger amount of business transacted. We shall probably not see any further decline in our market, as the trade with the interior already shows signs of reviving, and the new discoveries throughout the gold regions will cause an increase in the mining population.

The season has hitherto been almost entirely without rain, causing a material alteration in the plans of the miners, who have for the most part abandoned the dry diggings and returned to the rivers, resuming the claims which they left in the fall. The rivers are now in a very good state for operations, being lower than at any period for the past year. Many bars that have hitherto been inaccessible, can now be sufficiently drained to allow of being worked.

Discoveries of gold have been made near Quartz, Marble and Rock Springs, which promise to equal any hitherto found, and will open a new field for the enterprise of our citizens.

Flour—The stock on hand has been a little diminished, but there is still a large quantity in this port, and no change can be made from our last quotations.

Grain—Barley has risen considerably, and is in good demand at $a10c. Oats are scarce and readily obtain our rates.

Chili Beans are also in request. We quote at 5a6c.

Pork—Mess is very inactive. The demand from the interior is not by any means so large as formerly; fresh provisions having, in a great measure, taken its place. Prime is also dull.

Beef—Very little doing—the demand being extremely limited.

Sugar has improved since our last, and the present rates are firmly maintained, but holders are unwilling to obtain any further advance. Atlantic sugars are in but little demand, the consumption being small.

Cigars and Tobacco, no change since our last. The higher qualities of Tobacco are in good demand.

Brandy shows some improvement for common descriptions; we quote $1 50a$2.

Whiskey—Monongahela is dull, and the tendency downward. Irish and Scotch show no alteration.

Malt Liquors are without any noticeable change, but prices are fully maintained.

Dry Goods.—The quantity offering is not large, and the market is dull.

Money Market—During the past two weeks this market has been in a very unsettled state, and instances of difficulty in negotiation in consequence of the proceedings in the Legislature relative to the Usury laws. This feeling still exists and the money is very tight, as high as 10 a 11 per cent has been paid, and but little discounting is doing at present.

The Steamship Mexico brought the following passengers:

Thos Garland, Chas White, R E Turley, Jas Griffin, T C Matthews, Jos Eiy, H H Potter, James Wright, R S Shephard, T M Cous, A J Marnadake, Jase M Coun, J S Wilson, Martin M Coun, A Byerly, M Coun, D Delford, F A Hays, F Patterson, W Adair, J C Cole, John Mason, J Williams, W B Hays, Jos Thomas, M Hays, M Gurney, John Payton, Jas Thompson, J B Camp, R B Weaver, A Coleman and wife, Jas Fenton, Mrs Smith, and two children, Jas Perrier, S D Kitchen, Dr Young, W Waite, Jas Thomas, B Godwin and son, W Ford, W Coats, P B Davis, S Bird, C Davis, J Birdsall Dale, J Smith, W Walker, Jos Smith, W B Crawford, H E Harris, A E Hawkins, D Carpenter, H B Housekeez, T S Morrell, A C Robinson, G C Congdon, J R Robinson, L S Blackburn, A D Hurts, Leroy Mullens, Wm Ely, Leland, Bahl Tres West, Norman White, T P Denton, W Harrison, A Suracker, R Spencer, R Spencer, W Whittington, J Moonyham, H C Woodward, J Cramer, W H Crosswhite, M B Mullens, H Singer, G S Hawkins, L Eckly, N G Coffin, A Graves, W Job, A F Cline, D Gross, J M Keaton, E Hayes, R Bell, L W Seaborn, J Prouse, R Ford, R de Lone, A Pine, M Hays, H E Spencer, J Lampton, H Stedham, Mr. Stedham, Thos Bonsman, J Shanly, W Shanly, E Bank, Sam Reed, J Wicoff, D Cipes, J Bond, B Brassard, M Bane, J Raynon, J Morse, V K High, W G Thomas, E Wilside, W Campbell, E Butler, J Carson.

SAD ACCIDENT.—Mr. McKay, a merchant from Pennsylvania we think, on reservoiring in a wagon from Grand Ravine on Saturday, leaped out on account of the horses taking fright, and broke his leg a little above the ankle. On Tuesday night he died of the effect of the accident, the limb having become gangrened. Mr. McKay was about 54 years of age.—Natchitoches Chronicle.

News Telegraphed to the Louisville Courier.

CLARKSVILLE, March 10, 10 P. M.

MAN KILLED.—On the morning of the 7th instant, a difficulty occurred, near this place, between Mr. John H. Crowder and Robert D. Newton, proprietor of Blooming Grove Furnace, by which the latter was immediately killed.—It appears that a misunderstanding has existed for some time between the parties, about a road which led through the lands of Crowder, to the ore bank of Newton. Crowder had notified Newton that his teams should no longer pass by that route. On the morning of the occurrence Mr. Newton accompanied his teams on their way to the ore bank, and meeting Crowder on the premises, was asked if he intended to drive his teams over that road, and being answered in the affirmative, levelled his gun and shot Newton in the chest. Mr. N. instantly expired.—Crowder was accompanied by his son, who was prepared, if his father failed to carry into execution his deadly purpose. The father has been arrested, but the son is now before an examining court. Much excitement prevails.

The weather is clear and pleasant. The Harry Hill, from New Orleans, and the Pennsylvania, from Cincinnati passed up yesterday. The river is falling slowly.

NASHVILLE, March 10—10 P. M.

MAIL ROBBERS ARRESTED.—John and M. O. Thurman, brothers, the former being Post-Master at Sequatchee, have been arrested for robbing the Nashville and Chattanooga mail. About $700 were found on them, identified, and secured.

Gen. Wm. Cullen was to-day unanimously nominated to represent this District in Congress, by the Whig District Convention at Gallatin. He shot Thomas Davidson, a few days since, at Gainsboro, while in court. Davidson has since died. Cullen once formerly had been shot by Davidson, and in the present rencontre is represented to have acted on the defensive, and shot his antagonist a hundred paces distance with a rifle.

WASHINGTON, March 11.

The personal difficulty which occurred between Messrs. Clingman and Stanley, the last night of the session, has been amicably adjusted.

LYNN, Mass., March 11.

Mr. Hood, a locofoco, is elected Mayor. He opposes surrendering fugitives from labor.

BALTIMORE, March 11.

Lieut. Jas. Ridgeley threw himself out of a window of the Exchange Hotel, last night, and badly cut his head, and received internal injury, but no bones were broken. Hopes are entertained of his recovery.

CINCINNATI, March 11.

The river is stationary. The weather is fine.

ST. LOUIS, March 11.

The river is in good boating order. The weather is very pleasant.

The Santa Fe mail of the 1st February has reached Independence. There is no news of interest. The Indians along the route were a little troublesome, and occasionally disturbed stragglers from camp by chasing them a few miles, but none had fallen into their hands. It was reported at Fort Sumner that a party of Pawnees had attacked the Santa Fe mail.

City Intelligence.

PLAYING VARIETIES.—An exceeding bill is presented for to-night, comprising the comic drama "Taken in and done for," the extravaganza of "The Fair one with the Golden Locks," and the farce of "The mad wag of Madrid." Besides this there will be some brilliant dancing.

ORLEANS THEATRE.—Verdi's new opera of the "Two Foscari," will be brought out to-morrow night for the benefit of Madle. Richer. Most of the seats are already taken, and we look for an overflowing benefit.

SALE OF JENNY LIND'S FURNITURE.—The announcement of the sale of Jenny Lind's furniture in the Pontalba buildings by N. Vigne, attracted yesterday a large concourse of purchasers. The bidding was tolerably spirited, though the élite participated in the competition, and the bulk of the articles were knocked down in furniture dealers. The down cotton, on which the fair songstress reposed from the fatigues of her concerts brought $100, and a beautiful armoir was bid off at $65. The table, sideboard, &c., brought full prices. A certain nameless but indispensable article became the subject of lively competition, and down to a certain point the house proprietors who were informed friends dissatisfied it for free. Words Fair with the view of making an opening for the first price.

CONSTABLE OF MUNICIPALITY NO. TWO.—Thursday evening, the Recorder Gendron, called the Recorder Cavaroc to the chair and fourteen members present. A message from the Mayor was received, proposing resolutions passed by the First Municipality Council, relative to the election of guardians, the plan proposed by the Mayor being to unite the guardians in convention, and to make with them the guardians in convention a complete reserve corps of protection. The Board also received a message from the First Municipality Council in reference to the cleaning of the side walks on the cross streets. Capt. Cavaroc, and Messrs. Bonnet and Coquet, to the committee on the subject of the street. Mayor Alexander and wife, Messrs. Bonnet and Coquet, Lieut. Cavaroc, Capt. Cavaroc, and W. Dupuy, as the committee to wait on the Mayor
