INSTITUTIONS.

ORLEANS HIGH SCHOOL.

BARTOW BURNEY, A.M., Principal & Proprietor

THE various branches of knowledge usually taught in a Classical School, by Professor Burney, assisted by other competent teachers, selected with a view to good character and skill and experience in teaching.

The system of education embraces the Grammar and Literature of the Greek, Latin, English, French and Spanish Languages; History, Geography, Rhetoric, Poetics, Logic, Political Economy, Moral Philosophy, Book keeping, Arithmetic, Algebra Geometry, Trigonometry, Natural Philosophy, & Chemistry.

No pains are spared in imparting a thorough knowledge of these branches, so that all students who resort to this Institution may be fitted to enter with advantage upon the duties of the more responsable avocations of life, or upon the study of the learned professions.

As the Modern Languages, (particularly the English and the French) and the higher Mathematics receive very special attention, the school offers singular advantages to boys designed for mercantile pursuits.

☞ For particulars see the prospectus, which may be found at Mr. Steel's Book store, 14 Camp-street; at Mr. Lelievre's, Royal street; or at the Principal's office, Bienville street. jy1-tf

ST. LOUIS' INSTITUTION.

DIRECTED BY MADAME DERON.

BOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES.

(YEARS 1850—51.)

No. 145 St. Louis street, between Dauphin & Burgundy.

THIS Institution, founded nearly twelve years ago, combines every material, moral, and intellectual advantage. Madame Deron, formerly a pupil and governess in the "Institut de la Legion d'Honneur," (Maison St. Denis,) has founded her Seminary, as nearly as possible, on the model of that great establishment, as well as on the plan of the first Northern Academies.

The situation of St. Louis' Institution is one of the most agreeable and salubrious in town. The whole locality, including dormitories, class and study rooms, playgrounds, being very spacious and airy, and overlooking several gardens, is as so healthy a position, that, not a single pupil has experienced the least serious illness.

The plan of instruction both in French and English embraces all the literary and scientific branches of a finished education.

The study of English is the object of particular attention. Madame Deron is scrupulously careful that the creole Young Ladies should devote more time to the study of the English language and literature than to any other branch. Mr. Orton, a professor well known in New Orleans, continues his course of lessons every day. Two English governesses residing in the establishment, preside over the elementary classes, and contribute to the progress of the pupils by the continual use of that language in the relations of ordinary life.

With respect to the study of French, besides the lessons of able professors and governesses, M. and Madame Deron themselves instruct in the different branches, and are thus enabled by their personal efforts to insure the solidity and rapidity of the progress of their pupils.

The department of Music, including the piano, harp and singing, is under the direction of Madame Lavallerie, an excellent music mistress, who formerly gave lessons in St. Louis' Institution, and who is now especially attached to the establishment. This young and talented lady, so justly classed at the head of the artistic celebrities of Louisiana, secures to the study of Music in Madame Deron's Academy a marked superiority. No mistress can better join example to precept, and this is often the secret of the pupil's advancement. A musical examination taking place every month is intended to prove the rapid and brilliant progress of Madame Lavallerie's pupils.

Religious and moral instruction, which is the basis of every really good education, has received the paternal care which it merits in Madame Deron's School in the city. Madame Deron herself superintends the religious exercises of the Catholic pupils, and M. Fabre, Principal of the Institution, is a first communion, and for confirmation by giving religious instruction several times every week in the Chapel of the Institution.

YOUNG LADIES' ACADEMY,

DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL,

Directed by Mrs. A. Clark,

Corner of Carondelet and Racquet sts., No. 172.

MRS A. CLARK respectfully informs her friends and families, that from the first of September she has succeeded to Mrs. D'Hallin in the management of her establishment, in the Lower, which is already so well known for the good order and superiority of its classes, will have all the improvements that can be suggested, both in the moral and physical welfare of the pupils. The dormitories are large and well ventilated. Mrs. CLARK, who intends instructing in the department, the French and English classes, will be assisted by able English and French Professors, who have been long attached to the establishment, and will pay attention will be paid both to the conduct and progress of the pupils. There will be no holiday during the week.

Parents are respectfully invited to visit the establishment.

New Orleans Female Institute,

OR DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES,

No. 176 Camp street, between Racquet and Clio streets.

CONDUCTED BY DR. AND MRS. MACAULAY.

THIS Institution is under the personal supervision of Mrs. Macaulay, who with a corps of able Lecturers and scientific departments are taught by Dr. Macaulay, assisted by another gentleman. To give satisfaction to the parents, the following branches are taught: Reading, Dancing, Vocal and Instrumental Music, the most accomplished professors are employed.

The classes are arranged so as to make it both an English and French school, and the aim of the principals is to make it a home for the pupils, and to give a thorough course of studies, affording at the same time a progressive knowledge and a progressive discipline of the mind, as well as the best means for instruction of pupils of every age and grade of intellectual culture, proper attention have been made to secure a healthy location, and to promote the improvement of the pupils and young ladies receive the kindness and attention which belongs to the relationship, and which is so necessary in the education of young children.

The present and previous exhibition of scholarship and proficiency, which may be seen on reference, is the best evidence of the success of those who have had their daughters at the Institution for several years.

A course of lectures on History and Biography will be delivered to the advanced classes by Dr. Macaulay, and the pupils will be required to attend, and to hold the pupils in understanding the lecture, for which purpose the school is furnished with the requisite apparatus.—Other further information application may be made personally or by letter.

P. S. Terms—Dr. MACAULAY to give undivided attention to the duties of the Institute, he will retire from teaching at Madame DESRAYAUX'S.

DESRAYAUX ACADEMY,

53 Bourbon street, N. Orleans.

CONDUCTED BY J. C. LOED.

THE plan of this Institution comprises a general SUPERIOR education of the finest and perfect. Havana Segars, ever imported into New Orleans. Mr. A. Hernandez respectfully informs the public that his new and commodious Segar Store is now open in Royal street, between Toulouse and St. Louis, next to his old stand.

His store is fitted up with the utmost elegance and taste, and Segars of the most approved brands and finest qualities will be constantly found on hand. He will spare no means in his power to the public with the most exquisite and choice descriptions of the real Havana, and trusts that the public will continue to honor him with their liberal patronage of which he has heretofore been the recipient. ja6
