NEW-ORLEANS, FRIDAY, (MORNING,) JANUARY 14, 1831.

A flood of foreign news brought by the mail notice of the proceedings of the Legislature and of Congress still later intelligence, we can only give some of the leading articles of the first without going much into the details. The accounts received by the other packets will be phrsued at length.

From the N. Y. Morcantile Advertiser, Dec. 27. VERY LATE AND HIGHLY IMPOR-TANT FROM EUROPE.

By the arrival vesterday, of the fast sailing packet ship Caledonia, captain Rogers, from Liverpool, whence she sailed on the 18th Nov. we have received our regular files of London papers to the 17th, Liverpool to the 18th and Glasgow to the 15th of November, all inclusive, together with Lloyd's and Shipping Lists, and

CHANGE OF THE BRITISH MINISTRY. In the house of commons on the 15th Nov. upon the motion for the appointment of " A select committee to take into consideration the accounts presented by order of his majesty, relating to the civil list," the vote stood, for the ministry 206, against them 235, showing a majority against the cabinet of twenty-nine. The opposition papers state that ail the regular and staunch supporters of the treasury were in their places. while many of the neutrals were absent. In consequence of this strong opposition to the ministry, Lord Wellington, in the house of lords, and Sir Robert Peel in the house of commons the next day, (16th Nov.) announced that his majesty's ministers had resigned, and that their resignation was accepted by the king; they would however, continue in office, but only as long as it was necessary for the king to form a

In the report of the debates of that day, we find that the Duke of Wellington thus addressed the house of lords on the subject to which we have just referred.

Tthink it proper to acquaint your lordships in the House of commons, I have felt it to be my duty to wait on his majesty, and to tender my resignation of the office which I had the honor to hold. My lords, his majesty has signified his only hold the office un'il my successor be appoin-prehimnary remarks) that he would put off his motion-which was on the subject of Reform, but it would be only till 25th November, and no longer; for I shall positively, said he, bring i forward then, whoever may be Minister. The London Chronicle of 17th Nov. says.

we have good anthority for stating that after the out not unexpected resignation of the Ministers yesterday, arrangements instantly taken for the formation of a new Cabinet, Earl Gree was sent for, and we have reason to believe that the office of Premier will be officed to hing. Should he accept of it, is said that Mr. Brougham, the Marquis of Landowne, Lord Althorp. Lord Robertson, Lord Mospeth, Lord Durham, Lord-Holland, Mr. Charles Grant, Mr. Spring Rice, Sir Henry Parnell, Sir. James Graham, Mr. Tenneyson and Mr. Hume, will, among others, be invited to office. It may not be inappropriate in this place to take as comprehensive a view, as our time and limits will at present permit, of the paniae in London-for paniac there was-and of the immediate causes which led to the resignation of the Wellington Cabinet.

After the King's speech was delivered on the 2d Nov. an animated debate took place in the House of Lords, only part of which is in the files before us—it appears that speaking on this subject, the Duke of Wellington said that the king had no intimation, nor was it the intention of any foreign power whatever, to interfere by means of arms with the affairs of the Netherlands, but it was the desire of England, and every other party concerned to settle, if possible, every point by means of negociation-and by negociation alone. This declaration was well received: On the subject of the repeal of the sacred union, he said it was objected to, in the strongest terms; by ail his noble friends in Ireland by all the proprietors in the country by a great majority of the Roman Catholics and by nearly all the Protestants in Ireland; and it was appared by the unanimous voice of both houses of parliament—or at least with only one exception. This was also well received. [The Dublin Evening Post is opposed to Mr. O'Connel's plan of the dissolution of the union. We find the London Timesa strong advocate on the same side. It was, however, when the Duke of Wellington spoke on the subject of Parlimensary Reform, that not only flie indignation of Parliament, but also of the people, was raised nearment, but also of the people, was raised fould and strong against him. On this subject, his Grace said, he was not prepared attack which contains the would go further, on his fart, and say, that he had never read or heard of any free and the text of the property which could be a property of the sure to the present moment which could in any degree satisfy his mind, that the state of representation could be improved, or rendered more posteriory to the country at large thereit the possess moment. He added, that the gifting possessed at the present moment a legislature which answered all the good purposes conditions. tion tand this to a greater degree than any legis-logica even had answered in any country what-

FRANCE AND THE UNITED STATES. By a Royal Ordinance, a commission has been formed for settling the claims of the United States upon the French Government, which have that, in consequence of what occurred last night so long been urged by the American Minister. The same commission will also consider the counter claims against America, and then form a basis for an equitable and final adjustment of each. The Commissioners are Viscount Lidne, pleasure to except of that resignation, and I now President; Messrs, George Latayette, Beslay, and Delessert, Deputies; M. d'Andiffret, President of the Court of Accounts, and M. Pichon Councellor of State.

General Serrurier, the newly appointed minier from France to this country, his family and suite, were to embark at Hayre in the Louis Phihppe 1st, expected to sail on the 10th Dec. He would be accompanied by Mr. Lasteyrie, grandson of General Lafavette, as an attache of the legation. Thus has fallen the Duke of Wellington and is Cabinet, by a simple resistance to necessary retrenchment; by a few words from his own mouth, insisting on an exhorbitant civil list popular as he was, and no Minister was more so until within a brief fortnight of his overthrow! high in the confidence of the King, adored by the people, cheered wherever he appeared, he would have continued to direct the destinies of the British Empire, but for a heedless disregard of the popular will, clearly expressed. The Catholic Bill; the Dissenters Bill; the reduction of the Beer tax, have all been forgotten, together with his illustrious military services, because i the midst of his professions for retrenchment, he adhered to the rotten borough system and iesisted will not be more extended, and that the attairs on taxing the people unjustly, for the support of der the command of Count Diebitsch. The further continuance of peace will depend on the negociations in London, and the their lordships to consider the situation of the conduct of the French Government. We know that the King of the French and his councellors hitherto desire nothing more carnestly than to remain on good terms with other countries. and that therefore as far as depends on them, ly endanger the existing amicable arrangements, and even hazard the existing tranquility of France itself, have no nid to expect from its present government.—But the weakness of this scorcely formed government gives room for apprehension that the nation which has created it, nd in which there are so many jarring interests, country, he hoped, ore long, to see another set of and elements of disorder, may compel it to take men in their place, for they could not hold of part with the Belgians as soon as the powers hould find it necessary to declare tor an armed intervention in their affairs. lefeated, in a battle; with the Spanish Constitutional forces, and is dangerously wounded. The London Courier of November 30, refu s implicit confidence in this intelligence and inunates, that the apprehensions prevailing n Paris at the last advices, were without sufficient cause. We quote the following article:-

"The German papers which arrived this moring state that a Russian army of 200,000, men. divided, into seven corps, with 400 pieces of cannon, is assembling on the frontier; but it is declared that the object is merely to make a demoustration for the purpose of mantaining peace, This may be true; but after the experience of the Cordon Santaire, we do not place much fath in the pacific assurance when connected with warcen called upon by the King to form a new that the continuance of peace will depend upon of the ablest leaders of the whig party, and eartain proceedings in London and guarantees for the good behaujour of the French government. The French, however, are not idle; a large completed, but its members, as far as certainly histile demonstration against Belgium will be Frenchmen into Italy, and overrunning Austria. We do not believe that the Emperor of Russia and his immediate Allies will tempt the chance of such a contest. The command of the Russian army is entrusted to Count Diebitsch, an officer who displayed great judgement in the war with the Turks, but who would be overmached by any one of hundreds of the old French army. The Sir James Graham, 1st Lord of the Admifunds at Vienna are very heavy. The Metalliques have been as low as 801; but on the 19th they were 811, and the bank stock at 1.058.
