NEW-ORLEANS, THURSDAY (MORNING,) MARCH 3, 1831.

The northern and eastern mail of yesterday, brought New-York dates of the 16th ult. Washington of the 17th and Charleston of the 22d ever, we are informed, at the Post Office, an inmense mass to be distributed: including such as erpool paper, which is regularly sent us, but for some reason that we are unable to explain, it contained no dates so late as that above mentionof any great moment had transpired since the last accounts. A copy of a letter of the Sth of Jan. addressed to a commercial house in this city, relating to the cotton market, &c. will be found under our commercial head.

[From the Lynchburg Virginian.] John Randolph a candidate for Congress -A gentleman from this place, who has just returned from Charlotte Court, informs us, that John Randolph was announced as a candidate for congress, on Monday last. The annunciation was authorized by Mr. Randolph's triend. William Leigh, Esq.; and therefore there is no doubt it has been done at Mr. Randolph's in-

It would not be easy to refute the annexed remarks of one of the New-York newspapers received to-day.

* It seems to be the object of the supporters of the present administration, to prostrate every branch and power of the government, except the Executive. It would seem from their conduct. that they consider that government as formed and supported exclusively for the purpose of gratifying individual ambition, increasing individual influence, and promoting personal interests. One would naturally be led to the conclusion, that they view themselves as having a leasehold estate in the government, with the lib erty of committing waste, and appropriating the whole avails to their own individual benefit. National Gazette.

The following will show the late generablica division on the Judiciary question in Congress. In the New-England States there are than y nine representatives. Of this number there were 36 for rejecting the bill, and three, viz-Leonard Jarvis of Maine, This. Chandler and Jonathan Harvey of New Hampshire who you ted in favor of a second reading. In the State of New York there are 31 members. Of these 28 voted to reject the bill, three were absent and three viz: William C At 2d, C. C. Cambreleng, and Thomas Maxwell voted for a secon reading. New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland have 42 members. Of these 35 voted to reject the bill, 7 were absent, and not a solitary vote was given in those States in favor of a second reading. In time every vote exceft one was for rejecting the fall, and that on was absent. In Louisiann, two were for rejecting the bill, and one for the second reading. In or of rejecting the bil and one was absent. The member from Illinois was absent. In Virginia there were six for rejecting the bill, 13 for the second reading and 3 ubsent. In North Carolina there were eight for rejecting the bill, and three absent, leaving iour for the second reading. In South Carolina there were two for rejecting the bill and seven for the second reading. In Georgia there were six for the second reading, and one absent. In Tennessee, there were four for rejecting the bill. and three for the second reading, and one absent. In Alabama there was one for rejecting the bill, and two for the second reading. In Mississippi there was one for the second reading. one in Missouri. In Kentucky there were four for rejecting the bill, and eight for the second reading."-Louisville Journal.

[From the National Gaztte.] THE СССКОО REPORT.—The Report of the minority on Manufactures is a very amusing document, especially in the devout manner in which it repeats, -and it does nothing more, -the o pinions of the President's Message. Miss Kelly's Echo song is dull music compared with this brilliant composition. The second paragraph begins-"With the President we concur in the opinion." The third—"With the President we also concur." Again—"We concur with the President in the opinion." Again-"With the President we think it probable." Then-"With a characteristic point and clearness the President gives his views." A long quotation from the mes sage. Again—"We presume all the friends of domestic industry's & onr countrys safety, will concur with the president."-"We are at no loss to understand the President, (wonderful!) nor do we hesitate to concur with him."—"The President thinks and we think."—"We fully concur with the President in the opinion."-"We therefore concede the justice of the rule Lid down by the President." Again-"We concur with the President in the opinion." A few lines further-"We therefore concour with the President in - The admonitions of the President are the voice of wisdom,"-but soon falls back to the better conclude than by repeating the warnings of the Chief Magistrate.'

To be serious: there is in all these "concurdocument can be regarded as his performance.

We are told that nothing the manner which Mr. CAMBRILENG made his reply, as in the matter of that reply, he eminenty failed. Some even of his own friends were heard to say, that any man was a fool who went Schr Amelia, Rocke, Pensacola, into an encounter with old Bunges. Mr. Boutoth, of Virginia, the successor of Mr. Ranволин, and generally regarded as a man of exgan a speech in defence of the mission and the minister, but he was almost at the outset called to order so frequently that he abandoned his intention, and was subsequently heard to say that he had grossly committed himself. The defenders of Mr. Randolph are almost to a man unfortunate in their efforts. Every sally which they have made to overthrow Mr. Bunges seemed to be regarded as an abortion; and even party and personal friendship could urge their associates to nothing further than a painful attention to dull sareasm and elaborate wit. Mr. ARCHER in making his reply, very discreetly avoided all reference to Mr. RANDOLPH, and all notice of the se ere and caustic remarks of Mr. Benovs. "The Senate has been a scene of attraction o-day, drawing away most of the members of the House of Representatives, in consequence of the debate which is proceeding in that body, in reference to the investigation into the addirs of the Post-Office department. It is due also to our democratic frienks in the interior, to know the grounds upon which we expect to stand in the ensuing contest; and it is projer, too, that our delegation in Congress should hear the voice of the people, to be in unison with their own upon these momentous to-pics, and be fully convinced that Pennsylvania will stistain them while they continue to support her interests and to maintain the integrity of the Union.
