THE DAILY BEE.

NEW ORLEANS, MONDAY MORNING, JANUARY 6, 1862.

THE WORKINGS OF THE WIRES

Mr. Lincoln seems about to experience the truth of the line so often quoted from Shakespeare, that "when princes err, they err most of all;" but in mentioning Mr. Lincoln it is a misnomer. He is upheld by a majority of the party, and, that this, we, unfortunately, like many other people, have lately had ample proof of the fact, and his family, country and his administration, depend this year with the which he has thus made improper, has repeatedly occasioned disgust, indignation, and has prompted the military men of the Northern party of Secession to the plan that they belonged to the South. Their opposition following close upon the heels of Trent, prove the madness which possesses the President—a madness, as it would seem, that is incurable to destruction. Finally, we say that Europe learns with indignation and astonishment that the Lincoln Government, which declares that there is no war, and that it is only endeavoring to bring certain seceding States back into quietness and blessed union, is actually engaged in bombarding permanently its deputy and commercial cities of the South, by sinking in the channels leading to their principal harbors, which are people claiming the privileges of civilization, ever principal, and the Lincoln Kaiser, in Barnum, or a Barbary Pirate, have rejected as the Salomon Islands, has been put in practice by a Government claiming to be the very home of the highest freedom, intelligence, morality and civilization. It is a subject of regret that all Europe should be disgusted at such conduct, and should protest against them!

We believe that the European powers—at least some of them—have pretty much made up their mind that the prosecution of the war by the South by the Yankee has become an indefensible nuisance, to be abated at all hazards. The community of interest and the interchange of commodities between the South and Europe, the necessary prohibition of a Southern blockade, the mutual benefits of free trade, the extinguishing of a large military and naval power, every principle of liberty, and every principle of civil order. Sixty days are not likely to elapse before the honorable Government of Austria, Prussia will decide that the blockade of the past are light infliction compared with the end of bitter humiliation it will be forced, sooner or later, to apply, even to the Yankee nation, the stopper of the civilized world.

Thomas Dodge.—Messrs. F. F. Worlein and Co. have just published "Dixie Doodle," a song composed and dedicated to our gallant friends in the third field, by Miss Marie Worlein. We can assure the public that it is a song of a patriotic character, and is decidedly extremely popular. It may be obtained at No. 5 Canal street.

Bella Donna.—Our advertisement of this popular and fashionable Cologne, Perfumery, Toilet Soap, Hair Oil, Pomade, etc., etc., is to be found in our columns. Ladies should not fail to call at the store of Messrs. Bella Donna, 75 Canal street, and procure a bottle of the Cologne.

Lady Macbeth.

A gentleman informed Mr. Forrest, Macbeth, that he would be there from 8 o'clock, and that he would be there from 8 o'clock, and that he would be there from 8 o'clock, and
