NEB-URLEANS. FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 22, 1831.

We continue our extracts from the late intelligence, brought by last mail. Among other interesting subjects are the address of the Belgic deputation, and the King of France's answer. The reply, what though glossed over with speciousness, betrays considerable irresolution. It has been the cause of discontent among the liberals, and we reap from the papers, that the naat the refusal.

Tampico de Tamaulipas, April 9. The important hold of Acapulco is already in the possession of the government, a consequence of a counter-revolution, set on foot by the garrison. The rebels present themselves and come under the amnesty, granted by both houses, and the revolution of the south will soon be subdued. Improvements of a pointed nature are daily springing up in the republic; and general satisfaction is the result of the measures of the administration.
