RECENT IMPORTATION. The Hydrocarbon, or Rain Bath.

EVERY thing connected with the cleanliness of the body; every thing, which may act as a preventative of disease; belongs to the province of hygienic medicine, which Mr. Schneider has lately enriched with the precious discovery of his Hydrocarbon.

The importation into France by Mr. Walz, of the apparatus necessary to the application of this new mode of baths, has obtained for him the approbation of the society of practical medicine, in Paris, to whom he has submitted his process, and ensured him, from the public's general use of his apparatus, a just reward for the services which has rendered to humanity.

These baths, the usefulness of which is generally acknowledged in France, both in a medical light, and markedly in that of public salubrity, present advantages too numerous not to be particularly mentioned, in order to recommend to the public of New-Orleans, the apparatus lately imported by Mr. Giquel.

The apparatus is in a reservoir above the bath, and acting by its weight presses the water to the base of hydrioles, into narrower tubes, fixed in a variety of ways, so as to issue them, in great number, of various directions, which project in the form of a water spray on the surface of the whole body, or on one, or the other of its parts, according to the direction of the capillary aperture.

Simple or compound, in natural or artificial waters, decoloring, aromatic, mineral, or medicinal, can be made use of in the hydrocarbon; and the apparatus may be employed, not only in rain, but also in shower baths, whether with a liquid or with steam, as applied to the head, trunk, or limbs of the body.

In practical medicine, the use of this bath, from the various modes of its application has produced the happiest results; physicians have already obtained signal success in a variety of cases, such as gony obstructions, glandular affections, contractions of muscles, scurvy, tardy digestion, nervous exhaustion of every sort; tubercular and cutaneous affections; eruptions of every species, even to the wart-kind; nervous weakness, and in a number of diseases in which it is equally necessary to tonify animal economy.

Considered in the light of a powerful hygienic auxiliary, the use of the hydrocarbon is not only salutary, but produces a healthful vigor, a development of strength, which by no means result from the bath by the immursive process; the perpetual washing of the different parts of the body, by the means of the capillary sprinkling; the excitement produced on the skin by this constant sprinkling, the general tone and activity, which are the consequences of it; the agreeable sensations, which it creates, the faculty of transmuting the steam into rain, and the latter into the former; each and all of those agreeable qualities of hygienic, not to mention to require further explanation on the subject.

The rain bath differs from the immersion bath, in this respect; that in the use of the latter, the pressure exercised by water on the body frequently produces a very great difficulty of breathing; a tendency of blood to the head, and hence headaches and vertigo.

The bath by aspersion, on the other hand, produces quite a contrary effect; the water, falling on the whole superficies of the body, creates a more or less violent perspiration; a gentle agitation is experienced in every part of the body; the process of respiration is regular; it gradually expands, the pulse acquires liveliness without losing its regularity, and if the expression be allowed, the articulations become more vigorous; for that feeling of weakness, ever attendant on the bath by immersion, is never experienced.

In conclusion the discovery of the hydrocarbon may be considered as an additional luxury in domestic life, as well on account of the pleasurable sensations, which it creates, as the immense advantages of cleanliness, so very salutary to the body.

Baths, with Mr. Walz's apparatus can be taken warm, cold, or cold; as also medicated, unctuous, alkaline, exciting or steam and shower baths, the usefulness of which is very great though generally disregarded on account of the high expenses and infinite care attending the establishment of steam baths at home.

This new apparatus independently of the little space, which they take up in a room, in no way interferes with the service of a household; and if the mere trifling details are taken into consideration over a saving of time, fuel and water, Manufactured in the shape of sundry moveables, this same apparatus can adorn a dressing room, a parlor, or the most modest tenement; in the form of a book case or of a press it may be found an indispensable desideratum in a household.

Initiated into the secret of the process, Mr. Giquel will take upon himself the setting up of the apparatus after the form and manner, which may be pointed out to him.

The public will be admitted to an inspection on the 1st of May next, at the establishment of the hydrocarbon bath, Bourbon, between St. Anne and Maine streets.
