The new Administration, the head of which is now occupied by Mr. Casimir Perier, still persists in maintaining good order and in preventing that kind of universal agitation which France seems to be troubled with.

On the 15th March, they are sent to Lunenburg, where there is a depot for the foreign legion.

The following are the views on the subject of French politics, by one who evidently belongs to the "republican" party.

Analysis has come to an end, or a rupture with this treacherous and ungrateful court.

The monarch persisted in his sentiments, Louis Philippe in his mediocrity, his behaviour arrogant and scornful.

In a lively discussion between the King and the honest Dupont, while he was still minister, on the subject of a pretended conspiracy...

East India Monopoly.—The following address has been issued by the Central Committee in London.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED KINGDOM.

The Central Committee of Deputies from the commercial and manufacturing districts, appointed to oppose the trading monopoly of the East India Company...

The Chinese, so far from being anti-commercial, have a peculiar avidity for foreign trade, affording it greater facilities and despatch, than it receives in almost any other country.

of which the East India Company might, with as much reason, ask for a monopoly.

An unrestricted trade with China would wily extend the sphere of British skill and industry, at once opening a vast market for our manufactures, and affording a cheap and plentiful supply of raw materials.

We ask, then, shall we be longer content to be the passive tool of the despots of a foreign court, which are so enormous, that a universal fund tax, rated at half less than half the gross produce of the soil with numerous other heavy impositions, is to be laid upon the British subject?
