Washington, May 29.

Message of the Prestaent.

A discussion of considerable interet grew out of the message of the President, on Wednesday, on the subject of our commercial relations with Great Britain as regards the colonial trade,

Mr. Cambreleng moved the refers ence of the message to the Committee on Commerce; and.

Mr. Archer moved that it be referred to that of Foreign Affairs. In the cursory debate which follow-

Mr. Cambreleng said, that he was not tenacious as to what committee the message should be referred. He reminded the House that these questions had been for some years uniformly referred to the Committee on Committee on Commerce. The bill on that subject, in 1827 was reported by that committee. It would perhaps facilitate the measure, at this late period of he session, if it took that direction. His attention had been long and particularly directed to that subject, as a member of the committee, and he had the forms of different bills in his possession.

Mr. Everett, of Mass. supported, at esta, hemos abierto nuevas plazas à sus some length, the motion for referring peculaciones, y hemos aumentado el con-the message to the Committee on

Mr. Cambreleng replied. He did not, he observed, wish to detain the committee on a mere question of reference, but he rose for the purpose of noticing a use which had been made by the gentleman from Massachusetts, (Mr. Everett,) of a remark which had tallen from him. That gentleman had seized on it with avidity, and spoke of past two o'clock in the morning, in 1827. If that gentleman's friends had not labored so zealously to defeat the be required—if they had not defeated British West Indian colonies would La guerra de la España con la América never have been interdicted. The "draught" of that bill, which the gentleman and bis friends rejected then, sure in 1827, were probably more familiar with the commercial regulations which would become necessary in case the trade should be opened during the recess. He was not solitous about it but wished to facilitate the business of
