THE DAILY BEE
(FRANCS DAILY (SUNDAYS EXCEPTED) BY
No. 78 Chartres-street.

Subscriptions taken by the week, at the rate of twenty-five Cents for eighteen numbers, payable in the advance.
Daily Paper, one year (in advance) $12
Country Paper, semi-weekly 6
In all cases subscribers must give one week's notice in writing before they can be allowed to discontinue.
Any person receiving the paper through mail or other order, or otherwise, will be considered as a subscriber, and subject to pay, unless due notice is given of the discontinuance of the paper.

NEW ORLEANS:
WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 27.

We call the attention of the trade to the sale at auction of spirits of turpentine, rosin, &c., which will take place this day, at half past 10 o'clock, A. M., at store No. 95 Old Levee street, by Bernard Turpin, auctioneer. See advertisement.

Death of Peter K. Wagner.

Peter K. Wagner, as elsewhere announced, died at his residence, in this city, yesterday, at the ripe age of 77 years. The deceased was a native of Philadelphia, but had lived in New Orleans for upwards of half a century. From the beginning of that period, until a few years before his death, his career in Louisiana was that of a journalist and politician in the higher sense of the words, for he was accounted singularly free from partizan bias, and eminently disinterested in his devotion to principle. We are not aware that he was more than once the occupant of a lucrative office. A veteran in Jackson's campaign of 1814-'15, and a warm and influential supporter of the Hero of Tchipitoulas for President, he was not forgotten by the latter, under whose administration he was a naval officer in the New Orleans Custom-house. He served in the State Legislature for one term only.

The journalistic labors of Mr. Wagner commenced with the Orleans Gazette, published when Louisiana was still a Territory. Subsequently he conducted the Louisiana Courier, the Bee, next he was editor of the Louisianian, and the last paper with which he was editorially connected was the Louisiana Courier, which, under his charge, was its palmiest and most potent days.

Up to the last, as we are informed, the venerable experimental preserved the vivacity, fervor and vigor of the which distinguished him as a writer for the press. Humanity was regardful. Has truly set a fitting example for the dead, indeed, of the social rule relating not alone to Louisiana, but to the country at large. It is much to be regretted if he has left no memoirs of his large knowledge and experience behind him. It will be as thoughtless and the most precious chapters of Louisiana history were unchronicled and consigned to the tomb with him.

In his public and social relations he deserved was an upright citizen, a sincere patriot, a true friend, and his domestic life was marked by virtues as de [illegible] obtrusive.

The United States [illegible] W. Cook [illegible] this morning at 8 o'clock by New York papers with a full cargo of [illegible] United States [illegible]

M. Hirsch, [illegible]
[illegible] Mr. Davidson [illegible]
[illegible] Mr. Marchand [illegible]
[illegible] Mr. Cambell [illegible]
[illegible] Mr. Wagner, Lady [illegible]
[illegible] Mr. Lafontaine [illegible]
[illegible] Mr. Wagner [illegible]
[illegible] Mr. Wagner [illegible]
[illegible] Mr. Wagner