the news received by this day's mail.

We have received the note of "Seventy Six" requesting a declaration of the motives which have induced us to preclude from our columns, his strictures on the demeafor of the Louisiana Guards, on the 4th of July. Were they ominitted on account of defectuosity of style, are we asked? In reply to this inquiry we shall observe that had we yielded to the facing tions of a compoperusal of his communication. Did we doubt interrogatory that this motive has, by no means, in Lucneed the omnission of his article. We have been actuated by a higher and more imperioni consideration:-the evident tendency of his observations to provoke party animosity. "Seventy Six" may rest assured that we never shall contribute our agency, directly or indirectly. to the enconregement of sectional antipathies and julaisies de carps such as his remarks are calculated to inflame: they never can conduct to beneficial effects and must necessarily be productive of the most unpleasant consequences.

THE CHEROKEES. (Continued.) Theorepeated efforts of Georgia the untiring attempts and unceasing vexations of the Government to compel the Cherokees to abandon the soil they have inhabited from time immemorial, having proved inaffectual, they have not only us. We have already received much kindness undertaken of late to subject them to the jurisdiction of their own tribunals but to deprive them of their possessions. The most unbridled tions of our hearts-a more particular notice rage for conquest, the right of plunder which will hereafter be taken of those communities to some nations have arrogated to themselves to whose goodness we are so largely indebted. the prejudice of each other has not unfrequently authorized the two first tyrannical measu es to which the Georgians have been impelled by their refined barbarity; but does, the history of the remotest specks of antiquity afford one solitary instance of a whole conquered nation being desposses ed by a victorious foe? Above all be it tot forgatten that the State of Georgia having both east of the Blue Ringe, and between those as yet obtained but an imaginary triumph has inountains and the Alleghany. This suit has just been finally decided by the extremity. This great line of transportation Supreme Court of the U. States to whom it had been referred by the Cherokees. This tribunal whose exalted reputation of impartiality had naturally excited the hope of obtaining redress, have rendered a decree which history may perhaps denounce with severity. This decree, a tion of the Union. kind of mezzo termine, meeting almost entirely with the views of Georgia, declares that as the Cherokees cannot be considered as a foreign na tion, the court acknowledges, its incompetence to propounce on their difficulties with the State of Georgia ;-but that their titles to the lands Baltimore-a city destined, we believe, to rise which they possess, are in its opinions, incontestable, and that it will readily confirm their validity if appealed to in a case of contestation.

It would require indeed no uncommon cogeney a subtility of reasoning to overturn the arguments connected with this decree and prove that the potives which have induced the Supreme Court to recognise the validity of the Cherokee's titles to the land which they enjoy should also have led it to the inevitable deduction that they were to be considered as a foreign nation; since these motives result from the treaties concluded with the U. States, and that these treatics have been made by one power with another and not by hazards. Gen. Gaines, though abundantly able a government with its subjects. From the St. Louis Times of June 11. The Indians.-From a passenger, who ar rived here in the Steam-Boat Winebago, from Galena, we learn that the disturbances with the Indians at Rock Island, are likely to prove of a more serious nature than was at first anticipated The Indians are headed by a Chief, called the Black Hawk,' who, in a conference with Gen. Gaines, expressed a determination to remain and dispute the occupation of the ground at all contestation to that State and the Cherockees, abandoning the country in various directions,

Since writing the above we have been favored with the following extract of a letter from an officer attached to the expedition, to a friend in

ENCAMPEMENT AT ROCK-ISLAND. ? 7 Sunday, June 8th, 1831. "We yesterday held a talk with the Indians, and from their determination, not to leave the white settlements, and from their number, we shall have pretty serious work, that is, we shall have no play; they came into the council house vesterday with their spears, hatchets, and bows trung, and I have no doubt, from the extreme agitation of the interpreter, that there was more danger than most were aware of, as our troops were near a quarter of a mile off, and there were about ten for one of us."

THE ELECTIONS.

LIVERPOOL, May 18.—Generally, the returns of the week have been favourable to the reformers, and although the majority which Ministers are said to calculate upon, no less, say port, that the 10t quantication of amendment garded by Ministers as open to amendment garden authority for says Ministers do not intend to propose any letter of the constitution. Can it be hoped that will not themselves suggest the raising if the the revolting treatment, and the despotic and qualification of those householders admitted to the privilege of voting, that they will not resist such an amendment if it is found to originate with any considerable number of the new memthargic indifference? We now wish to direct bers who have been returned upon reform principles. It is indeed, probable that but few of those members who have been returned to Parliament as supporters of the bill uninly, are pledged to their constituents, that they will take t entirely in its present form. And even if they felt more strongly than it is presumed they do that it is desirable to carry the 107 qualification. yet they will not feel that there is so great a diference between 101 and 151, as to decline the prospect of carrying it with the majority of perhaps 100 more, were the latter standard adopted. Any approach to unanimity in Parliament on this momentous subject, in this period of excitement, would be so important and salutary in its influence, that a prudent Administration will not lightly throw away that advantage and we hink it not impossible that many who opposed he bill in the last Parliament, would vote for it f so altered. -

Such members at least, as have not too far rably, to look at the new ci-curustances is which hey are placed. Before the dissolutions of Parhament, it was, at least, a doubtful matter, whether the clamour in favor of reform was not the result of the activity of a few, operating moon the passions and hopes of the populace. The elections, especially those in the counties, we must conf. ss, have cleared up that doubt in a manner which leaves it now unquestionable, that a reform in Parliament, such as that which the bi substitutionally proposes, is demanded not by the mob merely, but by the people in a sober and legitimate construction of that term. There are many well informed persons apposed to the bil but the majority of the same class, it is new prored beyond doubt are for it; and the only question for a pratical statesman now is, how he may ender that which is inevitable and which he may view as surrounded with dangers, as safe a its application as possible. It by some mo dications such incrubers of the House of Comnons are in part met, the bill will pas meder in fluenced & hopeful austices; and as this state of preties in so obvious; we think that the report of the amount of calification, being still conside red by Minister as opens for amicable discussion s not so destitute of proability as some of the we doubt not but that they will pass bill ad it goes up to them from the Commons.
