THE UNION—IT MUST BE PRESERVED.
MONDAY MORNING, FEB. 20, 1833.

FOR GOVERNOR,
L. B. DAWSON.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY,
JAMES TO THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

EXTRACT.—CONFIDENTIAL.

Treasury Department, Dec. 16th, 1832.

Sir: Your letter of the 10th inst. was duly received on the 17th instant; but the pressure of business requiring attention, after an absence of a few days from the city, has prevented a reply until now.

The time fixed for the meeting of the Convention of South Carolina having actually arrived, renders it unadvisable for you to leave the scene of your official duties. And indeed, the time that a journey to Washington would occupy, may, at present, perhaps, be better employed in the examinations and investigations which ought to be made preparatory to a proper course of conduct on the part of the officers of the district, in the emergencies that may occur.

You will, before now, have seen the instructions which have been transmitted to the collector at Charleston, and are thus fully informed of the views of the President and of this Department, as to the manner in which the occasion is to be met, and as to the means which the law has placed in the hands of its officers for securing the revenue and enforcing its collection. After examining them, I shall be glad to have your own reflections upon the subject.

As it may be apprehended that, among other measures for defeating the operation of the revenue laws, an attempt will be made to take the goods from the custody of the officers of the customs by process from the State Courts, your attention is particularly invited to the course to be pursued in such an event.

In the case of Slocum vs. Mayberry, reported in the 2d Wheaton, page 1, the supreme court decided that the courts of the United States have exclusive jurisdiction of all seizures made on land or water for a breach of the laws of the U.S., and that any intervention of a state authority, which, by taking the thing seized out of the hands of the U. S. officer, might obstruct the exercise of this jurisdiction, is unlawful. It is true that this was a case of a seizure, under the direction of the collector, pursuant to law; but it will be proper to consider whether the principles of the case do not equally apply, whenever a vessel and her cargo may be in the custody of the officers of the customs under the law, and where the preservation of that custody is necessary to the execution of the laws of the United States. By the 33d section of this act of 1799, the collector is directed to put inspectors on board vessels, who shall suffer no goods, wares, or merchandize, of any nature or kind whatsoever, to be landed or taken, or otherwise taken or removed from the same, without a permit in writing from the collector of the port, and naval officer thereof, where any, first had and granted for that purpose.

If the principles of the decision in the case of Slocum vs. Mayberry apply to the custody of vessels and their cargoes authorized by that act, or if the officers of the customs be dispossessed of such custody by any means whatever, before a compliance with the law, and the collector should thereafter seize the property for that reason, it would appear to be plain, that, in either event, any attempts to deprive him of the custody, by state authorities, would be unlawful.

The means which may be lawfully employed for preserving the custody, against such interferences, will therefore require immediately your best and most discreet consideration; and, while it is desirable that you should advise none that are not strictly legal, it is expected that you will firmly support the collection by your aid and advice, in doing whatever he may lawfully do to retain the custody of the vessel and cargo until the law is fully complied with.

It is to be hoped that the augmentation of the number of inspectors, by the appointment of discreet and firm men, may prove equal to any emergency that may, for the present, arise; and as the power of the collector to do so is ample, under the instructions already given to him, I have only here to suggest that in exercising such authority, he should be careful to select individuals of known character and consideration in the community, and in whose probity, firmness and discretion, the fullest reliance may be placed. This is the more necessary, in order that, while the Government secures the services of men who will not shrink from their duty, and who, from their character may insure respect, its officers may avoid provoking unnecessary excitement by the selection of improper agents in the execution of the laws.

You are authorised to exhibit this letter to the collector, and also to General Scott, who, it is understood, will shortly repair to Charleston, for the purpose of superintending the safety of the posts of the United States in that vicinity.

I am, sir, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
LOUIS McLANE,
Secretary of the Treasury.

ROBERT B. GILCHRIST, Esq.
District Attorney U. S. Charleston.

We learn, with satisfaction, that the Post-master General has provided an express mail to run between Philadelphia and New York, in six hours, or sooner if possible.—This mail will start from the city immediately after the arrival of the Southern; and, as Col. Reeside has his horses ready, there is no doubt that every thing undertaken will be executed with the utmost vigor.

We understand, also, that Mr. Bates, an active an intelligent agent of the Post Office Department, intends to propose the establishment of an express mail between this city and Baltimore, to run through in eight hours. Mr. Bates is now in Philadelphia.—U. S. Gaz.

Speech of TUSHMA-LA-HA, a Choctaw Chief, before council of his countrymen:—

Tell me not of blood—I was born a warrior. I was not born as other men are, of woman—I was never nourished by the breast, or cherished by the affection of a mother—a dark cloud arose in the west, and from that cloud there came a stream of lightning, which struck and shattered to its root a huge pine—and thence sprang Tushma-la-ha, with rifle, gun, scalping knife, and tomahawk, ready for war. If our father (the President) say war, here is the breast that is first to meet the foe. Tushma-la-ha's step is foremost to the battle: but if he say peace, I say peace: but tell me not of blood.—Tushma-la-ha fears not blood.

A Learned Grand Jury.—Montreal Herald in noticing the grand jury of the Quarter Sessions, at present sitting, says—"The grand jury (with one exception) is composed of Canadians, who do not speak the English language, and one man who speaks and does not understand the French language. His name is Thomas Ewart, he has been naturalized man; he, with two others, are the only persons on the list who can sign their names."

(By authority.)

REMARKS.

The weather continues pleasant and favorable to out-door affairs, and the Mississippi at 4 feet 6 inches below high water mark.

Cotton.—Arrived since the 8th instant, of Louisiana and Mississippi 12745 bales, Mobile 243 Lake Ponchartrain 1462, North Alabama and Tennessee 308, Florida 984; together 15,742 bales. Cleared in the same time, for Liverpool 18710, Havre 3693, Nantz 644, Barcelona 1496, Newport 894, Boston 1917, Philadelphia 1000, and other 30,386 bales—making a reduction in stock of 24,000 bales leaving on hand, inclusive of all on ship-board not cleared on the 14th instant, a stock of 77,236 bales. The receipt of news from Havre up to 2d January, per ship Boreas, arrived last Tuesday, gave instant animation to our previously languid market, and sales of about 9000 bales, then in treaty, were closed immediately. So favorably, the demand continued fair, that the sales of the week, within our knowledge, amount to at least 17,000 bales—the greater proportion of which at an advance on previous prices, particularly for the middle qualities. Choice Cotton has not been affected by this news, other than rendering the market steady. We make no alteration in former quotations, but remark that they are much more easy to be obtained, and holders look rather for more than less. The particulars of the sales of the week, are, viz 3600 bales at 9 9-16; 1800, 9½; 200, 10; 1200, 10; 500, 9½; 2500, 9½; 500, 10½; 400, 10¼ a 10½; 500, 10 a 11; 500, 10¼ a 11¼ cents round, all of Louisiana and Mississippi. Of Tennessee and Alabama Cotton, we hear nothing; the stock on hand is insignificant, and arrivals from those places have scarcely yet began—if they should get into market early, the business in this staple will be closed at a period much earlier than usual, as operations in other descriptions have been accelerated this year in an extraordinary manner, and in all probability the month of June will close the market.

AMERICAN THEATRE.
FIRST NIGHT OF CINDERELLA.
A CARD.

THE manager has the honor to announce to the ladies and gentlemen of New Orleans, and the public in general, that the operatic spectacle of which has been in preparation for months, is nearly ready for representation.

CINDERELLA;
OR, THE LITTLE GLASS SLIPPER!

The manager will not congratulate that this piece will be represented in a manner surpassing the efforts of other establishments, but he will take the liberty of saying, that he has employed all the means within his compass, to make it as object worthy the support of the lovers of the histrionic art, citizens and strangers. Confident of this, it will merely appear with the support of the general company, and the manager begs leave, further to say, that as far as regards the acting of the piece, he will endeavor to maintain the present Corps Dramatique opposed to any other stock company in the country.

The scenic department has been under the control and execution of Mr. H. Reinagle, the machinery by Mr. John Varden, and Mr. Samuel Dunston and assistants, the dresses by Mr. John King and Mrs. McCafferty. Much care has been bestowed upon the Orchestra, and every auxiliary that could be had capable of aiding the general effect, secured.

The manager respectfully concludes by suggesting, that if he obtains the general public's approbation of the piece as it will be represented, he will have obtained his original aim and end.
