Every one who knows any thing of the duties of a Secretary of the Navy must know that inspection of the naval stations, navy yards, and naval depots, is one of the most important. Fornier Secretaries have made a sort of formal important. Fornier Socretaries have made a sort of formula and paradeful display of performing this duty with a train of attendants; bot Mr. Woodbury is one of those practical officers; who is resolved to see things with his own eyes, and has, therefore, no occasion for that suite, which, if it had been summoned to attend the Secretary, would have

The distinguished Indian warrors. Mink.kasta-mishas. went even to death for tea! It is now a tax on sugar that is to produce a further split to this great continent. It is curricus to think, that that great country should always be going to loggerheads about a cup of tea. Tea must be a veclaims ago shown on the subject at home, and have put it under a board of control. In the shape of slavery, it has kept this country and its tea, in hot water for thirty years. Pope speaks of a lady who never took a dish of tea without a stratagem; and I dly who never took a dish of tea without a stratagem; and it seems she was in the right, for it appears a very dangerors thing. America has fought and bled for its cup of tea first, and is now likely to do the same for sugar to put into it; while the ill-blood that has been made here, proves a cup of tea to be a beverage brimning with strife and disunion.
Its effects may be observed on old maids: tea and scandal are always coupled together, but when nati as get to their cups the consequences are more sectous. The Bostonians throw some hundreds of chests into the sea, and after having made that enormous cup of it a in the bay with salt water, peace was unknown for many years. Now we shall have a series of combats among hegsheads of sugar, more inflamatory than barrels of gunpowder.
