

THE BEE.

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED DAILY.—
BY JEROME BAYON.
STRATFORD PRESS.

THE UNION MUST BE PRESERVED.

MONDAY MORNING, APRIL 7, 1834.

FOR GOVERNOR:
J. B. DAWSON.
SECOND SENATORIAL DISTRICT:
B. MARIGNY.

ALBEMARLE
1st Dist.—G. SCHMIDT & R. O. PRITCHARD.
2d do FELIX LARATUT.
3d do EUGENE DESCLAUX.
4th do J. B. MUDUEZ.
5th do EDGARD MONTEGUT.
6th do J. FERRET.
7th do S. D. DIXON.
8th do F. BULISON.

Mr. Editor.—Please announce the names of RICHARD M. CASTLE and G. SOLOMON, as candidates for the city council from the 1st ward, and oblige
MANY VOTERS.

Mr. MERRIMAN HARRIS has consented to serve as alderman of the 6th ward if elected, and will be supported by the mechanics and citizens generally of that ward.

The municipal election comes on to-day. We believe on a similar occasion there will be little interest manifested.

The Broker of Bogota is to be repeated to-night. It is one of the best plays within the scope of the English drama.—Mr. Forrest has been re-engaged, and will appear as the Broker, a part which we look upon as his master-piece.

The northern gods received since our last publication, afford little comfort.

Our readers will find in our columns under the caption "public sentiment," that the signs of the times are quite ominous. We publish the accounts from New-York, Virginia and New-Jersey. Under the same head we shall continue to make extracts from time to time, as other manifestations may come to hand.

We have Boston paper to the 2nd. We see nothing of the reported intention of the merchants not to pay their customers' bills, and therefore must set the rumor down as one of the mischievous and exciting tales of the day, reported to fit the most dastardly and despotic purposes. The cradle of liberty, as it has been frequently designated, cannot be so regardless of her reputation and character, as to act in a manner that would compromise both.

The following besides, contains cheering anticipations of relief from the pecuniary pressure which is said to be felt there. It seems to indicate, leaving patriotism and duty out of the question, that the statement is at least premature:

From the Boston Advertiser (bad paper).

"We now have the pleasure of doing our duty to our constituents, and the opinion of men of business is unanimous, that there is in this city, decided an impulsion to the money market, which is true and will be of great benefit, and which, with the important arrangement of the merchants in Boston, ought to give encouragement and confidence to the merchants in the country."

IMPORTANT.—PENNSYLVANIA HAS DECLINED THE BANK!

The anti-bank resolutions reported in the Pennsylvanialegislature have passed the senate. The first resolution, DECLARING THAT THE BANK OUGHT NOT TO BE CHARTERED, passed by a vote of 13 to 13, and the second, that the deposits should not be honored, by a majority of 13 to 12. These resolutions, we are assured, will be acted promptly upon in the house, where there is no doubt of the result by a majority still more decisive. Pennsylvania has spoken, she is deeply interested in a pecuniary view of the continuance of the main bank monopoly, and the deliberate expression of her views, coming under the circumstances in which they do, must be no trivial. Was not the hardship of the merchants, with which the important arrangement of the merchants in Boston, ought to give encouragement and confidence to the merchants in the country?

IN BOSTON, March 21st, 1834.

IN S. N. Y.—After a protracted debate, the question upon Mr. Peterkin's resolutions was decided, and one voted today, to give a vote upon the first resolu. to of year 12, nays 13—upon the second, yes 19, nays 24.

Mr. Peterkin then offered the full wing:

"Resolved, that if a National Bank should be judicially necessary in the City of New York, it should be established in the following manner:

"Neither the mother Bank nor any branch shall be established in any State, with the consent of such State first had and obtained; and that every State in which said branch shall be established, shall have power by an act of its legislature to judge of its propriety, and to expel such bank whenever it shall judge the existence of such a branch with a due regard to her institutions, the welfare and happiness of the people or inconsistent with the welfare and happiness of the state."

The two resolutions were negatived, 5 nays, 27 the second and third, and but three affirmative votes—yes and nays not called.

From the N. Y. Mercantile Advertiser, March 21.

LATEST FROM SPAIN.

[Extract of a letter received in this city.]

BATONNEAU, 34 February, 1834.

The civil war in our neighbor's home, namely, in the Spanish provinces of Biscay, Guipos, Alava and Navarre, who at first took in defense of Don Carlos, have published new proclamations, declaring that the government of the Queen Regent has it in contemplation to abolish the free constitution and privileges, of which these provinces have been a possession time immemorial.

They therefore call every inhabitant to arms to defend their independence and their liberties. This appeal has been answered by thousands of disaffected people, thus neutralizing the main and most powerful party of Zulueta.

But neither the mother Bank nor any branch shall be established in any State, with the consent of such State first had and obtained; and that every State in which said branch shall be established, shall have power by an act of its legislature to judge of its propriety, and to expel such bank whenever it shall judge the existence of such a branch with a due regard to her institutions, the welfare and happiness of the people or inconsistent with the welfare and happiness of the state."

3. That any interference in elections, either State or National, by publications or otherwise, shall be a sufficient cause of censure, and that the charter shall contain all other restrictions and limitations necessary and proper to confine such institution to the mere purpose of banking, and assistance to the fiscal operations of the Government.

The first resolution was negatived, 5 nays, 27 the second and third, and but three affirmative votes—yes and nays not called.

The three degrees of comparison.—The Richmond Enquirer, under the above caption, humorously says—"A worthy delegate in the last general assembly insisted, that the Bank of the United States was not very unconstitutional.—Our new senator says it is unconstitutional, but a New-York or executive bank will be more unconstitutional. Then we have unconstitutional more unconstitutional, and very or most unconstitutional. What will the learned Dr. Walsh think of this?"

Upon the subject of the panic, the same paper says—The Oracle of old foretold events by causing them. Our modern Oracle calls meetings, make speeches, pass resolutions, inflame the public mind, and then cry aloud, "Pressure, pressure!" Once a set of mischievous wags contrived for their own purposes, to convince a man in ill health that he was desperately ill. By separately meeting him, and expressing their sympathy of his former condition, the poor fellow's credulity at last led him to believe that he was actually far gone, and none but a great Philadelphia doctor could cure him!"

FOR THE BEE.

The present attitude of our country, although a source of grief and mortification to those patriotic who are interested in the welfare of their country, is the reverse of what it was in the month of January, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

Well does the American know that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real philistines of the nation, when in whom brazen glows the fire of genuine patriotism, and with whom the future and permanent welfare and happiness of his country rests, paramount to every number consideration.

The American, however, an American, knew that so soon after a severe journal which has been awakened by the U. S. Bank, its partisans and friends, shall have subsided, that a perfect calm will succeed, when the American people will awaken from the pernicious influence of the narco's politicians who have been forced down their throats by the real