STATE POLITICS.

NEW-ORLEANS: PRINTED BY JAMES M'CARTY.

SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 3, 1834.

FOR GOVERNOR:

E. D. DAWSON.

Pay Heed to be remembered at the Polls.—Remember, that Edward D. White voted in favor of a law, calculated to bring distress and ruin upon the great flourishing interest of our State.—Remember, that we sent him to Congress to advocate our rights, and to represent our wants.—Remember, that he sold the one and mocked at the other.

REMEMBER, that John B. Dawson was raised among us—that we have grown up together, from childhood to manhood—that he never deserved the confidence of his fellow-citizens—in short, that he has ever been respected as a man, loved as a man, and honored as a citizen.

SECOND SENATORIAL DISTRICT:

B. MARIGNY.

For Congress:—1st District, CH. GAYARRE,
" 2d " JAMES BRADFORD,
" 3d " J. WALKER.

The northern mail not arriving yesterday accounts for the meagre appearance of the day's paper.

We shall not anticipate the anxiety of our readers by giving extracts from the president's protest. On Monday next we shall lay the great document in extenso before them. It will then be read and attentively considered by every one. Other reports have been destroyed by the assumption on the part of their chief magistrate, ours is threatened by an assumption of power on the part of a branch of the legislature, which body, not satisfied with wielding the high powers delegated to it by the constitution, would prescribe the duties of the co-ordinate branches of the government. The case is a fearful one, and calls upon the people for the utmost vigilance!

Two individuals, in the act of robbing the store of Mr. Lon. [illegible] Chartres street, were taken by the police, last night at 11 o'clock, and brought to the jail. The Mayor, who was aware of their movements, had been previously informed of the [illegible] of these ruffians were to put that plot into execution. Fortunately only two were apprehended; probably the [illegible] missed the rendezvous.

A similar arrest has taken place the night before, at the store of Mr. Jacob Pelic.

The weather has for several days been uncomfortably [illegible].

MR. FOSDICK, the PROFESSOR OF PENMANSHIP.—This gentleman [illegible] in this city has been winning golden [illegible] by the [illegible] in the art which he teaches. We have heard of the most astonishing improvement on the [illegible] and can from our own personal observation [illegible] to all such as have the misfortune to write [illegible] being attended, the present favorable [illegible] should not be lost.

The Journal of New-York, now that their services are no longer needed, have come in for a full share of abuse from those who recently favored them with the kindest and most flattering attention. One of the bank papers, the Journal of Commerce, says that the claims of the colored people to [illegible] are better than that of the Irishmen—meaning the American, calls them the riff-raff, and the N. York Courier and Enquirer of $32,000 memory, says that they are unworthy of consideration. Thus it is. It remains to be seen whether the independent Irishmen in this city, will be [illegible] into the support of a cause sustained by men who [illegible] cast with thosn of the revilers of their countrymen in New-York.

To the Editor of the Bee:

Sir—In yesterday's Bulletin I find the following extract of a letter [illegible]

"Boston, March 7, 1834.

"We hear through Barings, that four millions of dollars [illegible] are the property of New-Orleans from Mexico on their recent [illegible] in consequence in the United States, and two millions are [illegible] forward from England. We understand [illegible] of the specie at New-Orleans is rather a confidential matter."

Now sir, taking for granted, that what is contained in the above extract is true, the decision of those who [illegible] financial affairs, will [illegible] with the reduction in [illegible] Bank, [illegible] of the [illegible] Bank, [illegible] would have it, or as the [illegible] is, that specie [illegible] must be brought from the country [illegible] 30 per cent. [illegible] and what [illegible] of the U. S. Bank [illegible] country, at [illegible] than at present [illegible] London or foreign [illegible] such [illegible] exchanging it [illegible] and [illegible] New-Orleans [illegible] the [illegible] of exhorting and persuading.

Yours, &c. X.

Mr. White of Louisiana, Mr. Burges, Mr. Cambreleng, Mr. Reed of Massachusetts, and Mr. Carr of Indiana, constitute the Committee appointed to the investigation of Benjamin Page of the city of Philadelphia, for the purpose of proving the explosion of Steam Engines.

From the Savannah Georgian.

WHEN WILL CONGRESS ADJOURN?

The present session of congress is likely to be a long one. Some of the members here pretty plainly declared that they would not [illegible] something is done "to relieve the distresses of the country," by other words restore the deposits and recharter of the bank. Congress have now been in session more than four months, and have done nothing but talk, talk, talk.

Some time back the Democratic Party in Congress [illegible] upon the useless discussion by the previous question. The Bank Party cried out that they were about to be [illegible] and said it was unfair to move the previous question, although Mr. Bunger, the champion of the Bank forces in the House, had at the very opening of the session, declared that a speedy decision was essential to the interests of the country. The debate was allowed to be continued, the country castigated to be agitated by the inflammatory speech of the bank members, and the debate might have continued open until the end of the year, if the majority had not very properly put an end to it by moving the previous question.

Since that, the bank papers have vaunted that the question of the bank was still open. Mr. Boone, of Indiana, on the 9th inst. moved that the 31st of May be appointed for adjournment. For this motion, which has not yet come before the House, Mr. Boone has been soundly rated by the bank papers, who call this gagging. Precious souls! they wish the bank members to continue receiving their eight dollars per diem from the United States, while they continue their efforts in favor of the bank. The number of members in the House is 240, and at $8 per diem the daily pay is $1920. So if Mr. Boone's motion be lost, the people will have to pay $1920 per diem to gratify the bank advocates. It is to be hoped that the members friendly to the administration will not allow the appeal made to their generosity as a majority, to influence them in not pushing the question of adjournment.

CONNECTICUT ELECTION.

The following is an extract of a letter received from Hartford this morning:

"Although the Jackson party have not succeeded in Connecticut, we have increased in numbers almost beyond expectation. At the election after the first organization of the party, we numbered about 2000; we now count 14,000 for our Jackson candidate for Governor. I think another election will give us the majority. The deceptions and arts of the opposition cannot avail much longer."—Globe.

REMARKABLE FACT.—The New York papers state as a remarkable fact, that the only ward in which there was a serious disturbance, during the election, was the sixth; in which a large number of Bank men banded together with the professed object of keeping the peace.—Baltimore Republican.

ADOPTED CITIZENS.—Having used this class as far as their present purpose required, or as their influence extended, and not anticipating any further occasion for their services until the election next October, the papers of the Party of all Parties, now throw off the mask, and charge the 'Jackson Irishmen,' the 'low Irish,' with being the aggressors in the riots which occurred in the Sixth Ward, during the struggle between the rich and the poor which has [illegible] subsided. It is no longer necessary to cajole; the [illegible] are consequently thrown off and they are once more [illegible] of the Commercial, the people whose [illegible] opinions are not worth conciliating of the Courier, the 'riff raff' of the American.—N. Y. Eve. Post.

There is one point of view in which the recent triumph of the democratic party in this city is to be considered which is calculated to afford high and pure gratification to every man really animated by the sentiments of republicanism. It is most emphatically the triumph of the principle of universal suffrage. Never, since that great principle of universal rights of men, has the principle been called to so severe a test as that which we have just passed through. Never, since the right of every citizen to have a voice in the management of public affairs was acknowledged, have their honesty, firmness and discretion in the exercise of that right been so severely and perseveringly assailed. After the result of the past election, no candid and intelligent American can any longer deny the excellence of the principle of universal suffrage; and, indeed, we firmly believe that to that principle we must look for the preservation of our republican institutions.

It can hardly be necessary to point the attention of the reader to the nature of the means which have been used against the democratic party. The desperate and reckless course of the United States Bank, ever since it became an applicant for a renewal of the charter, is known to all. We need not allude to its partizan efforts in circulating, at immense cost, a vast number of electioneering publications; in bribing conductors of newspapers and purchasing venal presses; and in endeavoring to thwart, by every means that the possession of the public money put into its power, the measures of the national administration. Nor need we allude to the promptitude and alacrity with which it seized hold of the removal of the deposits as furnishing a plausible pretence for its creating that money pressure upon the community, which, if the deposites had not been removed, it would have created all the same, but to a much more serious extent, and which, indeed, it had already commenced creating before the removal was resolved upon. Independantly of the clamour and disaffection and distress occasioned by these efforts of the Bank, and by the specious arguments which its advocates have put forth to show that the conduct of the Executive had been unconstitutional, and by the intemperate and silly speeches which lying committees and infamous eave-droppers have ascribed to the Executive,—independantly of these things, weapons have been brought to bear against the democracy which were calculated to try to the uttermost the soundness of the principle of universal suffrage. Money has been most lavishly spent; not merely for the ordinary and legitimate purposes of printing, room-hire, &c, but in direct and open bribery. The most cruel proscription has been boldly and extensively practised and audaciously avowed. Appeals of an exceedingly inflammatory nature have been addressed to the passions and prejudices of men—their cupidity has been stimulated—their vanity flattered—their feelings of discontent with their own party aggravated. The bait of offices has been dangled before the eyes of those who might be won by such a lure; while the treat of dismissal has been freely used to terrify into inactivity the present holders of place. The instructions of Dudley Selden, in short, to move all hell to get up an excitement have been strictly obeyed; and the result proves that the democratic party is faithful—that the principle of universal suffrage is sound—and that even 'the gates of hell shall not prevail against us.'—Ibid.

[From the Charlestan Courier.

THE FORCE BILL.

We cannot well imagine a more contemptible footing than that on which Mr. Calhoun, and his allies, are now placing the State, in reference to this matter. Surely State pride has been sufficiently humbled by their backing out in the acceptance of the Bill of Compromise, grac[illegible] tendered by Henry Clay, to save South Carolina, as he then told her Representatives, from "disgrace and degradation." But that they should, at this time, be begging (for it is in fact no thing more) of the same Henry Clay, a repeal of the Force Bill, or of so much thereof as it will please him to grant, after publicly announcing to the world, that they had within the State, nullified and destroyed it, does seem like drinking up the very dregs of humiliation. This is the man whose Tariff laws they professed to nullify. This is the man who caused all the oppressions and injuries which drove the State to resistance—and can no better hand be found to dole out at home at his good pleasure, relief and consolation for the manifold mortifications and insult he has thrown upon them? Have they in fact, sold their birth right, (the pride and spirit of Carolina) for that mere mess of pottage, such political influence as an amalgamation with this man can gain them? Well, well, may Carolina say,

"Farewell, a long farewell, to all my greatness."

The spirit of our fore-fathers indeed is gone, and all that those, who now profess to represent her dignity can do, is basely to truckle for influence and for office.

It is impossible for one who does not see the South Carolina papers, to imagine the state of excitement which exists among its people. The Nullifiers, while they profess to be the exclusive champions of liberty, have demonstrated, by the tactics, doctrines and despotic views adopted by them last winter, that no country was ever cursed with a set of more heartless tyrants. They may call Jackson a "despot[illegible] ger and arbitrary despot," and apply to him every other epithet in the Demagogues' vocabulary—but History will rend[illegible] their names infamous as long as any record of their acts shall be embodied in its pages—unless, indeed, their conduct be the subject of future wonder, as a strange delusion, rather than of reprobation, as a deliberate design to dissever the Union of these States.—Lynch. Virginian.
