

The Norfolk Boacon complains, with great justice, of the great length of the political productions of the day:

The great end of publication is virtually lost sight of in such communications. No business man can read themit is certain that not one fiftieth part of professed politician get through thom. Great length is, in some degree, incompapible with intellectual excellence. The essence of ordinary questions is reducible within a small compass. We could ment on three political productions of the last three weeks, which, if printed in a similar manner, would more than count the contents of one of the buiky volumes of the firs edition of Marshall's Life of Washington."

We learn from the Washington Globe, that the Hon. Juhn Rungles has been elected a senator from Maine, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of the Hon. Peleg Surague, for eix years from the 4th of March next. The vote stood as follows:

John Ruggles (Administration) George Evans (apposition)

FANCY BALL IN WASHINGTON. The Washington correspondent of the Charleston Mer cury, gives the following sprightly account of a fancy ball at the seat of the national governme

"For a fortnight past, the main repie of conversation among the famionables, hasbeen a Fancy Bail, to be given by Mrs. Waithman, a lady whose name is familiar to all who have resided in this city. Last night the ball took place. It was a aparking and aprightly affair. Every one was happy, and there was such rivalry in the disdlay of it. It had been previously announced, that no one would be adcarted who did not appear in a fancy dress, atthough the numerous applications for exemption led to a considerable relexation of the rule which had been laid down. At the duer of the antercome, stood a master of exempon, who derelexation of the sule which had been laid down. At the door of the sale secon, stood a master of ceremony, who demanded the styles and title of the visiter; and some of the styles and txles were strange enough, and had, if any, only a very occult connexion south the appearance of the individual. The guests were then conducted into another room, at the head of a long avenue of beauty, in which was posted the lady of the mansion. Through this avenue the visiters bed to part, subjected to the gaze and remarks of those who had been ferturate enough to arrive early, and this process was a great mirth stirrer. There must have been for three hundred gersons present; although I am included the had been for the number were either in their ordinary contains or only were some badge which might be a ticket retings a third of the number were either in their orannary coatame or only wore some badge which might be a ticket of admission, in case the rule had been rigidly enforced.—Some every excellent characters were present; and at the head of these, deverve to be minimed an Indian groupe representing two Passace Chiefs and a Squaw. These were admirable conceptions, pastied and decorated to the life; and so well had they been disciplined, (the chief personage having been for some time among the India; a), that they preserved the consistency and keeping of their characters throughout the whole of the evening. The Squaw appeared sibservient, and completely Indian. She sat on the floor, smiked, (lawender) followed in the rear submit sively, was silent, and ammovable of co-intenance. When asked to disace, she pointed to the Chief, indicating that she could only dance with tim. There was another Indian female character present, and their meeting was in excellent keeping. Mr. Cathean and Mr. Preston were there, in their proper continue, and Miss Cathous was the "observed of all observers." The fancy dresses were splendid: some of the misle dresses were from the Theatre. Hamlet and Horatio were there. I believe there were a Granks, Romans and French; there was a Chinese who danced in his slippers, and Scotca Chieft ins, whose pistols were awkward apprendinges to the walts. The claymore, the tartan, the kilt, and other elements of the Highland coolune, were new, and eleighful, and went off in a most agreeable manner, but the company did not go off until two or three hours after midnight."

The editor of the Richmond Compiler exclaims with re-"Are we to fellow the plan laid down by the editor of the National Gazette, and forget all the benefits conferred apon our ancestors! Forbid it gratitude! Forbid it every feeling pusable, worthy of human nature!" Forbid it also, a protender and ranter, who cannot com-suchend the case.—{Nat. Gaz.

wohn L. Lewis sworm on the part of the accused, deposes as follows:

1st question. Are you not clerk of the District Court of the 1st district, sitting in this city?

Answer. Tes—I am.
2nd question. Do you remember having seen the accused in the morning of the 3d inst. Relate the time and place and all execumstances within your know edge?

Answer. On the mixing of the 3d Feb, Mr. Grymes caine into the effice of witness three or four minutes after the hour of fen by the staws cleck, and recounted to witness the difficulty which had just taken place between him and Mr. Labranche.

3d question. What were remarked.

3d question. What were your fuents of knowing the hour exactly?

Answer. The court opens at 10 c'clock. The jedge is very exact about the time of opening every, and that moraing took his seat as the clock was striking the hour of 16, and Mr. Grymes came in about four or five minutes after the judge had taken his seat—The first case on the docket of that moraing was one of Mr. Grymes, and he came to attach the interpretation of the docket of the court in the distribution of the docket of the court in the distribution on which contains the clock, and may be heard distinctly in the court room, as it strikes the hour of the day.

distinctly in the court room, as it summe the Hall of the house of Representatives to the Court House, mearly the whole length of the city and deep it not require some natures to walk it, and how many about?

Answer. The distance from the Hall of Representatives to the place where the District Sourt is held, is considerable, and witness think it would take Mr. Grymet, in consequence of his basiness, about 18 or 20 minutes to welk it.

Thomas Curry, a witness on the part of the accused being sworn deposes as follows:

1st. augustion: Did you see the accused on the morning sworn deposes as follows: fat, question: Did you see the accessed on the morning of the 3d instant, if so state the hour and all the circumstan-

s in your knowledge.

Answer. I met Mr. Grymes on the morning of the 3d in the Witness left his office, which is near the Branch Beak of the United States, about five minutes before ten ecclock.

Mr. Grymes was going down Boyal street, towards the die tret court—met him in about two minutes after witness had left his office—witness came directly to the Supreme Court rooms—the judges had not taken their seats, and it was then that witness heard of the aftray.

B. C. Elliot sworn on the part of the accused, deposes as follows:
