Father in Heaven! from whom the simplest flower,
On the high Alps, or flory desert thrown,
Draws not eweet odoar or young life alone,
But the deep virtue of an inbern power
To cheer the wanderer in his fainting hour,
With thoughts of thee; to strengthen, to infuse
Faith, love, and courage, by the tender hues
That speak thy Presence; ohl with such a dower
Grace then my angle—the presence sail bestow That speak thy Presence; oht with such a dower Grace thou my song!—the precious gift bestow From thy pure Spirit's treasury divine, To wake one tear of purifying flow, To soften one weary heart for thee and thine. So shall the life, breathed thro' the lowly etrain, Be as the mack wild flowers.
