It is gratifying to find that the members of the senate have at length attended to the repeated calls of the most intelligent genelemen of the bare by introducing a bill to appoint two additional judges of the supreme court of this state. Suits in litigation will necessarily increase with time and oppulation; and even had three judges been enough previously, they could not be now, were they all in health and ybunger.

As it has been resolved that the business of that court hitherto transacted as Baton Rouge, then be performed in New Orleans, it might be well-stading more explicitly the time of holding the sessions in his city—so as to state from the 1st Menday in Nov till the 4th Monday in July judicities.

But if we mistake not, the reward in this instance is substantial—the author sharing with the publishers, the profits arising from the sale of the work: so that in some instances at least, the harvest resped in the fiolds of American literature is not trilling.

LATE FROM FLORIDA.

"Tawas Bar, on board the David Brown, February 14th, 1835.

"The conveyance I had written to you by yesterday has taken snother route, and perhaps will not reach its destination, Mibile, in some time. We have been unaveidably detained here in wooding, discharging cargo, troops, &c. The army marched out in quest of the enemy, at half post 10 o'clock with all the pomp of war. Their red allies brought ap the rear, seventy in number, and set up their wild war-whop. Late in the afternoon of yesterday, there was a heavy tiring heard, to the south of us, and it is supposed there was a general engagement. All the families, residents here, have taken refuge on board the shipping, during the absence of the army. We are getting under weigh for Havans, via Key West.

is concerned; for it is known that the bed of the bayou and canal Plaquemine are about 4 feet above the beight of low water mark, of the Mississippi; and consequently they must continue unnavigable during the greater part of the year whatever improvements may be made on them, as the fall of the country is to the Mississipi in that district. The bed of the Plaquemine is fordable for mon this together; yet the board of public works voluntarily and by advice, have recklessly spert thousands in vain endeavors to aurmount insummountable obstacles.

The bayou Lefourche is in the same state, as its bed is also considerably higher than low water mark in the Mississippi; and all the moneys expended on it will be equally vain. It would be preferable at once to close up all connection of the Plaquemine and Lafourche with the Mississippi than 'throw good moneys after bad' in attempting to retrieve what is irreversily less, and to conquer the land marks of nature. Our legislature cannot remove mountains; and—with all due respect to them—they are 'no conjurors.'

They seem to have no definite idea of the levels of the country, in order to guide them as to tine utility and practicability as well as the expediency of many works which they have imposed on the board of internal improvements. They fancy that to will is to do; and therefore order surveys ad libitors of petty beyons and streamlets, which the grahd rivers is their might your flowings have but disogreed.

The valley of the Mississippi is formed by the Alleganies on the east. The lowest level of this vale is the Atchafalaya, not of the Mississippi to the Atchafalaya, not of the Mississippi to the Atchafalaya, not of the Mississippi to the Atchafalaya, in all the immediate space. The absurdity consequently of attempting to render navigable any of the intermediate cannals or theyous, whose bed is above.

Compatible that A sedefaction
Of the Planters of Louisiana.
New Orleans, 20th Jan, 1826.
Sir—I am instructed by the Buard of Directoria to transact you the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted with its présemble, at the sitting of the 28d inst.
Whereas the late exop is the abortest that was ever made in Louisiana since the cultivation of the sugar cane was first insuppliced; resolved that the stockholders and other effects by mortgage, who shall say all the interests due by them, shall be dispensed for the present year, to pay any of the instalments due on the present year, to pay any of the instalments due on the principal.

In offering this said to its stockholders, and other debugs by mortgage, the Department of the process. principal. In offering this aid to its stockholders, and other debtors by mortgage, the Board of Directors rely on their punctuality, in paying up the interest, and avail themselves of this opportunity to abserve that the payment of interest can in no case be retarded.

legally evolution. It is opposed to have that the elections could easily and safely be terminated in one.

Mr. Brownson concurred in this opinion, and believes it dangerous to allow three duys wherein to hold any election. Now the parish judge and commission represents at elections in the man precincts, in consequence of being obliged to verify the votes within a limited time: extend that time, and the necessity of this strict surveillance is removed. The extension of the time will not therefore be able to see re so safe and secure a condition of our elections, as at present; as others than the present judges of elections—less competent and faithful—might preside. In the large parish of Natchitoches, he has no objection to have the experiment made and tested, as there the aged and feeble may not be enabled to reach the place of holding the elections till the second or third day, as its senator has formerly stated: but in the other parishes, he thinks there is no necessity to thange the present daration of selections, as all within the range of any precinct can vote in one day; and on the third, the votes may be counted at the main precinct.

The discussion and bill were postponed.

Mr Hoa moved to take up the bill returned with smeathments from the house, to establish a chart of probates for the parish of Oricans.

The senate concurred it the amendments, authorising the parish judge to order sales at suction; and the bill was finally passed.

The bill to appoint additional notaries public in he parishes of Natchitoches and Rapides, was read.

Mr Labauve's bill to amend the acts relating to roads and levees, was read. It grants a salary of 25 yearly to the inspectors of the roads in the several parishes, instead of exempting them from paying parish tares. It was postponed.

made for the bayous Plaquemine and Latourche, from knowing that they were as useless as profuse. The topographical levels of the dountry prevent their being useful, so far as navigation is concerned; for it is useful, so far as navigation is concerned; for k is known that the bed of the bayou and canal Plaquemine are about 4 feet above the height of low water mark, of the Mississippi; and consequently they must continue unnavigable during the greater part of the year whatever improvements may be made on them, as the fall of the country is to the Mississippi in the district. The hed of the Plaquemine is forder.

Yet we find many gentlemen otherwise intelligent vote for such appropriations to make waters mount 3 or 4 feet on land above their level, without any conductor: 4 feet on land above their level, without any conductors and not for some of the state treasury from any fisads not otherwise appropriated; but impose bonuses and penalties on banking companies for the same herioc object. The bank of Carrelton is levied on in the sum of $75,000 to carry a canal up a height from the Atchafalnya river to the Mississippi—although the bed itself of the canal is many feet higher than either of these rivers. Were such a canal practicable and user fall it were well to construct it. canadaring its area. ful, it were well to construct it, considering its expediency alone; but the time will demonstrate the utter imp saibility of constructing any canal between the Mississippi and Atchafalaya rivers below the parish of Point Coupee. Consult Darley, Crozat or any intelligent surveyor who has ever traversed that region; and you will be convinced if not persuaded of the truth of these remarks. Why then adhere blindly to a particular system of improvement, which is useless and ex-The true plan of draining is to improve the beaks of the great rivers; and the meliorations to be made on the bayous will follow. The bad of the Red river is gradually on a declivity from the Rocky mountains; and both banks are pretty hearly on a level near to Alexandria—from which place the right bank is low.

er than the left, and consequently the adjacent districts southward are inundated. Construct then a level along the remaining part of that bank; and future inun-dations will be prevented, while the marshy lands in Avoyelles, atc can sasily be reclaimed. Avoyelles, site can easily be reclaimed.

The river Tensas should be freed from obstructions, and levees constructed on both its banks, till it drittes with the Washita: at that junction the waters of both should be forced into the Black river which discharges itself into the Red—and by their means, the fall into Little river and Catahoola lake would not only be cut off, but the refluence presented of the watera which inundate the adjacent district.

Attention should be simultaneously directed to removing obstructions from the Atchafalays, and to need to the adjacent of the Atchafalays, and to need to the adjacent of the Atchafalays, and to need to the adjacent of the Atchafalays. structing levees on its banks—particularly on the left which is the lowest. This would render less labori ous and expensive any attempts to clear the dependent bayous, which sound policy suggests should be subsequent not as new antecedent to the improvements of the Atchafalays. The same system should be pursued as regards all the bayous running eastward towards that river, as theld declivity is eastward. In the eastern part of the state, the declivity is west-ward as far as the Mississippi; and it therefore desig-nates the necessary improvements after the obstructions of the state of th vers that run south.

Adopting a system of internal improvements based en this knowledge of the topographical relations of the different parts of the state would save much much chicanery, much amoyance, and much the public treasury.

At an early period of the session indirectly did we endeavor to attract the attention of the legislature to the public works which would really be useful as well as practicable, in reclaiming most of the lands inwell as practicable, in reclaiming most of the large inundated in Louisiana, when noticing a project to construct a canal thre Missouri, Arkanese and Louisiana from Cape Gtrardess on the Mississippi to the Red rivar. The right bank of the Mississippi from its junction with the Missouri is higher than the less, as far as the above town, but thence enward to St Fassiciaville, the left is higher; and from the city to the Mitte both banks are nearly level, being neither now were than two or three feet above high water mark.
