In expressing our opinion on the admission of Texas an expressing our opinion on the aumission of Texas-ists the American Union, we treated the subject only in its relations with the welfare of our country. If, in our fiest article, we devoted a law lines to its conin our first article; we devoted a few lines to its con-sequences upon the opinions of these European pow-ers with which we are connected in the way of com-metoe, it was not because we imagined any one of them would be alarmed at the extension of our terri-tery, while our population increases avery day in the wast regions which stretch towards the chain of the vast regions which stretch towards the chain of the roaky meantains, and beyond them towards the Parific osean. There lies the route, not in Texas, by which, in less than half a century; we shall achieve a road to the East Indies. We cannot conceive, therefore, how a member of the English house of constmose sould assert in his place, that the possession of Texas would enable the Americans to make a voyage to China in six weeks. No navigable stream ascends more than forty leagues into the interior, except the Rio Bravo del Norte, on which steamboats have made sixty leagues. Bosides it is evident that the great chain of mountains, or Sierra Madre, suning from north to south, will always interpose an ming from north to south, will always interpose an obstacle to commercial intercourse between Texas and Souths. It is ridiculous to entertain an appreher commercial interests, and all writers on political economy, agree in opinion that England has gained

The express mail (due Wednesday) arrived yester day furnishing as with slips from New York and biladelphia to the $3d, and Baltimore to the $4th. Philadelphia to the 33d, and Baltimore to the 34th.

The New York Mercantile Advertiser of the 33d, states the loss of the fine shipt Bristol, of East Rocksway, on the 21st. The Bristol, communded by Capt McKown, sailed from Liverpool on the 15th ult, with able cargo of dry goods, consigned to Woodward & Minturn. She struck on the Far Rocksway har, where the round house or dock cahin, was washed ashore; also ber head board and six letters and bills of lading.

As soon as she struck, she broached to the wind, and heeled sexward. The steerage passengers rushed on deak and were swept away by the waves almost as soon as they made their appearance. The entin passengers remained below, until the deck cabin was washed off, in which time Cait McKown had made preparations for their safety, as far as lay in his power, by which the majority of them were saved, together with meny of the steerage passengers. The ship has bilged and gone to pieces at our latest advices. The passengers saved, had nothing but what they shood in. Their trusks which had drifted ashore, were immediately by ken upon by the "were thus drasons" on shore and their sontents stolen. The ship was insured for $4000 dollars in this city, as well as the greater part of her cargo; the romainder insured in England.
