NOTES.

1. Each route must be bid for separately. The route, the sum, the mode of service, and the residence of the bidder, should be distinctly stated in each bid.

2. No proposal will be considered unless it be accompanied by a guaranty signed by one or more responsible persons, in the following form, viz:

"The undersigned guaranty that if his bid for carrying the mail from to be accepted by the Postmaster General, shall enter into an obligation prior to the first day of March next, with good and sufficient sureties, to perform the service proposed."

Dated 1837."

This should be accompanied by the certificate of a Postmaster, or other equivalent testimony, that the guarantors are men of property, and able to make good their guaranty.

3? The guaranty being required by law, no exemption can be allowed in favor of old contractors railroad companies, or any other companies or persons whatsoever.

3. The distances, as stated in this advertisement, are believed to be substantially correct; but the bidder must satisfy himself in these particulars, no acknowledgment will be allowed for any difference when the pieces are named correctly.

4. The schedules are arranged so as to allow seven minutes at each post office for opening and closing mails generally, and one hour to the distributing post offices; but the Postmaster General may extend the time on leaving the termini to the contractors.

5. The Postmaster General may alter the schedule, and alter the route, he allowing a pro rata increase of compensation for any additional service required, and for all curtailments, when the employment of additional stock or carriers is tend red necessary.

6. He may discontinue, or curtail the service, whenever he shall consider it expedient to do so, he allowing one month's extra pay on the amount dispensed with.

7. He may impose fines for failure to take or deliver a mail, or any part of a mail, which, by contract it shall to be injured, wet, lost, or destroyed; and may exact a forfeiture of the pay of the trip whenever the trips is lost; or the mail arrives so far behind schedule time as to disappoint the next regular mail.

8. He may annul the contract for repeated failures to perform any of the stipulations, for refusing to discharge a carrier when required, for violating the Postmaster General's orders in relation to the contract, or assigning a contract without the previous consent of the Postmaster General.

9. In mail contracts the use of a stage or other vehicle more rapidly or more frequently than he is required by the contract to carry the mail, he shall give the same increased celerity and frequency to the mail, and will thereby secure a preference.

10. Contractors on stage and coach routes shall, in the conveyance of passengers, give a preference to those who are brought in the connecting mail lines, over those travelling by the other, so that connecting mail stage routes shall form continuous traveling lines.

11. On routes where the mail is transported in stages and the present contractor shall be superseded by an underbidder, who may not have the stage property requisite for the performance of the contract, he shall purchase from the present contractor such of the stage horses, harness, and coaches as may be required for the service, at a fair valuation, and make payment therefor before the service commences. Should they not agree as to the satisfactoriness of the property the terms, or the security, each may choose a person who may appoint a third, and their decision shall be final, or Postmaster General may purchase at his option. This will be made the condition of any bid and that of 5 present contractor; and should the underbidder fail to comply, his bid will be void and the contractor shall be entitled to decline it, the proposals of the underbidder will be accepted unconditionally.

12. The Postmaster General is prohibited by law from entering into any contract for the transportation of the mail with any person who shall have entered into any combination, or proposed to enter into any combination, or proposed to enter into any combination, or proposed the withholding of any bid for a mail contract by any other person or persons; or who shall have made any agreement, or shall have given or performed, or promised to give or perform, any consideration whatever to induce any person to bid at a less rate, or not to bid for a mail contract.

13. On post coach and stage routes where that kind of train operation is sometimes difficult, proposals will be received for the mails on horseback, in wagons, or carts, for a specified numbers of months, weeks, or days in each year; but no dispensation at post coach or stage service will be tolerated unless it be anticipated for in the proposals and embraced in the contract.

14. The proposals should be sent to the Department sealed, endorsed "Mail proposals for furnishing army subsistence," and addressed to the First Assistant Postmaster General, S. R. Hobbie.

AMOS KENDALL.
