THE SUBSCRIBER a direct importer of a fine assortment of garden and flower seeds, wished, before giving notice to planters, to subject them to experiments which would establish their good qualities. Repeated trials have been made with every species which have established their excellence and have secured to the subscriber important sales.

The subscriber takes the honor to inform the public that they will find at his establishment an assortment of perfect seeds, at moderate prices, and convinced, as he is, of the necessity of securing the confidence of planters, he has taken proper measures to offer them no seeds that cannot be positively relied upon.

The subscriber therefore sells, and will continue to sell, with a guarantee, not the mere customary guarantee which is illusory, but with the assurance to his purchasers that the will refund all seeds which are found useless.
