The murder of Lord William Russell, on the 6th ult. had caused great excitement in Lordon. He was found in his bead in his house in Norfolk street, with his throat cut—and many and valuable articles had been taken from his spartment—which would seem to show that plander must have been the object. The perpetrators of the robbery and murder had not been apprehended, although a large reward had been offered for their apprehension by the government.—Some circumstances accemed to implicate his Lordship's Swiss wakt, named Courveibier, in the transaction. He was arrested and under examination. An important decision has been given on the subject of the indemnity to the opious amugglers by the Supreme Court at Caketta, which declares that Capt. Elliott, when he gave the securities, was under duresse, and that his securities were of course void.

Great preparations were making to celebrate Queen Victoria's birth day in a splendid manner throughout the kingdom.

A destructive fire broke out in London on the morning of the 2th of May, in Mary-le bone street, which was attended with the loss of one or two lives, and great hazant of the lives of several other persons, who were saved with difficulty.

There appears to be nothing new on the subject of the North Eastern Boundary, and the report of the proposition about to be made to our Government, brought by the British Queen, is doubtless fabulous.

THE BOUNDARY QUESTION.

THE BOUNDARY MURS LIVE.
On the subject of the Northeastern Bourdary, lord ohn Russell, in answer to a question from Mr. Hussell. John Russer, in answer to a question from an Tribue, said:

Some corn riots had occurred in France, in consequence of the advance in the price of grain, but they were quelted by active police measures, aided by a severe rain storm.

The French papers complain of an aggression which has been committed by the English in Senegal. It seems that the Senegambia, a French achroner, the owners of which had undertaken to engage, on the coast of Africa, a hundred black, as recruits for a company of pioneers, formed by the French Government, in Guyana, had cast anchor in Cassamanca river, opposite an English factory, when it was captured by the English brig of war Saracen, and sent into Sierra Leone.

Quite an excitement was produced in Paris by the announcement of the Minister of the Interior, that the Prince de Joinville had been ordered to proceed to St. Helens, in his frigate, to obtain and bring to France the last mortal remains of the Emperor Napoleon.—

The British cabinet having in the kindest manner consented to the removal. The bones of the Great Captain will be deposited in the Invalides. "His sword, asid the Minister, will be placed upon his tomb. Under the done, in the midst of the templo, consecrated by religion to the God of Armice, art will raise a tomb worthy, if possible, of the name which is to be engraven upon it. In future, France, and France alone, will worthy, if possible, of the name which is to be engraven upon it. In future, France, and France atone, will possess what remains of Napoleon. The grave, like the memory of Napoleon, will belong only to his country."

NAPLES. The quarrel between Great Britain and Naples habeen amicably settled. The Naples Gozatte of the 16th instant announces the cessation of all hostilities between England and Naples. The captured vessels were all to be restored on both sides.

SICILY.

This island appears to be in a disturbed state—and there are indications among its inhabitants, of a determination to cut loose from Naples. A "prædiamation" has been placarded, calling upon the people to rise and elect Prince Charles of Capoa, for their king. The following is a specimen of its style:

SPAIN.

The civil war appears to be drawing to a conclusion. The Viceroy of Navare and the Deputy General of Guipuzcoa, have both published proclamations, congratulating the country on the total and final defeat of the Carlists who lately penetrated to Navarr; seven alone have escaped over the frontier. According to the Arragon Echo of the 5th, Cabrera, with some four or five battalions, is near Miravet for the purpose of embarking for Italy. "His two sisters, and several ecclessisatics, with much baggage, and an escort of two hundred Carlists, have taken the road to Bergar.

RUSSIA AND CIRCASSIA.

The Circassians continue successells in their irregular contest with Russia. They have been victorious in many skirmishes; have retaken a number of fortresse of importance; put the gartisons to the sword, and supplied themselves with arms and ammunition. The news of their success has preduced surprise and alarm in Russia; and all the Russian troops at Selasatapool and Odesa had been ordered to Circassia without delay.

A letter from Galata, in Wellachia, 13th ult, in the Augsburg Gazette, states that the Circasaisans have never shown so much resolution and courage as recently. They no longer confine themselves to skirmishes, but fall upon the Russians in the spen field, and attack their fortresses, which they take before relief can be received by sea, putting the garrisons to the swood, and carrying off the arms and ammunition, of which they were much in want.

Mr. Webster especially addressed himself to the objection that the measure relating to voluntary bankrupts alone made no reciprocity between creditor and delator. He proved, in opposition to this idea, that it gave greater security to the creditor than he can enjoy under the enisting systems of faw.

Mr. Hubbard, of N. H. moved the indefinite post-ponement of the whole subject; but it was rejected—syes, 18; nays, 86.

The house of representatives has been engaged exclusively almost, for several days past with the subtreasury bill. We had to-day a notable example of the operation of that power which the federal locofoce majority usurped by violating the orders of congress, and all parliamentary precedent. Friday and Saturday, as you are aware, were set opent, under the standing rules of the house, for the consideration of private bills. To-day, however, the majority arbitrarily, and in the exercise of their power, gained by the alteration of the rules which they adopted some days are, determined to go into committee of the whole on the sub-treasury, and thrust aside all the prirate bills. The public press should let it be known far and wide, so that all those who have just demands against the government may hear and reflect, that a selfish locofuce federal majority in the house have sacrificed all the rights of all these claimants to their own marrow purposes and party objects. They are determined to dolay, and if possible defeat the payment of all their claims, however just.

The sub-treasury bill having come up, Mr. Whit, an alle member from Kentucky, made a powerful speech against it and condemnatory of the financial policy of the government.

an able member from Kentucky, made a powerful speech against it and condemnatory of the financial policy of the government.

I called your attention a few days ago, to a resolution offered by Mr. Chinn of Louisdam, calling for information relative to the defalcation of the post-master at Baton Rouge; and for the correspondence in the case. The administration party had refused to consider the resolution! This conduct of the party in turning the grand inquest of the nation into a grand committee for screening public delinquents; was severely commented upon in the Madisonian, and other opposition journals added the expression of indignation at such recklessness of party spirit. The consequence has been that Mr. McKay of North Carolina, rose to-day, and offered a substitute for Mr. Chinn's resolution—but leaving out the important point, the call for the communications that had passed relative to the defalcation, and to the removal of the post-master, and the gross neglect of the department in keeping in office a knewn defaulter.

The trick will not succeed. Let the department in keeping in office a knewn defaulter of the resolution of McKay, so as to include a call for the correspondence. But the locofice of details are fused!—and the same men who had refused to consider Mr. Chinn's call, carried through McKay's by means of the previous question.
