INDIANA.

That Gen. Harsison will earry Indians by between 10,000 and 20,000 majority, no man who has any idea of the popularity of the Old Hero in the West, pretends to doubt. In fact, the attempts of the loco-focost to lay claim to either Indians or Ohio, must be regarded as simply a desperate effort to obey the mandate from head quarters to crow. That Broars, the whig candidate for Governor, will be elected, seems probable, though by no meane certain. In Indians, the question of Internal Improvements has split the population into two parties—that opposed to the mamment scheme of amelioration, projected by the legislature man, to make him the accuser of this rival in military glory, and of an old fellow-officer! The spectacle cannot be other than painful to every 7 merican the fellow of the country honer but must feel-meritified at the following struct from a late publication by dense but the scheme of an army, I have tact to attach himself to them. The Van Buren journals in Indiana, conaccious of weakness, have sedulously endeavored to detach general politics from the canvas, and to base the contest on the question of internal Improvements. They have called upon the while years and mind, the would general politics from the cannot be other than painful to every 7 merican tracks him the following strong from the fellow open decing the proposal to extend the proposal shove any other loco-foco candidate. But we believe that the impetus given to national politics by the nomination of Haramon, will throw all minor questions in the shade, and that spits of the operation of local causes, Judge Bigger will be elected.

Friends and Fellow-labourers,-Friends and Fellow-labourers,—

Knowing how arxious you are for the success of the good cause, I hastily send you word that "we have met the enemy, and they are ours." Such an unlooked for and complete defeat has utterly astonished us all. We have elected our entire ticket, consisting of Prince, Bates, Langdon, and Hollinger, for the legislature; and George Huggins, for sheriff, by an average unsjority of over one hundred. Such wers the potent efforts made to conquer us, and such the confidence in their success, that even while the votes were counting immense sums were bet that we had not elected a single casdidate.

It is true, that this is not the presidential election, but if we can beat them in August we can overwhelm them in November; and so I trust we shall, for "coming events cast their shadows before."

In 1838, the losofsco majority m Missouri was upwards of six theuseard. In 1830 at a special election for a member of Congress to supply the venancy oceasioned by the death of one of the members elect, the najority was nearly seven thousand. We now venture the prediction that the popular majority for the incofoces will not exceed 3000, ond we question greatly whether it will go beyond 9000.

Of all the States in the Union, Missouri ought to the heast to abbre to Mr. Van Burss, for when she was knocking at the door of the Union for admission, he and his abolition coadjutors were plotting her exclusion, unless slavery were prohibited within her territory. Of all the States in the Union Missouri ought to vote for Gen'l. Harrison, for at the wey time that Mr. Van Burss was aiming a fatal blow at hear visuance are State the Hear of Timesane.

as fame. Can the opinions of Gen. Jackson, under these seelings and circumstances, make any impression upon the people of the country other than such as are unfavorable to himsel? Why are the military services of the gallant Harrison assessed at this time? Why have not the spinious of distinguished imperial men, who had served with Harrison, and whe had an opportunity to judge of him "as a military man," been given, in stead of the perjudiced opinion of a vival ond an enemy? Was it because none such could be obtained, or is it that the task would better suit the man who had refused to acknowledge that the Father of his Country, the immortal Washington, was a "military man," and for his services in the field and in the cabined deserved the grateful thanks of Congress? Let the people of the country read the following extract from the journal of Congress, and then say if it be any discredit to Gen. Harrison not to be "admired as a military man." by Gen. Jackson, who did not consider even Washington as entitled to the thanks of his country. Upon the 15th of December, 1786, the House of Representatives of the United States had under consideration "an address" to Gen. Washington, when the following proceedings took place:

A motion was made and seconded to strike out of said address the following words, to wit:

"For our cauntry's sake, for the aske of republican fiberty, it is our earnest wish that our example may be the guide of our successors, and thus, after being the ornament and asterguard of the precent age, become the patrimony of our dessendante."
