DEMOCRACY.

The party in power arrogate to then he principles and practice of the Van Buren party are sterly undemocratic. There is not a precept of de socracy which they have not violated. They have office holders, to fight for the administration? Is it in the concentration of power and patronage in the hands of the executive by means of the sub-treasury till, or in the despotism of a standing army, which the president has sought to fasten upon un? Is it in the existion of New Jersey from the Union, and the contempt and scora of state rights? Are these the exidences of the democracy of Locofocoism?

It is this much abused word democracy which has contributed powerfully to the success of the dominant party. The locofocos know that the people of this country are essentially democratic—that they are sincerely attached to popular institutions. Nothing sooner captivates the mind of a republican than the term inchemocracy. It is the embodinem of a free, popular government; in which equal political rights are enjoyed by all. The tories have usurped the title, and by artfal appeals to the honest and well meaning, though unenquiring portion of the community, have persoased them that locofocoism was democracy, and that to epopee it was to display open hostility to their own interests. The opponents of the community, have persoased them that locofocoism was democracy, and that to epopee it was to display open hostility to their own interests. The opponents of the administration were branded federalists, and the people were told that all who sought for a change of rulers were their fose. The post will slow how well this political manceuvre succeeded. Lake other faisshoods, however, its detection was inevitable. The events of the

The revolution in popular oginion which has been so strongly felt in nearly every state, has extended to this powerful commonwealth, and there is little doubt that she is ready to burst the bonds of lesofacoism and to take her place by the side of re-generated New York and Virginia.

[COMMUNICATED.]
THE BATON ROUGE CONVENTION. The assembling together of the people, for the pur-pose of asserting their rights, and devising plans for trating its liberties, and rendering its institutions a durable, that they shall last " until time is no more." The downfall of ancient republics can be traced to the neglect of the people to keep a watchful eye over the neglect of the people to keep a watchful eye over their rulers. This neglect was occasioned by various causes; in some, by being surrounded by poinp and bixary; in others, by being blinded by the al-power-ful and attractive figure of democracy. In this way did the people become unmindful of their rights. When a sense of their danger was awakened in their brassis, a sense of their danger sear awakened in their breasts, and they murmured; their crafty ruters would should chemocrasy in their cars, and this opining draught would soon left their fears to sleep. Thus did these crafty raters were a round them a web, in whose mashes, when they did awake to a frue sense of their dangers, they fossed themselves inextricably entangled. Glack had well nigh been the situation of the people of this agrabite. Lured by the pleasing phantons of democrably (for what else but the phantom have the people of the United States beheld for the last twelve yours), they had sunk into an apathy, which, if it had such the people of the United States beheld for the last twelve yours), they had sunk into an apathy, which, if it had such the surface of the triberties. But that Being, who has very had this Republic under his especial charge, had stead.

We lest upon this convention he one of the most important position in sequences that has an yet taken yield in Louissilla. Assemblings of this kind, bring that years the many from the property portion of the state.

Then become been been as the second of the great battle in florumber.

Thus been in florumber, we think it behoves the Republican Party of Lodynama, to attend this convention indicharge a number as possible. Let sway parish be the presented. Let go trivial directions are the second of the presented of the present at this deliberative bady. The approaching contest withmake a more important epoch in the history of safe country, than perhaps any, since the declaration about the trivial about the trivial and power. It is a contest between the people, and power. It is a contest between those, who was to demoke our institutions, and those, who are fighting to maintain them. Then let the whip republicant of our state rally! Let us be so one man. Let see show the "sapper and inserve" of Measureston, that the same spirit which animated Lousantane in R15, animates them new—that, as victory perched on their banners then, there will it be found in November.
