NEW-ORLEANS BEE

THE JOURNAL OF THE STATE GOVERNMENT.

BY SOLLIET, MAGNE & CO.

FOR GOVERNOR
HENRY JOHNSON,
WHIG NOMINATION.

For Representatives,
RANDELL HUNT.

NEW-ORLEANS:
SATURDAY MORNING, SEPT. 25, 1841.

The News has not arrived beyond Mobile. We trust we shall get it in full next by the first of October.

Mr. Lewis has replied tolerably, fully and satisfactorily to the queries propounded by "Many Whig Voters." His reply proves that he is a staunch National Bank Whig, and as such he is every way entitled to the confidence of the party. Mr. Lewis has manly, but thought fit to reply. The position of this gentleman is somewhat peculiar. Some of the whigs suppose it their duty to be committed with their policy, in favor of a National Bank, and every such a whig—in fact, every one that they know has to be opposed to think, and covertly host at certain pledges to them. Mr. Lewis owes it to himself to come forward and make known his opinions, whatever they may be. His silence may satisfy the lookers on, but cannot benefit him among the whigs.

[?] Those who entertain any doubts as to Mr. Henry's possessing the requisite property, qualification, may dismiss their apprehensions; as it is a well ascertained fact, that he is in every respect perfectly eligible.

HEALTH OF THE CITY.—The number of interments reported to the Board of Health for the 24 hours ending yesterday at noon, was 28, of which 21 were of yellow fever.

The above report comprises the burials in the following cemeteries:

		Yellow Fever.
Potter's Field,	22	22
St Patrick's	4	4
Cypress Grove,	2	2
Catholic,	2	2
Protestant,	1	1
	28	31

REPORT OF THE CHARITY HOSPITAL.—During the 24 hours ending yesterday at noon

Admissions 18, of which 14 yellow fever.
Discharges 17 " 11 do.
Deaths, 9 all yellow fever.
Number of patients remaining in the hospital, 371

We are surprised that the Crescent City should question the correctness of the reports of the Board of Health. He asks why the names of those interred are not published. Now, we have not the slightest doubt but that the Secretary of the Board would be perfectly willing to let Crescent take a copy of all the particulars connected with the death of each and every individual and our neighbor has thus a fine chance of disingenuously himself, by furnishing to his readers every so many an intellectual treat on the subject of mortality.

HOW MUCH LONGER.—We visited some days ago that Vicksburg was ravaged by a malignant and fatal disorder. In reference to the subject, the Whig of Thursday the 23d says: "We regret to say that the health of our city is bad, very bad, much worse than it has been at any time this season. During the last week the sexton reports 16 interments in the public burying ground, and two interments were made the same time in private grounds. As yet there is no abatement, but on the contrary a considerable increase of disease. The attacks are very malignant and difficult to arrest. Our physicians differ as to the origin of the fever, we assume not that it is yellow fever, or the reverse. We know nothing of it, we will but state as it is that the fever, by whatever name it may be called, is very malignant in its character, and fatal in its result."

It may not be amiss here to say that we deem the panic now existing wholly unnecessary. The disease, whatever it may be, is not so fatal as in 1837—or 1839. Upon reference to the official reports for 1839, we find that the deaths for September, October and November, a period of three months, amounted to 118, or 294 per month.—Data for the reports do not come up to that standard."

THE CRISIS.—The Courier appears to doubt the existence of any abundant forthcoming crop, which we consider all to ominous the papers. It thinks the country has been greatly injured by the heavy rains. The crop is expected to fall short of last year's, and is represented to be poor in quality.

THE NORTH.—The Nonte Observer at Cincinnati have been fellowed by a slight return of common sense to the inhabitants of the Queen City. The citizens have met and passed the following resolution:

"That resolved that the township trustees enforce the law of '87, requiring security of negroes, pledging the faith of the township to the letter, and the city of Cincinnati to the effect of no charge to the township, assuring them that every one of the said negroes are in good health, and that the said township shall not be liable for any charge which may arise from the said negroes from the time of their arrival within the limits of the township."

The above is the first step which we have seen taken by the North to give land and security within twenty days after they fail, requires of the Trustees of the Township to remove them, as in the case of paupers to the place from whence they came. Under that law a heavy fine is imposed on any one who shall employ or harbor a negro who has not given bond.

This is something towards providing for future security, but what measures have been adopted for obtaining indemnity for the past? What has become of the murderous miscreants who plunged their knives into the bosoms of innocent children, who fired upon the [illegible] and killed and wounded a considerable number? Are they to be allowed impunity for their lawless deeds? It would seem so. The Cincinnati papers of the 16th instant state that no step had been taken to ascertain who were the actors in the outrages and crimes committed in the city on the 3d, 4th and 5th instants. The negroes who had been arrested and lodged in prison, have since been discharged, and the cutiffs who threw the city into disorder, and perpetrated foul assassination, are permitted to prowl about without an officer of justice at their heels. Is the enormous law of Ohio annulled at the instigation of the abolitionists, or is a gang of black scoundrels at liberty to commit murder and laugh the impotence of justice to scorn? Heaven [illegible] when we think of the indifference [illegible] the Cincinnatians towards Southern [illegible], we are loth to believe them so utterly [illegible] in the foul stream of abolitionism, as to willingly connive at the escape from punishment of a horde of mere rascals, guilty of wantonly shooting and killing white persons. We warn the people of Ohio that they are not only fostering a nest of serpents, which will, as surely as the sun shines, turn and sting them, but they will arouse the hatred and vindictive spirit of the long suffering South, and provoke measures of severe retaliation.

TEXAS AND MEXICO.—It seems highly probable from the tone of the journals of Vera Cruz, that an expedition against Texas will shortly be undertaken by the Mexicans. Arrogant and abusive as is generally the Mexican press, there appears at present to exist an unusually of hatred against Texas that may not evaporate in mere [illegible] empty fanfaronade and harmless menace. In the Censor of the 23d August, appears an inflammatory appeal from the Governor of the Department of Chihuahua, calling on the inhabitants to arm and equip for an expedition against Texas, and stigmatizing the Texians as robbers, murderers, &c.—Other numbers of the same paper contain articles of the most decided character, calling for war upon Texas as demanding the re-conquest of the severed portion of the Mexican [illegible] and lauding any measures to prosecute such a war. This may or may not be the case, but [illegible] Texians should know how much [illegible] and how much the mere ebullition of a libid rage.

MURDER.—A most brutal murder was perpetrated a few days since near Perry's Bridge, in the Parish of Lafayette. The body of a man named Joiner was found in the Bayou Vermillion, with a wound, indicated with an axe, near the heart, and the head nearly severed from the body. In a skiff, in which he was last seen, an axe and traces of blood were found.—Joiner was a brick maker, and was supposed to have money.

The schooner Compeachy, arrived at Galveston on the 14th September, with Col. Parsons on board, as envoy extraordinary from Yucatan to the Government of Texas.

[?] We are indebted to the clerk of the steamboat Merrimack for late St. Louis and other papers.

We are indebted to the officers of the steamboat Indiana for late Vicksburg and Natchez papers.

FROM TEXAS.

By the steam packet Kingston we have received Galveston papers to the 16th instant inclusive. The journals are principally filled with election returns.—General Houston appears to carry all before him. His majority, as far as heard from, was over three thousand.

There has been a riot among some of the people of Galveston, in which two individuals named Jackson and Bowers were wounded.

We copy the following from the Houston Star:

"NEWS FROM THE WEST.

We learn by a letter lately received from San Patricio, written by the Hon. L. S. Hagler, that a party of about 50 men, consisting of the company of Minute men of San Patricio, and a few volunteers from Gonzales, lately made an excursion to the southern extremity of Padre Island, and in the afternoon of the 15th ult., surprised and captured a Mexican Captain and nine soldiers, who were stationed at a 'rancho' at that place. These soldiers made no resistance. They were taken with their arms and horses to San Patricio, and placed in the hands of the Chief Justice of that county, to be exchanged for the same number of Texian prisoners in Matamoras. The captain stated that the Mexican authorities of that city would consent to make the exchange, and he has written to Gen. Arguelles, a request that Mr. Dimmit may be included in the number of the prisoners to be exchanged. According to the statements of these prisoners, and information received from some Irish settlers at the southern extremity of Padre Island, there are now only one hundred infantry in Matamoras. In Camargo, Col. Fernandez has only fifty men under his command, part infantry and part cavalry. The horses of the cavalry are said to be so poor that they can scarcely walk. On the little Colorado, about 25 miles from Matamoras Col. Velasco is stationed with about 40 rancheros (country militia.) Higher up the country Col. Ramirez is ranging with from fifty to one hundred men, he is regarded as a robber, and is a traitor to the trade of either party. According to these intelligence, the whole Mexican force on the Rio Grande, does not exceed three hundred troops. The Volunteers now assembled at San Patricio, muster nearly fifty men, and they are daily expecting an attack from Villareal or Ramirez. It is quite doubtful, however, whether either of these colonels will muster 'valor' to make an attack upon a set of men who seem willing to cope with five times their number of Mexicans.

The Kingston experienced very heavy weather on her passage here. The clerk, Mr. Miller, was unfortunately lost at Atchafalaya Bay. The steamer had stopped to wood, and Mr. Miller was left alone in the boat. The current being strong the boat was driven out to sea, and it is supposed was lost, as after a most diligent search, not a trace of it could be found.

We subjoin the reply of the Louisville Journal to the attack of Wm. H. BRENT. For our part we do not think the man worthy of notice, but we have been solicited by many friends to give insertion to the article, and are willing the public should see how thoroughly Brent is "used up."

COLONEL WM. L. BRENT.

This personage, our readers may remember, assailed Mr. CLAY, through the columns of the Globe, a few weeks ago, with the fury of an old Jezabel, because Mr. C. had declined recommending him to the President for the district-attorneyship in the District of Columbia, and recommended the Hon. P. R. Fendall. We deem it our duty to reply to Mr. Brent's remarks, and did reply to them; and we avail ourselves of the occasion to tell some plain truths in regard to Mr B.'s character, by way of showing that he was grossly unfit for the office of district attorney or any other office.

Our exposure of Brent's worthless character has brought him out a second time in the Globe. He affects to think that what we have said of him we have said at the instigation of Mr. Clay. We have not received a single line from Mr. Clay during the present session of Congress, upon any subject whatever; and we have not received from any man a line in which Brent's name has been mentioned. We have not the least idea that Mr. Clay, in the midst of his high and arduous duties, has thrown away a solitary thought upon him or his pitiful publications. What is more, Brent knows that Mr. Clay has not wasted a thought upon him. When he asserts a belief that Mr. C. has asked us to assail him or to notice him in any way whatever, he asserts that which is a contemptible falsehood—the falsehood of humbled and wounded vanity. Mortified to the core at Mr. C.'s expressive silence and inexpressive disdain, and stung to phrensy by the terrible castigation we rendered, that Mr. C., in treating him with contempt, has treated him according to his deserts, the baffled miscreant seizes with avidity upon our remarks in relation to him, to try to make the public believe that the Kentucky Senator has really thought him worthy of resentment. If he could but manage to make the slightest notice from that Senator, to manifest how contemptuous it might be, he would forever after work's boast of it in the true spirit of "Needles" to the lance—

"The King himself has honor'd me of late,
And, by my troth, got out of my way."

Mr. Brent contradicts the statements we made in relation to the insanity of his father. Several of those statements were true in every particular, and we might have made them much stronger, and still have adhered to truth. We said that, after General Harrison's arrival in Washington last spring, Brent waited on him and tried to get him to his house, and that the leading Whigs of the city found it necessary to interfere and apprise the old General of Brent's bad character. Brent replies that General Harrison dined with him on the first day of his arrival. It is a fact that, the moment General H. set foot in the city, the fellow Brent, painfully conscious of his own want of standing, and anxious to obtain for himself some of the advantages and party consequence resulting from an association with great men, hurried after the distinguished old corner with the most nervous haste, and succeeded in hearing him off in triumph to dinner. It is also a fact, that he afterwards made another attempt to get bodily possession of Gen H., but failed of his object, as we have already stated, in consequence of the interference of prominent Whigs who felt it their duty to prevent the President elect from falling unwittingly into disreputable, or at best, very equivocal company. It is in our power to name the highly respectable Whigs, on whom devolved this unpleasant though highly necessary duty; but we know not that by so doing we could confer any favor on Brent. It is well known that Brent's assiduous efforts to attach himself to General Harrison, like a jackall to a lion, were the scorn and jest of every decent man in Washington city.

We said, in our former remarks, that Brent, although he had a farm of his own, had lived much on a plantation not his own, and rendered but little more than nothing in return for the hospitality he thus received. We have been assured by many of Brent's own friends that what we have said of his residence at Mr. Calvert's is literally true. Mr. Calvert, it is said, has frequently complained to Brent that he was not receiving any thing like a fair equivalent for the support he was giving his family, and that Brent has always replied that he was receiving all that he was entitled to, and that he was willing to settle with Mr. Calvert, who is charged with the liquidation.
