FOR PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

HENRY CLAY.

(Subject to the decision of the American People.)

FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

WINFIELD SCOTT.

NEW-ORLEANS:
SATURDAY MORNING, AUG. 6, 1842.

THE MAIL most provokingly failed yesterday beyond Charleston.

MR. CLAY IN PENNSYLVANIA.—Among the most gratifying evidences of the growing confidence in and attachment to this illustrious patriot, is the fact that no where in the Union has his cause been more ardently supported, and his nomination more warmly sustained, than in Pennsylvania. Ay, even in democratic Pennsylvania, where the efforts of the whigs have never but a brief season prevailed, where the most sedulous and successful attempts have been constantly made to shroud Mr. CLAY's name with obloquy, and to asperse at once his motives and his conduct, the people are awakening to a sense of their true interests, and are preparing to advoc the election of the only man who can re-establish national dignity, and whose principles would tend to the revival of national prosperity. We hail the enthusiasm with which Mr. CLAY's cause is espoused by the democracy of the Key Stone State, as a glad omen of the future. Pennsylvania was one of the foremost in the gallant phalanx of States that threw off the shackles of loco-focoism in 1840, and rushed to the banner of "Tippecanoe."—She was then the early, undeviating and indomitable friend of HARRISON, and now that the lamented warrior and statesman sleeps the sleep of death, and his place is filled by a recreant, old Pennsylvania is again making ready to give her Herculeen support to faithful and fearless "HARRY OF THE WEST." Our life on it, she will be found true in the very brunt of the battle.

MAJOR NOAH, of the New York Union, has determined to pay no stinted allegiance to the powers that be. Having taken up the cudgels for Captain TYLER, he lays about him most lustily, and seems resolved that no such vulgar things as scruples of conscience, or compunctious remiscences of the past shall deter him from giving full measure of adulation in return for unbounded patronage. His paper is the result of a bargain between the Major on the one hand, and the President on the other. The one promises sycophancy in discretion, and the other "largesse" to the very limits of the contracted coffers of the government.—The covenant between them is perfectly fair, and peculiarly worthy the reputation of both the high contracting parties. The Major is a broken down politician hack, who has alternately shouted hosannah to every dictation whom accident or the people have placed in power. He has been every thing by turns and nothing long. Jackson, anti-Jackson, Conservative, Whig, Clay, Harrison, and now Tyler man.—He emulates the camelion-like faculty of Mr CALHOUN and moults his feathers as often as that distinguished political Proteus changes his opinions. He has lived long enough to survive his influence, and to behold his talents no longer respected combined as they are with a total negation of principle. It is clearly an illustration of the eternal fitness of things that JOHN TYLER should be saved by such an adherent. The patron being a renegade and imbecile, a man destitute of either head or heart, incapable of a patriotic conception, or ambitious only of an immortality of infamy, has wisely chosen an advocate whose standard of integrity is as mutable and marketable as his own.

WATER WORKS.—We have long wanted to write a few words on a custom which seems to savor of abuse. The case stands thus, to our personal knowledge. A tenant leaves a house in which he has paid for the water, the whole year in advance.—Nothing is allowed to him for the remaining portion of the year as long as the house remains untenanted. A tenant offers, but as he paid for the water in the house he moves from, it is allowed to him in his new house, free of charge, upon his former payment.—The house which he left being rented by another tenant who also had paid for the water in his last house; the first tenant still receives no indemnity for his right, thus unceremoniously transferred to another. He must wait until the last house, left vacated by the series of tenants, (be they ten or twenty,) all customers of the Water Works, be at last rented by some body who having no right to be followed in his perambulations by a steady supply of water which he has not yet paid for any where, must at length make his bargain with the administration, who will then in lemnity the first owner, now placed at the head of a long list of movers.

We intended to qualify this proceeding, but the epithet it deserves is considered as rather rude in polished circles. We content ourselves with the reflection and hope that the 5th December next will put an end to all these malpractices.

FIRE.—A fire broke out in one of the upper rooms of the City Hotel, about 11 o'clock Thursday evening. The flames were soon extinguished, without further damage than the destruction of the furniture of the room.

ALABAMA ELECTION.—Official returns from Mobile county elect three whigs by a large majority, and one loco by 5 majority. Baldwin elects one loco by 11 majority. So far, we believe, there is a whig gain of one.

THE ELECTION in North Carolina, for Governor and Legislature, took place on the 4th inst. The candidates for Governor are J. M. Morehead (w.), and Louis D. Henry (opp.)

STEAMER.—The steamboat Rhea, which left a few days ago for St. Louis, struck a snag and sunk on Sunday evening, at the head of Morgana Bend, above Bayou Sara. As the steamboat U. S. Mail, passed, she was again re-loading and preparing to start on her trip.

MRS. STRATTON, of New York, who had been in prison some weeks on a charge of murdering her child by throwing it down a privy, has been sent to the lunatic asylum, it being perfectly satisfactory that she is hopelessly insane.

DEATH OF AN EDITOR.—Lynde M. Walter, late editor of the Boston Transcript, died in that city a few days ago. He established the Transcript twelve years ago.

MR. FILLMORE, the representative in congress of Erie county, N. Y., has written a letter to his constituents, declining a re-election.

☞ A new CLAY paper—and a very good one—has been started in Portsmouth, Va., called the "Clay Banner."

☞ A negro, belonging to Dr. Scott of Opelousas, was killed by lightning in the storm of Friday last, and several others badly stunned.

THE DEBT OF PENNSYLVANIA.—The Philadelphia papers are apprehensive that the Legislature would adjourn, without making any provision for the payment of the interest on her public debt. The tax bill passed by the Senate had been rejected by the House; and the Legislature having fixed a day for adjournment, it is scarcely considered possible that a tax bill can pass in time.

FRIGHTFUL TRAGEDY.—The wife of Robert Lermond, in Liberty, Maine, committed suicide a few days ago, by cutting her throat. She was found by her husband in a cooper's shop, where she had attempted to bleed herself to death by gashing herself with an adze in the arm and leg. Failing in these attempts, her next resort was to cut her throat, which she did so effectually, that a piece of her wind pipe was found on the floor. She was an industrious, good woman, and a member of the Methodist Church.

TALLAHASSEE, July 23.

MORE OF THE INDIANS.—We learn that on Monday evening last, about 9 o'clock, the Indians attacked a dwelling a few miles from Camp Gamble, fired into the house, killing one man and wounding two others. Information was immediately communicated to the camp, and a detachment of thirty men were sent in pursuit. We have not heard of their return. We presume, as usual, the Indians cannot be found. A day or two since a traveller between Monticello and Madison had an arrow discharged at him by an Indian, supposed to been spy upon the settlements. There is a rumor also in town of a depredation having been recently committed in Gadsden county.

Thus is the war ended! by proclamation! It is the general opinion that there is as much danger in middle Florida at present as at any time during the war. Again and again have we been called upon to record depredations upon the lives and property of our citizens, and not one of the savages who have committed them has been either killed or captured. To complain is unavailing, and we are reduced to submit in silence to our [illegible] to see or hear of the [illegible] to [illegible] in his flight.

The murderer first stated that his name was Smith but he afterwards denied, and refused to give his real name, because, as he said, he did not wish to disgrace his family.

In his confessions, he told the police officers that he was courting a young woman, who refused to marry him because he had no money, and that his motive in committing the murder, was to raise a sufficient sum to effect this matrimonial alliance. It is believed that his real name is Alexander.

DIED—At Mobile, on the night of the 3d inst., at half past eleven o'clock, the Right Reverend Abbe MONI.

☞ The friends and acquaintances of the deceased, are requested to meet at the Cathedral ☞ This Morning, at 6 o'clock, to form a procession in conjunction with the Clergy and Church Wardens, to accompany the remains of his reverence from the Lake to the city.

☞ His corps will be exposed at the Obituary Chapel, corner of Conti and Rampart streets, on SUNDAY next; and from thence, at five o'clock in the afternoon, it will be removed to the Cathedral, where a funeral oration will be pronounced, previous to the interment of the deceased in a vault prepared for the purpose.

The death of Abbe Moni has excited profound emotions of regret among our entire population, irrespective of language and religion. He was a truly good, pious and virtuous man, eminent as a professor of the Catholic worship, and beloved and respected by all classes and conditions.

CORRESPONDENCE OF THE BEE.

Washington, July 27, 1842.

IN SENATE.—The morning hour was consumed in private and local matters of no public interest. The Post Office bill was then taken up and amended, by striking out the first section, which proposed the changes in the rates of postage, and by changing the proscribed size of newspapers from 1307 square inches to 1450 square inches. It was then passed. The Dancing Rabbit Creek bill was then taken up and at last passed. The Navy Appropriation bill was next taken up, and the House amendments were considered. The Senate receded from some of its amendments as follows: from that increasing the appropriation for the pay of officers, seamen and marines, $465,000:—from that appropriating $4,345 30 for the charter of the steamboats Splendid and Clarion, employed last September and October surveying the shoals of Nantucket; from that increasing he appropriation for Pensacola Navy Yard from $36,300 to $100,000; and concurred in the House amendment to increase the appropriation for the agency to the coast of Africa for carrying out the law for the suppression of the slave trade, raised from $7,365 14 to $10,543 43. The Senate refused to concur with the House amendment to its amendment relative to the Drydock at Brooklyn, N. Y. and to recede from its limitation of the clause declaratory that no portion of the appropriations should be applied to the pay of officers appointed after 1st of January, 1841, which the Senate had changed to "after the adjournments of the present session of congress." Mr. Evans then moved for a committee of conference which was appointed. The Tariff bill was next taken up and debated by Messrs. Simmons and Woodbury. It was laid over informally at half past 3 o'clock, and the bill to amend the Judiciary act was taken up, (making a new district of Alabama and Louisiana, and other changes) and being amended, on motion of Mr. Crittenden, it was passed. The Senate then went into executive session, and shortly after adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. Adams, from the committee on foreign affairs, reported a resolution relative to the proposition from the French government, to establish a line of packets from Havre to New York, asking the co-operation of this government. The resolution requests the president to have prepared by next session a report as to the probable expense. It was adopted.

A great number of bills of a private and local character were also reported.

The house then resumed the consideration of the bill of Mr. Arnold providing for the reduction of the pay of members; also the reduction of 25 per cent. of the salaries of all government officers.

The bill having last night been read a third time, this morning that vote was reconsidered, and the debate on the general merits of the bill re-opened.

Office of the Commissioners of the Bank of Orleans,
NEW ORLEANS, August 4th, 1842.

The undersigned, duly appointed Commissioners of the Bank of Orleans, do hereby notify all persons holding the notes of said Bank, and requiring them to be "registered," to present the same at the office of the commissioners, at the late Banking-house, corner of Canal street and Exchange Alley, between 10 and 3 o'clock in the forenoon, at which places all persons indebted to the Bank on obligation past due, and maturing, are requested to call and make payment.

ANOTHER DEFALCATION.—Mr. Peats, the secretary of the Atlantic Insurance Company, in New-York, has resigned his office in consequence of a deficiency of some thousand dollars in his accounts.

ZEBEDIAH PAYNE has been convicted in the Circuit Court of Franklin county, Tenn., for the murder of Wm. Coltart, in 1840. Sentence, death.

CAPT. C. ELLIOT, Consul General from Great Britain to Texas, arrived in the city yesterday by the British steamer FORTH.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

ATROCIOUS MURDER!

A BROKER STABBED TO THE HEART!—THE MURDERER ARRESTED.

A man named Noah Lougee, who kept a broker's office, in Third street, above Chesnut street, was murdered this morning at about a quarter past six o'clock, by a man who entered his office, it is supposed for the purpose of robbing him. Mr. Lougee received one or two stabs in the side from a dirk, one of which entered his heart, and produced death almost instantly. From the appearance of the wound, it would seem that the murdered man was stabbed while in the counter, although he afterwards got to the door; and attracted attention by an indescribable noise with his hands tightly pressed against his breast. The assassin, though he resorted to the stale custom of being himself the loudest alarmist, crying "Stop thief!" "Stop thief!" and "Murder!" was immediately pursued by a number of citizens who heard the cries, and was finally captured after a vigorous chase, in the fourth story of a warehouse, in Front street, near Walnut, where he had endeavored to secret himself.

On being arrested, the only reply he made to questions asked of him, was, "He called me a liar!" but it is reported that he subsequently confessed to officer Russell that he purposely stabbed a quarter of Mr. Lougee, with the intention of robbing and murdering him. The dirk with which he killed his victim was found in a heap of sand and mortar at the corner of Third and Chesnut streets, where he had thrown it in his flight.

The murderer first stated that his name was Smith but he afterwards denied, and refused to give his real name, because, as he said, he did not wish to disgrace his family.

In his confessions, he told the police officers that he was courting a young woman, who refused to marry him because he had no money, and that his motive in committing the murder, was to raise a sufficient sum to effect this matrimonial alliance. It is believed that his real name is Alexander.

FOR THE NEW-ORLEANS BEE.

In his number of the 15th instant, the Editor of the "Courier" says—"But the electing lately held, there were 1150 votes polled in the 5th ward of St. Landry or about double the number usually given. This increase may be taken as pretty good evidence of the progress of home manufactures." The two last words are Italicised, by way, no doubt, of casting some imputation on the manner in which our late elections were conducted. If such be the intention it becomes necessary to correct the Editor and advise him to seek better information before he form or make such broad insinuations, unless he wishes to expose his ignorance. If the gentleman will only take the trouble to examine the election returns of Nov. 1842, he will see that St. Landry proper then polled 1142 and Calcasieu 128 votes, making together 1270 votes.—At the last election, St. Landry proper gave 1149 and Calcasieu 1375—making 1525 votes more than not "double the number usually polled," but an increase of seven votes only in St. Landry and 48 in Calcasieu. And, which candidate, Mr. Courier, was benefitted by this great increase of 55 votes in the county? Was it Morton who obtained 161 in Calcasieu, or Johnson who only got 18 in the same Parish? Please make out your case now or quit any further attempts to deceive the people by such insinuations. Those of St. Landry read your paper now and then, and will always correct misrepresentation and defend themselves against any reflections cast upon them.

Try also to content yourself with the many whig votes cast here in favor of Morton, without claiming it as a locofoco triumph. Your Democracy never will again have occasion to exult at any such triumph in Opelousas. The name of HENRY CLAY already strikes your men with terror and dismay. You will find out three years hence whether Van Buren Democracy has left any traces or not in these whig diggings.

WAGON-BOY.

For the New Orleans Bee.

There have been some rumors circulating respecting a reply which it is said that Judge Martin intended to make to some insinuations made against him in a published letter of General Jackson's. We have understood that Judge Martin does not look upon the matter as worthy of notice. A negative cannot be proved. No direct charges have ever been made against Judge Martin, nor is it probable that there ever will, in regard to any thing that occurred during the last war. It is not usual for Judges to perform militia duty, and if it were, it is known that defect of vision which he has always labored under, would have exempted Judge Martin.

We announced, however, by patriotic feelings, and not indifferent to the force of good example, he was enrolled in those days in a company of veterans for the protection of the city.

Having previously been the Attorney General, he was appointed, afterwards, after the enemy left our shores, one of the Judges of the Supreme Court of the State, a station which he yet fills honorably to himself and usefully to the public; and it is not probable that such an appointment would ever have been made by the Governor, with the consent of the Senate, if it had been supposed at that time that he had ever
