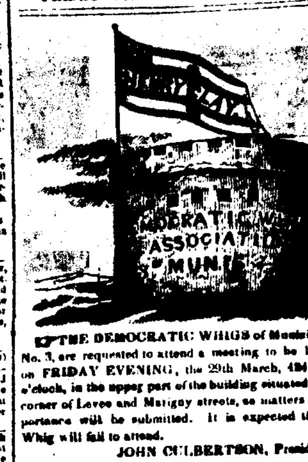
FOR PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,

HENRY CLAY.

FOR MAYOR,

WM. FRERET.

NEW-ORLEANS:
FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 29, 1844.



THE DEMOCRATIC WHIGS of Municipality No. 3, are requested to attend a meeting to be holden on FRIDAY EVENING, the 29th March, 1844, at 7 o'clock, in the upper part of the building situated at the corner of Levee and Marigny streets, as matters of importance will be submitted. It is expected that no Whig will fail to attend.

JOHN CULBERTSON, President.

TAX RECEIPTS.

CLAY CLUB ROOM, No. 25 Exchange Place, March 29th, 1844.

Those persons who have not received their tax receipts are requested to call and obtain them, for which purpose the room will be opened daily from 9 A. M. until 2 P. M., and from 4 to 7 P. M., until and including the day of election.

ALFRED ROUSSEAU, C. C. WILLIAMS, J. R. VIENNE, } Secretaries.

The Republican informs us that it would have been down upon our Washington Correspondent with "just condemnation in due time but that sickness compelled; it to defer its remarks. Thus it was that the Bulletin got the whip-hand of it. But the Organ of the General Government, nevertheless, must have its say, and if our correspondent is not utterly used up between them, his salvation will evince the lack of vigor in his assailants—for they go at him with hearty good will.

It is not surprising that the Republican should display a feverish sensitiveness, when public writers speak their minds about this business. That journal has embarked, body and soul, in the Tyler cause: it examines all the acts of the Administration through a magnifying medium, for aid of this sort is necessary to enable one to perceive the merits of his Excellency, and the Texas affair being of dimensions visible to the naked eye, must excite in our cotemporaries novel sensations of delight. Yet we would fain hope, that after the rapture of a first contemplation has subsided by familiarity with the subject, that journal will give a candid opinion upon the transaction as now understood by the country—a secret, dark and gratuitous negotiation to incorporate a foreign nation into this Union without the knowledge and against the consent, if needable, of the people.

Our friends of the Bulletin are as much in love with Texas as the Republican is with the President. Love is blind, and hence the Republican sees not defects in the Administration, and the Bulletin's eagerness to embrace its mistress overlooks the disreputable part of the assignation. One might have expected a chaster passion in that quarter, or at least that its liquorishness would be veiled by something of the mystery and slyness that characterized the advances of the Cabinet upon the innocent foundling.

We are informed that Texas may go to England.—We apprehend that she has been setting off her charms by a little coquetry. If the people of that country would consent to be subjects of an European King, when annexation takes place the population should not be included in the bargain. On this subject we have no great fears. So long as Texas can act for herself, she will not surrender her charms to old Blue-beard. It is only when she becomes subjected to Mexico, that such an arrangement may be apprehended. This will never be—as we think.

We do not purpose taking a prominent part in the agitation of this question;—upon the main point we are all agreed; upon the character of the proceedings, we will become so when our cotemporaries look at it, in a cool, philosophic manner.

Among the bills effectually decapitated by our Democratic Senate, during the late session, was the act allowing every man to become an auctioneer, upon giving sufficient security and paying a certain sum for license. This excellent measure passed the House of Representatives without a dissenting voice, but when it came before the Senate, the high minded and consistent democrats constituting the majority in that body, who are always declaiming against Government patronage, very summarily struck out those sections of the bill which deprived Governor Mouton of the privilege of appointing auctioneers, and sent it back to the House a mere headless trunk. In this shape it came before the popular branch a few hours before the adjournment sine die. As the rejection of the Senate's amendments would have occasioned the total loss of the bill, and as one or two sections embody some alterations in the duties upon auction sales, which are deemed important, the House was compelled to concur, and the bill thus emasculated and deprived of about the only feature which stamped it with efficiency and wisdom, has become a law.

It is worthy of remark that Louisiana is the only State in the Union in which auctioneers are appointed by the Executive by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The absurdity of considering this class of individuals public officers, has been long since perceived by other States, and the business left open to competition, as it should in justice and propriety be.—We cannot see why the merchant, the wholesale trader, the pedlar or the member of any profession which contributes to the revenue of the State by taxation, should not be subject to Executive power equally with the auctioneer. The latter does neither more no less than the former—the difference is purely in the amount contributed, not in the principle.

The Mobile papers notice the arrival of the new and handsome barge Louisiana, which was towed thither by the steamer Montezuma. She is described as of handsome model, high and capacious as a good sized steamer, built staunch and with excellent qualities as a sea boat. Her capacity is equal to 2,000 bbls. freight, drawing six feet loaded and 20 inches light. Length 155 feet; 30 feet beam and 6 feet hold.

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.—A collision occurred a few days since between the brig Emily, Sherwood, from Charleston, and the schr. Virginia, from Norfolk, on their way to New York, in the neighborhood of Sandy Hook. The schr. was cut down to the water's edge. Three persons perished—their names are Wm. Fitzgerald, Garrett Vandenberg and H. Johnson.

THE MIDDLETOWN MURDER.—The trial of Hall, Roberts and Bell has closed at Middletown, the two latter having been acquitted, and Hall convicted. Judge Williams sentenced Hall to be hanged on the 20th June next.

The whigs of New York city had a glorious gathering at National Hall, on the 19th inst. They were addressed by DAVID GRAHAM, J. L. WHITE and others. WILLIS HALL, Esq., of the county of Albany, was warmly recommended as the whig candidate for Governor of the State. The proceedings of the meeting were marked by enthusiasm and unbroken harmony.

Gansevoort Melleu, Esq., in his oration to the Locos of New York last Friday evening, indulged in the following personal reminiscence:

"As for myself, I come from a stock the women as well as the men of which have, from the first organization of parties, manifested a preference for and a sympathy with the Democratic cause."

The Tribune says he would have spoiled this story if he had stated that his paternal grandfather, Major Mellen, one of the famous "Boston Tea Party," was a Whig to the last, and was turned out of a petty office in his old age therefor, by this very Jackson-Van-Buren dynasty which his grandson was here glorifying.—Washington Standard.

HARD RUN.—"Those who trade on borrowed capital ought to break," was a favorite maxim of Gen Jackson. We notice that the "Democratic Party" opened the campaign in many places on the 15th instant by celebrating the birth-day of General JACKSON. Of course the whole proceedings are expected to enure to Mr. Van Buren's benefit. In what a pitiable position does such a performance place that gentleman? The most diligent, searching scrutiny of Mr. VAN BUREN's whole career cannot bring to light a single event worthy of commemoration; his warmest supporters dare not mention his name in a popular meeting; and, as a last desperate effort to prop his falling fortunes, the Democrats are invited to rally in the name of ANDREW JACKSON.—Buffalo Com. Advertiser.

NORTH RIVER OPEN.—The steamboat Utica, Capt. Hyatt, reached Albany on Monday, at 11 o'clock a. m., from this city, making her way gallantly through the ice, and thus opening the navigation for the season. At 3 o'clock p. m. she left Albany on her return, and arrived here early this morning, bringing us the Albany Evening Journal of Monday.—N. Y. Courier, March 20.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

VIEUX TEMPS.—This celebrated Violinist gives a Concert this evening at the Orleans Theatre, on which occasion he will perform a new Fantasie, which he composed during his journey to Mexico. The house will doubtless be crowded by the dilletanti of our city.

HARRINGTON'S DIORAMAS.—This really admirable exhibition will remain open until Sunday evening, the proprietor leaving the city on Monday. Those who have attended require no other inducement to repeat their visit, but to those who have not been we would say, improve the present opportunity, or you will miss a treat that very rarely occurs.

ARSON.—A female slave of Dr. Lambert, named Susanne, was brought before Recorder Genois yesterday morning, charged with setting fire to her master's house on Royal street on Wednesday night about 8 o'clock.—She was remanded for further examination.

COMMITTED.—A man named John McGary was examined yesterday before Recorder Baldwin, charged with assaulting and beating a man on the head with a large brass candlestick. He was ordered to find bail for his appearance before the Criminal Court for trial.

ARRESTED.—The officers of the Second Municipality Police last evening, arrested a man named Joseph Vary for stealing a lot of clothing from Mr. S. Matthews.

RECOVERY OF STOLEN PROPERTY.—ARREST OF THE BURGLARS.—In our paper of yesterday we mentioned that the dwelling house of Mr Mortimer Turner, at the corner of Magazine and Edward streets, in the Second Municipality, had been robbed on Tuesday night of a large amount of silver plate. Captain Youenes having got a clue to the whereabouts of the stolen property, yesterday, about noon, accompanied by two of the officers of the First Municipality Police, proceeded to a house on Ursuline street, between Condé and Levee streets, and occupied as a watch makers' shop by Abraham Hymen, in order to search it. After making a thorough search of the premises without being able to find the prize, and ascertaining that Hymen occupied a room a few doors from his shop, in common with a woman named Mary Ann Cecilia Shane, the indefatigable officer immediately repaired to the premises, and after a short search, found in a chest concealed under the bed of the fond pair, 1 large silver urn, 1 plated do', 2 plated fruit baskets, 2 plated castor plates, 1 silver cup, 1 silver ink stand, 1 silver mounted flute, 2 large silver salvers, 1 gilt watch and lepine, rosewood mounted clock, the property of Mr Turner, and a piece of broad cloth, stolen about two weeks since from the store of Mr Abadie, at the corner of Dauphin and St. Peter streets.

Hymen and the female were immediately taken into custody and conveyed to the watch house. The captain having broken up the fence and secured the stolen property, turned his attention to the burglars, and in about an hour afterwards, arrested on the Levee, near the Pontchartrain Rail Road, Henry Abbott, alias Rob't Bowman, and John Adams, both graduates of the Missouri Penitentiary, on the charge of having committed the burglary. The whole affair will be investigated this morning before Recorder Genois. Captain Youenes deserves the thanks of the community for the efficient and ingenious manner in which he has conducted, not only this, but many similar arrests.

CRIMINAL COURT.—The trial of Peter McLeod, which was set for yesterday, was continued until this morning in consequence of the accused being unprovided with counsel.

André Laspie, f. m. c. for highway robbery, was arraigned anew for trial, under a new indictment; the previous one having been quashed in consequence of some informality existing in it.

William Watson, charged with petty larceny, was discharged from custody.

The Grand Jury found a true bill against Arthur Mathews for highway robbery, and stabbing with intent to kill.

The Attorney General filed a bill of information, and ordered a capias to be issued against Texier De Paty, for breaking the ballot box in the Third Ward of the Third Municipality, during the election for State Senator on the 26th ult.

SKELETON KEYS.—The notorious David Root was brought before Recorder Baldwin yesterday morning, on the charge of being a dangerous and suspicious character, and committed to the workhouse for six months. Root is an old offender, this being the fourth time he has been sentenced to imprisonment in the same institution. He had upon his person, at the time of his arrest, five skeleton keys, of various sizes, for the purpose of opening trunk locks.

John Johnson, who was arrested for attempting to steal a horse, the property of Mr Robert Moore, was examined yesterday before Recorder Baldwin and sentenced to six months imprisonment in the workhouse.

We have been requested to publish the following queries. They originally appeared in the Age of Wednesday last:

To Edgar Montegut, Esq. candidate for the office of mayor, for the city of New Orleans:

Sir,—Your nomination at the democratic election which has lately taken place, confirmed us in the good opinion we had thus far of you. Before proceeding one step in the approaching contest between the two political opponents for the chief magistracy of this city, we deem it our bounden duty to ascertain from you whether you are not one of those who for the last eighteen or twenty months have been carrying on a system of persecution against the catholics and their devoted clergy of New Orleans. For our own part, we must confess to you that we shall leave no efforts behind to secure to ourselves the free exercise of our religion.

We hope your answers to the following queries will be satisfactory, and in accordance with the constitution and the rights of a free people.

1st.—Have you not voted as an alderman of the First Municipality, for the remittance of several fines recovered before competent courts against the perpetrators of a riot at the bishop's dwelling?

2d.—Have you not sided with the wardens of the church of St. Louis in all their differences and controversies with the catholic clergy?

3d.—Have you not approved by your presence and vote, the preamble and resolutions adopted at a meeting of pretended catholics, held at the St. Louis Hotel on the 27th of October last?

4th.—Have you not disapproved the preamble and resolutions adopted at the meeting of the catholics held at Banks's Arcade on the 4th of November last?

5th.—Are you not a subscriber to a paper edited by an apostate priest, entitled "Le Penseur," the main object of which is to create a schism among the catholics?

6th.—Have you not given your entire approbation to a bill passed at the late session of the Senate, by which the members of the catholic church of St. Patrick are prevented from voting at the election of the wardens of the church of St. Louis, while the powers of said wardens are so enlarged that the curate or priest who would officiate in the church of St. Patrick without the permission of the said wardens, would have been, therefore, to undergo a criminal prosecution, and finally be condemned to a fine and imprisonment?

We conclude by informing you that it is our right to propound, and your duty to answer the above queries; should you deem proper to remain silent, we shall nevertheless, know what we will have to do.

MANY CATHOLICS.

[COMMUNICATED.]

Let the Catholics of the Parish of Orleans bear in mind that a locofoco Senate passed a bill prohibiting any Catholic priest from officiating, or preaching in any church within the limits of the Parish of Orleans, without first having obtained permission from the Church Wardens of the Church of St. Louis. Thanks to a Whig House of Representatives, this crusade against Catholicism has been defeated. Catholics! can you now support locofoco candidates, that they may more easily crush down your religion, and that of your forefathers? We will see.

ANOTHER CATHOLIC.

THE MAGICIAN ALEXANDER.

Whose exhibitions have excited the astonishment of the inhabitants of this City is a native of Germany.—As we have been fortunate enough to obtain the paper wherein the history of his life is written, we give herewith a copy of it, being convinced that all details are fully true, as we are acquainted with the respectability of the source from which they emanate.

Alexander was born in the City of Munster, kingdom of Westphalia; his parents intending him for the high school, gave him a good education, and as he conceived and learned every thing uncommonly well for his age, he went to the University when he was only 17 years old; but although he was obliged to study philosophy, he entertained no relish for it, as his mind impelled his energies to the knowledge of physic and chemistry.—Notwithstanding the strenuous opposition of his relatives and teachers, who considered him one of his best scholars, he began his new studies, to which he devoted his entire attention, being convinced that this was the career best suited to his intellect and taste. Some few years ago, his first appearance at Brunswick and subsequently at Hamburg, giving very interesting performances, and it was particularly in the latter place that he gained a very high reputation during his stay of nine months, which is not so easily to be obtained in that well-known City without possessing real talent. He afterwards visited the principal cities in the North of Europe, where he drew large audiences and obtained immense applause. He has been for some weeks sojourning in New Orleans, and though he has given several exhibitions, our citizens have not had a full opportunity of witnessing his astonishing resources in sleight of hand and natural magic. As he proposes to give a series of performances in the St. Charles Theatre, in a day or two we hope that all who have never been present at these representations, will embrace this opportunity of beholding him.

CIRCULATE THE DOCUMENTS.—It is stated in letters from Washington "that 100,000 copies of Dr. Duncan's violent, abusive and scurrilous tirade or speech against the Whigs, made by him a short time ago, and which he declared at the time was intended for Buncombe, have been printed and are sent off. Several Whig members of Congress are purchasing it, and sending it to their constituents, declaring that it is the best thing they can send, being so low, vituperative, false and malicious, that the Locos themselves will be ashamed to belong to a party that resort to such means to sustain itself, and will abandon it in disgusting and loathing."

Mr. CALHOUN was to leave his residence on the 20th inst., for Washington.

[CORRESPONDENCE OF THE BEE.]

DOTTINGS FROM THE DOME.

WASHINGTON, March 20, 1844.

Gentlemen,—Mr. Evans offered a resolution in the Senate to-day to adjourn on the 20th of May. The resolution lies for the present on the table.

The Fox and Wisconsin subject was under consideration again this morning. The question was upon an amendment or substitute for the bill offered by Mr. Allen, and advocated by him yesterday. Mr. Tallmadge opposed it, and Mr. Allen again raised his powerful voice, "trumpet-tongued," in its favor. The yeas and nays being called, stood: 11 to 28. So the amendment was lost, notwithstanding it was advocated by the powerful voice of the Senator from Ohio.

Mr. Choate now rose and said that a friend had expressed an opinion that he had gone somewhat farther yesterday, as he was reported in the Intelligencer, in reprobating the sentiment advanced by Mr. Buchanan, that there was naturally ill-blood in the veins of the people of the United States towards Great Britain, than the sentiment as expressed warranted. If that were the case, he should feel it as much due to himself as to the Senator from Pennsylvania to retract; if he had gone beyond the proper line of comment, he must attribute it to the ardor of debate; he was not conscious, however, of having done so. He would read what he had been reported to have said, and then say whether he was willing to endorse the report or not.

Mr. Buchanan said he had come prepared to reply to the gentleman from Massachusetts, but he should now defer it. He would, however, reply to the gentleman from Virginia, (Mr. Rives,) on the subject of the North Eastern boundary, the map, &c. He then sent to the Clerk's table the official debates of Parliament, from which long extracts from Sir Robert Peel's and Lord Brougham's speeches were read, and he proceeded to argue that Lord Ashburton must have known of the existence of the map found in George the Third's library, having the boundary line traced on it, and designated in the handwriting of George the Third, which the United States claimed as the true boundary line. He commented with much severity upon the British Government in suppressing their map, and more than insinuated that Lord Ashburton not only knew of its existence, but had it in his pocket when negotiating the Treaty; though he confessed that he was in error the other day when he said that Sir Robert Peel had said that Lord Ashburton was in possession of it. Mr. B. went on at some length with his comments and arguments.

Mr. Rives was much surprised at the remarks of the Senator from Pennsylvania. It would be recollected, he said, that that Senator had distinctly charged Lord Ashburton with having the map referred to in his pocket when he came here to negociate, and when he solemnly asseverated that he believed the British government had a just title to the territory in dispute, and had read an extract from Sir Robert Peel's speech to prove his assertion. That when he (Mr. R.) denied that Sir Robert referred to Lord Ashburton, when he said "the noble Lord [Palmerston] did not shew it to Mr. Webster," the Senator from Pennsylvania said he would look into the official debates, and if he found himself mistaken in supposing Sir Robert Peel referred to Lord Ashburton, he would make ample reparation to that noble Lord, for whom he had a high esteem. But now, though obliged to admit that he was in error, that Lord Ashburton was not "the noble Lord" referred to by Sir Robert Peel, yet instead of doing Lord Ashburton the ample justice promised, he had entered into an argument to prove that Lord A. must have been in possession of this map nevertheless. This was making the amende honorable with a vengeance. Mr. Rives commented at length upon Mr. B's course, and in the opinion of many, came so near using him up, or making him look small, as Mr. Buchanan's friends could desire. He charged him with a want of candor, fairness, and generosity. He then proceeded to shew that the map in question was not of so much importance as had been attached to it—that it did not in fact give us the country claimed by some three or four millions of acres, and that if the boundary had been settled by it, we would have been worse off than we now are, for we should not have obtained the important equivalents we did obtain for the surrender of a portion of the disputed territory, such as Rouse's Point, the key of Lake Champlain, the strip of land along the New Hampshire and Vermont, and the navigation of the St. John's River.

Mr. Buchanan rejoined, and Mr. Rives surrejoined, and the matter was left pretty much where it begun, Mr. Rives closing with the remark that if the Senator from Pennsylvania was satisfied with his position on the subject, he (Mr. R.) had nothing to say.

In the House, much of the morning was taken up in discussing rules of order, during which rather an exciting scene was raised between the Speaker and Mr. White, of Kentucky, by a misunderstanding between them, or rather by the Speaker's disposition to favor his own political friends, having an eye always on them when any of them desire the floor, and refusing to recognize Mr. White, though he rose to a privileged question. Explanations restored harmony again.

The Speaker made a very absurd decision to-day, in regard to which he was placed in an awkward predicament. A bill (in regard to the United States District Circuit of Ohio) had passed yesterday: was to-day reconsidered, and an amendment adopted: the bill was then passed, and a motion again made to re-consider the last vote. The Speaker decided it could not be re-considered. From this decision an appeal was taken, and the vote stood: 73 to 73. So the Speaker had to give the casting vote upon his own decision, which he did amid much laughter.

Mr. Stetson, of New York, occupied an hour in defending Dorrism and identifying it with true modern democracy. Mr. Simons of Connecticut, next obtained the floor. Mr. Adams intimated a desire to be heard upon this subject. We shall have music when he gets afoul of Dorr and the insurrectionists.

Some time was spent in Committee of the Whole upon the Fortification bill, which was reported to the House and passed. The Senate bill to remount the 2d Regiment of Dragoons was taken up and some progress made therein, when the committee rose and the House adjourned.

I omitted last night to say that Mr. Barrow yesterday, from the Committee on Commerce, to which had been referred a bill from the House for the improvement of the navigation of the Mississippi and its tributaries, reported the same back, with a substitute for the whole bill.

It begins to be doubted, somewhat, whether a treaty to annex Texas will be negociated and sent to the Senate this session. The Madisonian speaks doubtingly upon the subject; it may be, however, to lull suspicion of "Tyler movements."

HAWKEYE.

IMPORTANT FROM THE SOCIETY ISLANDS.—It is stated in the Friend, a paper printed at Honolulu, January 1, 1844, that admiral Du Petit Thouars arrived at Tahati on the 2d November, with the Reine Blanche and Danae of 50 guns each, and the Trause of 64 guns. On the 6th the Admiral dethroned the Queen, and formerly took possession of the Society Islands, for the Throne of France—giving as a reason for so doing, that the queen had refused to haul down her flag—which had been presented to her by Commodore Nicholas, of the English razee Vindictive. Mons. Bruat had changed his functions to that of "Governor of the French Possessions in the Pacific." Mr. Pritchard, the English Consul, had struck his flag. The Admiral had landed about 300 troops, who, with about 100 operatives and artisans, were at work erecting fortifications, &c.

THE LEGISLATURE OF MASSACHUSETTS adjourned on the 16th inst., after a session of twenty five days, during which one hundred and seventy eight acts and one hundred and twenty one resolutions were passed.

COURT OF IMPEACHMENT—We publish this day the proceedings of Thursday, 28th instant, such as we have received them, in English, in full, in French, only in part. The continuation of the proceedings of Wednesday have not come to hand. EDITORS OF THE BEE.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF THE SENATE OF LOUISIANA,
SITTING AS A HIGH COURT OF IMPEACHMENT.

THURSDAY, March 28, 1844.

The Court met pursuant to adjournment—the same Senators present as yesterday.

The Secretary informed the parties that the witnesses whose names had been handed in yesterday, had been duly summoned.

Mr. John L. Lewis was called to the witnesses' stand, and was sworn on behalf of the state.

Mr. Soulé objected to taking down the testimony in writing. It was quite unnecessary and unusual. He stated that he was counsel for Mr. Buisson, when that gentleman was impeached in the capacity of Sheriff, and in his recollection served him right, the evidence was not taken down in writing. This court had determined to be governed by the same rules as were observed in other courts in their ordinary proceedings, and the evidence was never taken down in writing in those courts, except in cases where appeals were allowed.

Mr. Hunt said, without entering into any argument upon the point, it would be seen that it was indispensable to take down the testimony, from the fact that some of the members of the court might be absent, and if the testimony were not taken down, they would not be advised distinctly of its character.

Mr. Soulé repeated his objections to taking down the testimony in writing. It would consume a great deal of time, and it would defeat the object desired by the accused, a speedy trial.

Mr. Wadsworth suggested that some of the members of the court might retire from indisposition, or be unable to attend from day to day, and how otherwise could access be had to the testimony, if it were not taken down and preserved in writing.

The President asked the court whether they would have the testimony taken in writing.

Mr. Ledoux objected to taking down the testimony in writing. It was not necessary, and it would consume time.

On motion of Mr. Davidson, the members of the court thereupon withdrew for consultation.

After a few moments absence, they returned, and the following order taken by them was read by the Secretary.

Ordered, with regard to the testimony of witnesses, that it will be taken in writing according to the practice in the civil courts—to wit: The answers of the witnesses only, and not the interrogatories, will be written down; but in special instances, where the counsel on either side, after hearing the witness's answer, deems the taking down of the interrogatories material, the interrogatories, at the request of the counsel propounding it, shall be taken down.

John L. Lewis examined.—Mr. Lewis stated that he had been Clerk of the District Court for the First Judicial District for a number of years. During this period a great number of persons have been naturalized. The proceedings invariably are entered on the records of the court. The application is first entered on the blotter, and is afterwards entered on the minute book. Mr. Lewis here exhibited a book, which he stated was the minute book of 1840. He exhibited to the inspection of the court, the sitting of 26th October, 1840, recorded in said book, as shewing the proceedings of the court in ordinary cases, and in cases of naturalization. The proceedings of the court are entered every day regularly, and from day to day. He does not mean that the entry is closed on the same day, because the proceedings may sometimes be so great as to require several days to bring them up.

The proceedings are regularly entered every day and in the order in which the proceedings are had.

It never occurs that proceedings of a posterior date are entered before proceedings of an anterior date.

CROSS-EXAMINED.

After inspecting Book C., says that the entries are the same at the Minute Book of the District Court. The term is somewhat different.

[illegible]

It was a question for some time with Judge Buchanan whether he was not entitled to the fees arising from naturalization papers issued from his Court, but upon examination he abandoned that pretension.

In answer to an interrogatory from the Court (Mr. Downs) the witness stated in cases previous to elections when most certificates are granted, he (witness) believed it must have occurred that certificates have been granted before the blotter before being entered on the Minute Book.

In answer to another question from the Court, (Mr. Slidell) the witness stated that Judge Buchanan had never received a fee for naturalization; and had abandoned the claim upon reflection.

The examination of Mr. Lewis was resumed in chief.

The witness stated that when the certificates are granted before the extension of the proceedings the entry is always placed upon the blotter, together with the date and order of the application.

The witness with as quick despatch as possible, invariably transfers the entries made on the blotter to the Minute Book.

The record invariably states whether applicant was a minor under 18 years of age, or whether he was above that age, and when a previous application has been made said application and the name of the Court are incorporated in the proceedings.

Witness again examined Book C. and stated that the names of the witnesses and mention of a previous application are omitted, and that the entry in that book does not specify whether the parties were minors or had made a previous application.

To an interrogatory put by the Court (Mr Davidson) the witness answered he knew of no particular form prescribed by Congress for certificates of naturalization.

CROSS-EXAMINED by the Counsel for the Accused.

The witness states that Judge Buchanan is a salaried officer and receives no perquisites. That the minutes are never read over in the morning in the presence of the Judge. The Judge never examines the minutes, the correctness of the minutes are confided to the Clerk, and the Judge would not know if an error were committed.

[illegible]

Mr. Peychaud was called, but not being present, an attachment, on motion of Mr. Hunt, was issued for his appearance.

The Secretary then read the following order:

Ordered by the Court that a fee not exceeding $— be allowed upon each attending witnesses, for each and every day he is to attend.

Said order was adopted.

The President inquired of the Managers if they were prepared to continue the proceedings by submitting other evidence in the intermediate time before the witnesses can appear.

The Managers signified their assent; and Mr. Wadsworth introduced the following testimony taken before the Committee of the House and published, to the introduction of which in that form, the counsel for the accused had consented:

To wit, the testimony of S. Robira, J Monfee, Jno. Dolan, with their certificates of naturalization; and the testimony of Philip Van Buren, Henry Nicholson, J. T. Barton.

Mr. Soulé called upon Mr Hunt to admit that Monfe was a Spaniard and could not understand one word of English.

Mr. Hunt replied that such he believed to be the fact.

Mr. Ellis, (a free man) was then called, but not being present, on motion of Mr. Hunt, an attachment was issued to bring him into Court.

The Managers called Mr Elwyn, and he was sworn.

Mr. Elwyn said he was the holder of two notes given by Judge Elliott for the sums set out in which Elliott lives. They are the same spoken of by Mr. Preston, and were given to him in payment of a debt due him from the succession of Robert Layton. Judge Elliott stated to him that he (Elliott) expected to receive money due to him from the City of Lafayette. He also told him he expected to get money for naturalizing foreigners, which he intended to apply to the payment of said debt to witness. He (witness) never heard Elliott state that he (Elliott) had actually received money for naturalizing. The witness had obtained judgment and execution with the vendor's privilege on the property. Judge Elliott gave as a reason for witness not to hurry matters that he expected to receive fees for naturalizing foreigners.

CROSS-EXAMINED.

Witness is unable to repeat Judge Elliott's precise words in the conversation alluded to. He does not know whether the fees spoken of by Elliott were to be paid for naturalization to be made. The conversations of which witness speaks occurred in April, May, June and July: witness limited himself to these four months—it might have been earlier it might have been later.

Wm T Raynal was next called to the stand and sworn.

Mr. Raynal stated that he called upon Judge Elliott at the request of Mr Preston to collect from him some money. Judge Elliott paid witness $70, part of which was in gold, which Elliott stated belonged to his wife and part from his office, and a small portion from the City of Lafayette, a debt due him. [illegible]

[illegible]

Mr. Benjamin said that it appeared to him that the counsel for the accused were arguing when there was no occasion for an argument. The State certainly had the right to the benefit of Mr. La Sere's testimony, and it could not be deprived of that right.

Mr. Morse here moved an adjournment until to-morrow.

Mr. Downs said that if the Court adjourned until to-morrow, it should be with the understanding that the case should no longer be arrested by the absence of the witness on behalf of the managers. It was not to be expected that the Court should adjourn from day to day, after offering every facility to bring the witnesses into court, on account of their absence.

Mr. Hunt maintained that the Court had full power to bring witnesses into Court, and if the Court did not avail itself of that power, it was not for the State to suffer.

Mr. Downs stated that an attachment would issue, but if that failed, what course would the Managers suggest to bring the witness into Court?

Mr. Hunt stated that other attachments and additional officers should be sent, but this contingency had not yet arisen. When it did arise, he would be prepared to shew that the Court would possess every necessary power.

Mr. Downs said it was evident that the Court could not be kept here indefinitely, and if the witness did not appear when every facility was allowed to bring him into Court, his absence could not prolong the trial beyond reasonable limits.

Mr. Soulé said that in ordinary cases when the parties consented to trial they assumed to abide by all the consequences. The absence of some of the witness after all legal process, might be good grounds for a new trial, but it could not be employed to defeat a trial altogether. He thought the proposition he had made a reasonable one: that it was customary daily to go on with the trial after admitting that if the witness were present certain facts enumerated could be proved, or to state the facts, admit them upon being attested to by the witness. If the Managers would only state what facts they expected Mr. La Sere to prove, the counsel for the accused were ready to proceed.

The question was taken on the adjournment and decided by yeas and nays—9 yeas—8 nays. So the Court adjourned until to-morrow, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

CHARLESTON COTTON-MARKET—March 23.

COTTON.—Contrary to the belief expressed in our review of the 16th instant, and which, at the time of publication, was the opinion of dealers generally, that prices would remain stationary until the advices of the 4th from the other side should be received, the Upland market continues to droop—particularly the middling and lower grades, which have felt the pressure most. [illegible]

MOBILE, TUESDAY EVENING, March 26.

COTTON.—The market has presented no new feature to-day. Sales rather more limited than yesterday, but holders continue firm, and are offering comparatively little of the stock. [illegible] Alabama is also without material change.

FREIGHTS remain inactive, with a drooping tendency. Shippers at small have made engagements for Liverpool in British vessels at lower rates.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

HAVRE COTTON-MARKET—FEBRUARY 16, 1844.
