Deplorable Mansacres in Texas.

We copy the following from last evening is Courier:

A letter from San Antonio de Bear, gives deplorable accounts of nurders and robberies commuted upon the people inhabiting the western frontier of Texas, by the Camanches and Lapans. Most of the able-bodied men of the colonies of New Braunfels. Texas, by the Camanches and Lapans. Most of the abie-bodied men of the colonies of New Braunfeis, Castroville and Lake Quant having joined the army under Gen. Taylor, the awages profung by their absence, threw themselves upon the old men, women and children, burnt the houses, the crops of corn, mutilated the dead bodies, violated the women, and carried off a number of children mit oslavery. The Commercial Association of German Princes who undertook to colonize the mountains of the San Saba, have not been successful in their plans.—They directed a colvoy of one hundred wagons on the route towards the colony, which was attacked by the savages. The German enigrants, after fighting desperately, were perewhelmed by numbers and obliged to retreat, leaving behind them a great number of killed and wpunded in the hands of the savages. The wagons contained the whole fortunes of the migrants.

songe to retreat, eaving bomind them a great number of killed and whanded in the hands of the savages. The wagons contained the whole fortunes of the emigrants.

The people say that two companies ought to be despatched without lelay in pursuit of these savages, it that exigencies of the service will permit the absence of such force from the main army. When the troops make their appearance, the savages will fly before them—but whi afterwards return and commit new ravages. A strong body of soldiers should be permissionly usationed near the settlements to restain those Indians.

The improvidence of the leaders of these colonies has become proverlyial. They are generally landspeculators—who, since the slave trade is abolished, have made a commerce in the whites.

Generally, the enligrants are brought over in bad ships, and made to pay a high price for their passage—they have no medical treatment when sick, and on board ship many of them die; and when they land they are again cheated in the transportation of their baggage.
