Intelligence from the city of Mexico to the 6th June was received at Matamoros before the departure of the Alabama. Nothing more had transpired than what was generally expected. Parenes was preparing to piace himself at the head of the army, and General Bustaments was to occupy the Presidential Chair during his absence.

A correspondent writes us as follows: "A letter use been received here (at Maismoros) stating that a wealthy proprietor of Mexico had placed in the hands of the Government two millions of dollars and welve thousand borses and this hands of the dollars and welve thousand borses."

a wealthy proprietor of Mexico and placed in the hands of the Government two millions of dollars and twelve thousand horses, and that the clerry had pledged themselves to sustain the country in driving the invaders from the soil, Parenss having given publicity to the contemptible falsehood that we were the enemies and sworn destroyers of their religion."

This statement is probably nothing more than one of those vague remors that every day are propagated about the earny. It was, however, confidently believed at Matamoros. The Republic of the Rio Grands illudes to a smilar report as follows; "We discover that the Mexicans are much elated at the information serviced, that all the wealth and property of the Charch has been tendered to the Government to support the war. We learn that Lieut, Gol, Antonio Fenoria, of the 12th regiment Mexican infantry, has strived in Lanares with four hundred men and three paces of cannon, from Tampico. Col. Theoria was comerly a citizen of this place, and his family now one in the city. We also learn that every Department is the Republic have made a voluntary tender of their quota of men and money for the effective prosecution of the war, and from our own observation, we discover that the Mexicans feel a greater taxiety about the receipt of a mail than we do our-wives, wishing to ascertain how affairs shand between lond Bild and Brother Jonathan, as if anticipating enef from a difference between these worthice." wives, wishing to ascertain how affairs and between John Bull and Brother Jonathan, as if anticipating eruf from a difference between these worthies."

It is barely possible that these rumors may be well ounded, and on the presumption that the dergy will make the sacrifice of their property and wealth for the prosecution of the war, Mexico may be enabled to give us some trouble. Under scarcely any other electromatances could Parrises raise an effective and umerous force. But if it be true that he has artfully appeared to the superstitious fears of the priests and

The St. Louis papers of the 29th and 30th ult., contain some information in relation to the movements of the troops under Col. Kearney, who have been stationed at Fort Leavenworth, prior to taking up the time of march for Santa Fe. We learn that Speyer, the Santa Fe trader, had been overtaken by an advance guard of 18 troopers, sent forward by Col. the Santa Fe trader, had been overtaken by an advance guard of 18 troopers, sent forward by Col. Kearney. Speyer is laden with ammunition for the Mexicans. He refused to stop, and ordering up his men, 19 in number, he declared his intention of fighting if they attempted to detain him. The dragooms despatched an express back for Capt. Moore's command, and in the meantime followed on the trader's trail, who was driving with all hane, in hopes to estate. The command, and rape. The company under command of Captain Moore, was but a short distance behind, and would, no doubt, overtake Speyer.

The troops generally at Fort Leaverworth, were in fine spirits, and impatient to begin the journey. A portion of them—two or three companies—had received orders to march on the 24th ult.

The Mobile papers mention the particulars in unpleasant affair that occurred on the wharf or Saturday, just before the boat started with the Alabarna volunteers for Point Isabel. Some of the vol-unteers undertook to torment two negroes that were rishing on the wharf, and a fine boy, belonging to I I. Jones, Eq., was knocked overboard—another boy who attempted to mave him, was thrown or push-ed after. The last was saved—the first drowned.— Great excitement followed. The volunters attempted to hurry off the boat. The Mayor and Marsha ordered the boat to be stopped. After some discussion this order was obeyed, and the emparitation of the 100.58 delayed until the matter was adjusted. The roops were then subjected to a rigid examination, and three men supposed to be implicated in this inhuman Mayor's office, and after an investigation, two were discharged—the third was sent to prison to answe for his crime. In the HOUSE, the debate on the Tariff Bill was resumed. In the HOUSE, the debate on the Tariff Bill was reamed. Mr. Thbatus, or Ky., made a curious speech, in which he declared that like a whipped bound we had surrendered our rights to Oregod, after holdly declaring them to be clear and unquestionable. He defended our claim to 54 40, and treated his own party—the locos—with much bitter animadelymon, for their presumed backsidings. In regard to the Tariff, he professed to occupy a middle ground between the backs of the country of the cou tann, he protessed to occupy a middle ground between the North and South. The Tariff of 1843, he could not stand—it was too protective; that proposed by the Committee was equally objectionable—it was too Southers.

Mr. Payne and Seddon made Free Trade speeches.

Mr. Hudoun, of Mass, defended the Tariff, and expaniated at great length on its practical operation.

The debate was continued by Mr. Goodyear, of N. Y., against the Tariff of '42, and in favor of Mr. Hungerford's substitute; by Mr. Kaufman, of Texas, who spoke particularly of the Mexican War; by Mr. Blanchard, of Pa., is favor of protection, and other members. The following amusing anecdote is taken from a late number of the Rappshic of the Rio Grande:

An independent company of rangers were encamped on the Agas Dulce, in 1837, and were dependent upon their rifles for subsistence, every man taking his turn at hunting. There was one man in this company that invariably returned empty handed, and he became so noterious for not farnishing his quots of meat that his companions made it a standing rale to joint and plague him on the suspect. He dutakes their jibes and jerem very much, and proterred that it was his unlucky start, at this time in the sacendard, which caused his ill saccess. He was, he sud, a good shot, but some accident always advased the game of his vicinity. After raceting with such success for a long time, he was pursuaded to a dopt the Camanche deer dress, and make one effort more.

Accordingly he donned the undressed deershin, the head, horns, and skin of the legs remaining attached, and when he got down on all-lours, doi reasonable, at a distance, a real buck. Off he started, amid the abouts of his companions, for the range, which, as soon as reached, afforded a thousand opportunities to try his experiment. Selecting what he thought the best path through the chapsural, he was proceeding along it slowly, so reach the prairs suminisful of any thing but the deer, when a pantiler, perched upon a limb, and thinking it was a sure enough buck, sprang apon him and stack has claws deep into the dry skin. The hunter raised with a yell, the panther bounded off with equal affinglis and surprise, and aithough not sing was spoke, the apology seemed metual, and the hunter returned to camp, from which report has it, he mide tracks for the Sabine.
