These documents are volumin iting nearly three columns of the official journal. We subjoin in a condensed form all the material points in the case.

The Court of Inquiry commence by setting forth at the facts in the conduct of General Gaines which n the opinion of the President, rendered an investition necessary. These are lamiliar to our readers and do not require recapitulation. The opinion of the Court is then given in regard to each specification. The instructions to General Gaines from the War Dertment, dated May 18th 1846, approving the call into service of the Volunteer forces from Louisiana, Alabama, &c., are considered as ratifying the orders of

The case of the St Louis Legion is passed over, as that regiment had been accepted by the War Departmanthorized, though subsequently accepted by the Department. In regard to the other calls made by General Gaines before the 17th May, the Court are of opinion that, under the circumstances, General G. vas justified in endenvoring to supply Gen. Editors—I have lately had the pleasure to read the speech, printed in pamphlet form, of our member of Congress, from the Third District, deliv-red on Wednesday, June 24th, 1846. I love to be ular on all subjects, but especially would I be a that very 24th of June. We had on that day, many severe flashes of lightning, with me

mende honorable. I here, with shame confess, never did like this speech. Indeed, or years have considered it rather a poor affair I cant. I have considered it rather a poor affair. I cangive a reason for this, that is perfectly satisfactory nyself. I hope it was not prejudee—I are sure it a not envy. But whatever may have been the see, I must acknowledge, and I do so with regret, it I used to listen to it with a feeling not far from itempt. I would fait hope that ranniaghty, according to the well known proverb, produced this hing, but at all events my eyes are opened now sy not this dearrable state be attributed to the new in m which the speech comes to me! I do not be satisfactory that the product of the new in m which the speech comes to me! I do not be satisfactory that the product of the new in m which the speech comes to me! I do not be satisfactory that the product of the new in my high which the speech comes to me! I do not be satisfactory that the product of the new in the new interests the new inter in in which the speech comes to me! I do no make they know the last, but have great reason to be that the types of the "I atom" it wopaper seen used to print it; those much to be innoised, that by the gracious perimession of the Pressort, are daily used in praising him and the Heads of Departments. I have never went the illustrations new all paper in question, but I am told that it is equal to in illumination, and I can well believe it. for it would seem that its very types and ink have shed light upon this production of our member, this production of our member, this production. seem that its very types and ink have shed hight upon this production of our member, that in the many ora-visitations which I have suffered from it, I never dreamed, existed. How strange, that I should never before have been conscious of the many winderful things contained in this speech; of the new docove-ries, I may surely term them, with which almost every paragraph teems, as well in therature and ethics, as in political science which forms the main subject of it. Let it be now my object, like a true penient for former sins, to say the least of negrect, to bring to the notice of my fellow critizens, or rather to such of them as had not had the happiness to see the painpliet, a few of the beauties which have so much pleased me.

sew of the beauties which have so much please I will not do them or the gifted author, the injust point them out in 'detail. Time, and perias, space you can allow, would tail if I attempte space you can allow, would tail if I attempted the half of them. I can, therefore, only allude to them agenerally, astasfied that all who can, will immediately procure a copy. The first thing that attempted the render as particularly new in the appears as a grammar. We have all heard of probessors who have promised their pupils the attainment of French and other foreign languages in twenty fessors. Why this degree of study is absolute slavery, compared with what Mr. Harmanson's system of the control of the cont

Editors, so much pains were taken to beat into our beads, that plural verbs should have plural nominative cases, is all aconside by Mr. H. It is true that he some times, though rarrly, diese conform to the old usage. This circumstance leads me to imagine that he has not seen lit actually to essablish a new rule, but that, considering any rule inconsistent with the "largest liberty," he has kindly abrogated them all. It may be that his occasionis conformity as accidental, lot you know nesso omashaw horus sagit. Whatever may be the fact, of this we are certain, that we have the authority of Mr. Harginnison for an entirely new system of the graughary of our language. I will not take up space by giving in stances in proof as any one who reads the speech near year it for himself. Besiles as I shall probably give quantations before I have done, for other purposes, I doubt not, but that the new system shall, in their, sweek tor itself.
