New York politics is one of the queerest riddles

Among the whigs we have radicals and conserva-tives, anti-renters, pational reformers and half a dozen more petty squads or factions, each basily endozen more petty squads or factions, each bussity en-gaged in endeavoring to identify its peculiar dogmas with the settled principles of the party, and threasen-ing secession and desertion, unless these dogmas are adopted. Nor are the Lucofocos in much better light, for they may be said scarcely to have any fixd principles. The Albany clique endeavors to stem the torrent of young democracy, and to remain sta-tionary amid lumbering and antiquated dectrines—

ed by the spoils in esse a paramount consideration while the whigs having them only is posse, and that dependent upon a doubtful cantingency, cannot be roused to the harmonious cooperation necessary to present exists among parties in New York, must be a disorganization to be followed by new amalgamations. disorganization to be followed by new amaigamations. The radicals, whether whigh or locofocos, will cling together, and the conservatives on both sides will unite in order to present a steady opposition to the encroachinents of the former. The fact is that what termed "the Old Hunker party," though nominally occofoco, approaches quite near the standard of white principles. The Old Hunkers are conservatives to a an, and are mostly Tariff advocates. That they adhere to locofocoism may be best explained by the at some future time, not far distant, either abandor their present associates, or consent to be swallowed up and lost in the seething caldron of radicalism.

Something Rake.—Candor in a Locofoco print i twittee somewhat rare, and whenever it is manifest a should call forth proper panegyric. The Richmond (Va.) Standard in a recent article on the Abo

Whige of coalescing with Abolition, and of entertain ing kindred sentiments. Now the anti-slavely feeling at the North respects neither party, and claims its proselytes from both. We have no doubt that higs and Locos in that quarter would be equally glad to obtain Abolition votes. Both parties hav ne and again bid for them; both have occasionali rotitted by them. The Abolitionists by their sepa rate organization made Mr. Polk president. A few months ago, by uniting with the opposition in New Hampshire, they revolutionised the State. By maintaining an independent organization and strengthening themselves through accessions from, probably both parties, they have succeeded in preventing the choice of a Governor in Maine, and in rendering the result exceedingly doubtful. Thus some ultimate resust exceedingly doubtuin. I mus sometimes they hart and sometimes they help the Whigs and Locoe; and it is the height of folly, as well as an atrocious humbur, to charge either party with an extension with these fension. This compare in afforcious numoug, so charge entire party with an ex-clusive coalition with these fanatics. This game is too often pursued, and is entirely too discreditable for respectable prints. We rejoice to see a Democratic press honest enough to sparn such contemptible de-vices, and to acknowledge that the support of the Abolitionists is courted by both parties at the North

In connection with this subject we cite the follow ing passage from the Washington Correspondence the Charleston Courier:

"The cry against the extension of slavery that has been raised by and in Petnsylvanis, does not appear to be connected with politics. Some who join in it are, no doubt, influenced by resentment at the destruction of the protective Tarifi, but Pennsylvania has always been, when acting independently of party influences, hostile to the institution of alwayer. That she has sometimes gone with the South on questions connected with slavery, was owing to her party connexion with the South. But the serious movement of Mr. WILNOT, has no reference to the Tariff, or to parties. He is a free trade man, and/noted for the new Tariff, and is a democrat. One of the ablest papers, the leafest of the terminal and independent paper, the Ledger,) leaning to democracy and an advocate of free trade, and in favor of the annexation of Texas, presents itself as the champion of the proposed restriction of the further extension of slavery. It calls emphatically upon Pennsylvania to the proposed restriction of the further extension of slavery. It calls emphatically upon Pennsylvania to do her duty on this question.

Another distinguished free trade names which adharleston Courier:

Another distinguished free trade paper which ad-Anoner obtinguished free trade paper which ad-vôcăled ihe annexation of Texas, strongly supports the proposition of Mr. Winor, and proclaims individ-ual liberty as the great principle of the nineteenth cen-tery. All these are indications of the turnul we are to have in Congress at the next Session, or whenever the question of the acquisition of Mexican territory shall come up.

MAINE.—The Boston Allas has returns from 390 towns which foot as follows: Bronson, W. 29,357; Dana, L. 34,327; all others 9,750. Mail. against De-Dana, L. Or, Serf. an others w, 150. Resp. against Lorna 4,780. Maj. for Anderson, L. in same towns last year 1,094. Net Locofco loss 5,874. The Atlas says Lincoln has elected 11 instead of 10 Whig Representations of the Atlanta and the Major and the Maj Lancoin has elected 11 instead of 10 Whig Represen-tatives as we had it yesterday, making the House stand 41 Whigs and 44 Locofocos. The same paper has taken the pains to ascertain the vote for Governor in the vacant representative districts, and finds that in 40 out of the 60 districts now unrepresented there is a large majority against Dana in each, so that if the Whigs are true to themselves and the cause, they may yet achieve a glorious triumph in Maine.

FIRE AT PHILADELPHIA.—We learn by Magnetic relegraph that a fire broke out on the afternoon of the 29th ult., in Philadelphia, at the corner of Schay. the 29th ult., in Philadelphia, at the corner of Schay-kill, Sixth and George streets, which destroyed every building nearly up to Seventh street. There were twenty-two brick houses destroyed, or greatly damaged, and great misery must ensue in consequence, as the persons inhabiting them were generally poor, from four to eight families in each house, and at least eighty families are rendered houseless.—

of opposites—a system of contraries—a medley of odds and ends, an array of hostile parties, each animased by the most dispordant and repellant opinions. Whigs and Locofocos are alike amenable to these charges, though not in any equal degree. There is neither coheson one consistency about them; their principles are mutable, time serving and often in rap-gible. They straggle for they scarcely know what; and success, with its consequences, power and place, seem almost the sole incentives to action.

Among the whigs we have radicals and conservaconsequently relieved of an oppressive tax, are actu-ally rising in the market! What is this but a conastonished that while they have been for half a century read and admired, they have been at the same time repudiated by every commercial nation on the face of the globe; and we are not less so, that at this late day they should undergo a sudden resurrection, in the teeth of the thousand concurring evidences that they are practically as unsound and fallacious, as they are theoretically beautiful and specious. The Kennebec Journal seems to have co sed the argument pro and con, on the alleged tendenthe progressives on the other hand wage fierce war against the Old Hunkers, and seem determined to carry radicalism to its utmost extreme. Between these and the Tribune faction of the whige, there is much affinity—they differ more in name than in opinion.

There is little doubt in our mind that the whige number a decided majority of the voters of New York, but they lack the elements of success—union. The democrate, it may be remarked, though as greatly divided as the whige in regard to fundamental points of political faith, have the good sense to band together whenever an election is at hand, and to suspend all intestine bickerings for the common purpose of beaung their antagonists. The locos are animative.

ed by the spoils in case—a paramount consideration—while the whigs having them only is posse, and that dependent upon a doubtful cantingency, cannot be roused to the harmonious cooperation necessary to achieve a triumph. The whigs, too, are probably more sincere in their dissentions than the locos. We liave never seen a loco stickle for independence when once the party candidate was duly nominated—yet as an evidence of the willingness of the whigs to sucrifice even political victories to particular views, with an indistance of the willingness of the whigs to sucrifice even political victories to particular views, with an indistance of the willingness of the whigs to sucrifice even political victories to particular views, with a rich soil adapted to the fact that the most prominent, able and influential while preven in the city of New York, refused to sustain the nomination of the wild candidate for Governor, until his suspected connection with the anti-tent faction be properly explained. We may look in vain for such an exhibition in the locolocov ranks. Sitas Watour, the prevent Executive of the State, will probably be nominated for re-election, though violently opposed by a very large and powerful segment of the party. Not one of them, but will pocket his resentment and return to the traces, and bear the harmess.

We think that the upshot of this contasion that at present exists among parties in New York, must be a disorganization to be followed by new amalgamations. The redicals, whether whigs or locolocos, will cling long the research of the content of the party. THE SEASON - The following paragraph, beautiful that the Democrats court their aid quite as much as the Whigs; that if the latter obtain more of their votes than the Locofoco, it is altogether on account of the superior activity of the Whigs; "and we much fear," adds the Sandard, "that it is a consummation shat the Democrats of that region chiefly regret, because they themselves were not the beneficiaries of the arrangement." This is honest, manly and deserving of all praise.

The fact is this, Abolition excitement has been employed by both parties as a scarecrow to affirght the South. The Whigs are too apt to charge the Locos who are in health all seasons are acceptable, and thankfulness should be return for each—but the are generally quite unacrupulous in accusing the both in word and sentiment, is from the Philadelphia
