ing to the bark Madeline and chooner Planet, which were stally wrecked in the arbor of Havana. By this arrival we have fire of papers for several weeks back, comprising the published immediately after the terrific gale of the 4th ult. They are resolutely crowded with the disstrous details, but none of them offer any thing like a comprehensive and connected account of the ranges of the hurricane...
We are obliged to put together disjointed and isolate and He'clock at night on he 10th October, and gradually increased in violence till 10 o'clock the next dualy increased in violence till 10 octook the next morning. It continued bowing fearfully with torrents of rain throughout the day, and by the time the tempest abated, a sene of desolation was presented in the harbor and day of Hawana far exceeding the calamitous viatation during the same nonth in the year 1844 terments took place in the general cemetary; and t more on the 13th and 14th. One house was blown flown, in which there were eleven obcupants, who were overwhelmed and killed. Every house in the city suffered some ityry, and a number were that the corn win be running a number were completely rared to the mound. It is conjectured that in flavana and the reighboring towns, not less than 1500 booses were flown down.

All the vessels which left Havana on the 10th October 15 to 1

tober had been beard from except the Spanish scho er Kaso, and the British steamer. It was thought these two would be saved from the direction which they took. Of the others we believe none escaped wreck. The ship Elizabeth J. and Francis Wests. which were among those that started on the 10th, were stranded at Fey West—no lives lost. A very large number of Spanish vessels, coasters small craft, &c., wee totally lost, or greatly injured The three French mn-of-war which suffered in the gale were the frigate Andromede, Corvette Lu Blo and steamer Tonners The frigate, by dint of great exertion was got after on the 19th ult.

The enizens of Hanns were prompt in taking active measures for the relief of those who had lost every thing by the hurstanne. Subscription lists were manediately opened and headed with the name of Cantain General D'Donnell, for $500; and large amounts had been collected. The existing or dinances of the island had been suspended so as I dinances of the sainst had been suspended so as 10 allow the owners of mail coasting vessels which hind been lost or disabled by the gale, to purchase foreign vessels to supply theirplaces, the owners being required to prove the funer existence of the vessel lost or disabled, and the fact of its loss in the late barricate.

With respect to the grent of darrage sustained b the crops, though not difinitely ascertained, if appears the crops, mough an unitely ascertained, it appears to have been less that was anticeptaed, in consequence, we presume, of the force of the hurricane being duminished, as it adanced towards the interior of the island. The sugar one was considerably out up though not so much as in the barricane of 1814. The greatest extent of injury vas us the neighborhood Metanzas, where the parations were mostly destroyed and the cane blow down and uprooted in mineme quantities. In the country back of Cardenas, the coffee trees were everely injured, to th mount, it is believed, of a fish or sixth of the crop The sugar cane has escaped with comparative

At Maianzas the storm we experienced with trightful violence—nearly every house in the town suffered more on less, and the ressels in port were either stranded, dismanded or sugined other injury. Among the American vessels we notice the bark Parger from Portland, the bark Achole Broken, from Havana and the schr. Gen. Warrs, from Philadelhim, ashore and not likely to be good! The brig-Neptune and North Bend of Franks, Porto Rico of Merlin, from Havana, and & Colony from Nussau, likewise ashore. The coastly vessels were mostly identroyed or aground. At Gues, the dam was considerable. Many publicand private addings were levelled to the ground, ad some loss of ate had occurred. Every sea port in he vicinity experienced the effects of the hurrican, and the faq, of the Pi supping in the harbors suffered injury. B. The conduct of Gen. Lamar in the battle of Monteery was marked by hu usual chivalry and eager imperussity. Mounted on a large white home, he was easily distinguished throughout the engagement. We are informed by those who were present, that after the captulation, the Mexicans spoke of General Lamar, (who supears to be well known to them, in terms of extravigent admiration. They said he seemed to bear a characed like—that they saw hand in almost every street of the citty where the faulter raged most fierely—that, as in the battle of San Jacinto, he was a mark for many a Mexican hall, which they imagined he could only recape by the interposition in his behalf of some supernatural aid.—Galouston Neer
