The New-Orleans Daily Beaufort.
Thursday morning, Feb. 18, 1847.
Mr. Calhoun's long expected speech last night, has been made, and has apparently set at naught the calculation of both sides of political opinion. It is not only a masterpiece of oratory, but a masterpiece of logic. It is a masterpiece of logic, and a masterpiece of oratory. It is a masterpiece of logic, and a masterpiece of oratory. It is a masterpiece of logic, and a masterpiece of oratory.
