FURTHER RETURNS.

Last night, we received the following re... St. James—Declouet, ... Walker, ... 326 / 157 / 169

Kenner has 156 majority, Bordelon 150, and Conrad 143. Two Whigs elected Representatives. The Whig gain in St. James is 136.

Gain in St. John the Baptist 89 maj. for Declouet, ... 187 for Kenner—Whig gain, 31. Total gain in 12 parishes, 954. We had almost omitted to ... Assumption in St. John, Songy (W.) beats Des... 1,147—a Whig gain.

Democratic majority for Declouet in Saint ... 63. Gain, 14 votes.

In the parish of Pointe Coupee, Walker is re... ported to have a majority of 125. This, if true would be a Whig loss of about 85 votes.

RAPIDES.—We were told last night, that the official return from this parish had been received in town, and gave Walker 482 votes—but whether that was all majority, or a total of Walker's majorities at the different precincts from which Declouet's majorities were to be deducted, we could not understand. The returns from five precincts came in yesterday afternoon, two of which gave small majorities for Declouet, and three, majorities for Walker—giving Walker 31 over Declouet in five precincts. If Walker has a clear majority of 482, it is larger than we anticipated, or than Rapides has ever polled at any previous election.

Illinois—Governor's Message.

This document was delivered on Oct. 23d before the Legislature convened in an extra session at Springfield. The Tribune says of it: Gov. French discusses at some length the refusal of the U. S. Senate to admit Gen. Shields as a member, and says that he does not believe he has the power to fill the vacancy, and accordingly referred it to the Legislature; he next calls for decided action on the clause in the new Constitution concerning legislative encouragement of internal improvements, in order that the policy of the State in that respect may become settled, and people know what to expect, and strongly recommends the adoption of general laws under which railroads and similar enterprises may be undertaken; special charters he condemns as onerous and unconstitutional. The message then speaks of some matters of merely local importance; recommends the appointment of a Board of Commissioners to examine claims relating to Canal affairs, of which $950,000 have already been filed; next it dwells upon the outrages in Missouri county, and expresses the opinion that military force cannot be advantageously employed in quelling civil disturbances till all more pacific means have failed; the Governor is of opinion, that a special session of the Legislature would be not only better, but cheaper way of vindicating the supremacy of the law, but his silence on this point are not so clearly explained as they might be. For Homestead Exemption, Representation, &c., he refers to former messages.

SOMETHING NEW UNDER THE SUN AT LAST.—There is being built in New York an iron steamboat to run on Lake Tuscoes, situate at the summit of one of the highest peaks of the Andes, in South America, near the boundary of Peru and several thousand feet above the sea. This is probably the highest point that steam navigation was ever used. The specialty, too, the Tribune says, is to drive a trade with the Indians and Christians along the borders of the Lake, which has a length of about one hundred and sixty miles—ample sufficient to establish a very respectable "coasting trade" in the upper regions of the world. The vessel is 55 feet on the keel, has a depth of hold of 5 feet, with 12 feet beam. Her paddle wheels are 10 feet diameter, and are also of iron. It will be transported in pieces of 350 lbs each, packed in box or otherwise—shipped for Lima or some other seaport town of Peru and thence transported on the different destination on the backs of mules, in packages of the weight before mentioned, one of which is to be the load for one mule. Arrived at the Lake, the packages are to be unshipped and the whole affair re-packed by mariners sent out for the purpose by the builder.

PRINTERS AND PRINTING.—J. T. Buckingham, Esq., in his series of reminiscences in course of publication in the Boston Courier, speaks of the importance of the printer to the country as follows:

"Many who condescend to ridicule the dark word of the fire-side genius, through the columns of a newspaper, little think of the labor of the printer, who, almost suffocated by the dense fog of his workshop, sits up midnight to correct his case grammar, bad orthography, and worse punctuation. I have seen the arguments of lawyers, in high repute as scholars, sent to the printer in a hurried or trembling manuscript—the eloquent calls of provincial and foreign orators—the fervid words unspelled, and few or no full points, and those few, if there were any, exactly out of place. I have seen the splendid periods of the divine, 500 pieces to the pound, without punctuation or capitals to designate the division of the sentences; periods, which, if published would be more unintelligible than the hieroglyphics of the Egyptian obelisks, and which the printer would be more puzzled to read. Suppose these bad hands were to be set up in type, the printer would have been tried and convicted and contempt as an illiterate blockhead—and he would certainly be fitted to be a standing jest than a model. Nobody would have believed that such gross and palpable faults were owing to the ignorance or carelessness of the author. And no one but the practical printer knows how much time a compositor, and after him a proof reader, is compelled to spend in reducing to a tolerable order an author's, that is, the writer's themselves would be puzzled to read."

Barbarity of the Victors.

A New Yorker, Mr. Dunne de Midersgrafe, who was present with Rosby, in Transylvania, on the 13th of September. The Tribune translates it for the Kölnische Zeitung:

With cold composure I will relate to your sympathetic heart the disasters of my house, for which it has been turned to stone. In our immediate vicinity an army of Hungarians surrendered, consisting of 40,000 men, with 40 pieces of cannon. Two days afterward, a division of the Imperial troops, the Liechtenstein light-horse, under a captain, entered Rosby. I may possibly have made a mistake in Rosby, by the rare and enviable delicacy which I was exercising, who just resolved to bring it to an end, but I must confess that I am no hero. Two infantry persons of no particular pretension of refinement, united with the Captain, to commence the atrocities. It is enough to say I was torn from the arms of my husband, from the circle of my children, from the sacred walls of my cherished home, and without accusation, without a hearing, without a judge, thrown into a square of soldiers, and in my own place, in the sight of my people, who were accustomed to honor me, not believe I was your mistress, but because my deportment deserved it, I was shamefully accused. You see I write this without dying. But my husband must shoulder up to death. Deprived of all her arms, he shot himself with a small cannon that stood by. A scream of horror fit the air. I was then hurried off to Carlsruhe. The people wished to kill the authors of this cruel deed, but, protected by the military, the prisoners were saved. My oldest son was taken with Georgey's army and sent to Italy as a private, so that the cup of misery is full. Can you form any idea of the state of my mind? You could not know my husband. I tell you there was not his equal. There never will be, such a noble, exalted and admirable character. The works of his intellect are well known. He was the inventor of the iron arched bridge. His death is a loss to the world. My wretchedness is immeasurable—there never were agonies like mine. My sufferings will endure forever. You will understand that I think of nothing but my misery. Nothing but the wish to live for my son keeps me alive. He is transported to Grantz. If you have acquaintance there, oh think of my poor boy, only in his 18th year.

F. MADERSPASH.

☞ As the Atlas is at a loss for appropriate language to apply to Gen. Taylor, we respectfully call its attention to the following from a resolution passed by a State convention of its own friends, and recorded in its own columns last year:

"Gen. Zachary Taylor, by his masterly correspondence with the War Department, no less than by his heroic conduct and indomitable coolness and courage in the field of battle, has shown himself to be not only a distinguished military chieftain, but a man of great mental and moral power, and whose life has given evidence of a strong head and honest heart, and a republican simplicity of character."—Ala. Eve. Journal.

GIVING LOUIS NAPOLEON THE MITTEN.—It appears that before the French President made proposals for the daughter of King Oscar of Sweden, he opened the question, by proxy, to the daughter of a wealthy English banker, who peremptorily declined the honor of his hand. She was a sensible woman. Wealth, independence, and misery in London, are far preferable than the honors and dignities of a lady president in Paris. The Swedish princess to whom Louis Napoleon is soon to be united, is said to be a "to cherish" damsel.—[N. Y. Times and Messenger.

BALTIMORE, NOV. 6.

Paris, Oct. 19.—During the debate in the French Assembly upon Roman affairs, a violent quarrel arose between Thiers and Bixio. The former sent Bixio a challenge, and a duel was the consequence. They fought with pistols, but no damage was done. A paper states that the Russian government has intimated to the French Minister that the Czar would regard the entrance of a French fleet into the Dardanelles as a declaration of war. The same paper says that an order has been given to the French fleet to join the English squadron.

THE NICARAGUA QUESTION.—The Lorrisco correspondent of the Journal of Commerce writes as follows:

[Correspondence of the Journal of Commerce.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25th.

Mystery is one of the elements of the sublime—and the mystery which is still maintained by the Government as to its real position on the Mosquito question, and the occasional giving out by its confidential organs, that it has elevated itself to a supreme arbitrarorship of the American continent, from ocean to ocean and pole to pole, imposes on with profound awe—But when it shall come down from the clouds, and condescend to state explicitly what its position is, the sublime will be succeeded by the ridiculous.

It is announced, not through the major or minor organ, of which the Union speaks, and with which are responsible and credited, but through more direct organs of the Secretary of State, that this government will not consult with England as to the Ocean Canal, nor accept her consent to its construction, but will demand from her that she will abandon all her assumed rights in the Mosquito country, whatever they may be, and resign from her settlement at Greytown, &c. This may be so, and this is what has been apprehended, and for a long time alleged, and frequently discredited. But it cannot be long before we shall know the truth of the whole matter; for, of course, Congress will probe it to the bottom.

Whatever course this question may take in the premises, it cannot expect to meet the opposition, as on the Panama question, in the Adams and Clay administration, the opposition will stand ready to take the side opposite to that assumed by the administration. The democratic press generally is now vindicating the course of that party, and it is in favor of a step far beyond any that they believe the administration can take.

Mr. Walter Forward, formerly Secretary of the Treasury, is appointed Solicitor of the Treasury, in the place of Mr. R. H. Gillett, removed. It is reported that the Cabinet have determined to remove Ashe—Post Master General Hobbie, and the Sixth Auditor, Mr. Washington. It is well known that the Cabinet has come to a decision to put their friends in possession of all the offices.

ANOTHER DISTINGUISHED SWEDE.—The old Saga Land a few weeks since sent us her sweetest, truthfulest novelist—the world-admired Frederica Bremer; though, in truth, we have seen very little of her yet, since she keeps as studiously from the public eye as her own motto—"Le retenue"—in that delightful domestic story, "The Midnight Sun." Scania is about to lend us another of the Northern stars—one Dr. P. A. Siljestrom, a philologer and writer of distinguished fame, an intimate friend of the late renowned Chemer, Berzelius, and now Vice-Professor of the Mathematics and Physics in the Royal Academy of Sciences at Stockholm—Dr. Siljestrom is on a governmental mission, and also on business for the Stockholm College of Commerce. He is expected in the next Cunard steamer. Over more than all, particular as we all hope it will be, the country—one who has converted kingdoms and never known to scream—one who has been years in public life and never provoked a slander—Jenny Lind, the divine—she is now at an approach distance from us, as Jenny Lind, and Scotland, and well-nigh you a debt that ages cannot pay.—N. Y. Tribune.

FUN AT THE EXPENSE OF JUDGES AND COURTS.—The Richmond Republican gives the following actual occurrence in a Virginia court lately, in the trial of Cogzell for kidnapping. It was a most ludicrous instance of the manner in which the time of courts is wasted:

"A witness, Miss Sloan, was under examination, and it became very important to know what manner of person had said to her upon the occasion referred to in the inquiry. The question was therefore propounded: 'What did Mary say to you?' Thereupon, the opposite counsel rose very much excited, and stated his objections in speech of about an hour long, to which the other replied in one of almost the same length. Then the judges consulted together, and, in a very learned and pompous manner, one of them stated the reason for considering it a very proper question, which must be answered. The great excitement now created by the audience, and a solemn silence was observed by the counsel, opened the question, 'What did Mary say?' To which the witness quietly replied—"She didn't say a word."

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 30.

Horrid Murder—Plea of Insanity, &c.

Two young men, representing themselves to be French Counts, arrived in Galveston on the west, arrived a day or two since, and took up at Barnum's hotel. About 11 o'clock last evening, Mr. Barnum, a nephew to the proprietor of the hotel, was proceeding to his room, one of the Frenchmen fired a pistol at him, he dodged unexpectedly, and the ball passed entirely through his body. Albert Jones, who lodged at the hotel, hearing the report ran out on hearing the report of the pistol, and was shot through the head by the same person, and died immediately.

The murderer plead insanity, or his friend for him, but both were arrested and will be summarily dealt with according to law.

NEW YORK.—We are under obligations to Messrs LEA & BLANCHARD, publishers, through J. R. Siesel, for a copy of Miss Pardoe's new work, on the Court and Reign of Francis the First, King of France. We have read enough of this book to pronounce it delightful. Miss Pardoe is distinguished for her brilliancy and ease, having style, industry and zeal in investigating historical records, and her nice discrimination and rapid perception of character.

GOLD COMING.—The N. Y. Commercial understands that an insurance has been effected by one mercantile house in that city, on six hundred thousand dollars to be received by the three next steamers from California.

QUEBEC, Oct. 29.

ANNEXATION ROW AT QUEBEC.—A row occurred in this city on Saturday at the Annexation Meeting. The Mayor refused to attend the meeting at the Parliament buildings, and it was adjourned to St George's Hotel, and the row here occured; but the assailants were driven off. They went to the house of Mr. Cauchon, M. P., for Montemorenci, an anti-annexationist, and broke the windows, besides doing other damage.

Loss of the bark Elijah Swift, and loss of Life.

Capt. Barstow, of the ship Louisiana, arrived this morning from New York, reports the bark Elijah Swift, Capt. Nye, from New York, for this port, totally lost on the Isaacs, on the 29th ult. The second mate and some ten or twelve passengers were drowned. The ship Louisiana sent her boat to their assistance, and laid by her 30 hours, and took off two of her passengers, which she brought to this city. The balance, with the Captain, mate and crew were taken off by the ship Bangor, bound to Mobile.

Tit for Tat.

Kate's nose was retrousse—her husband's Roman—

One day in a passion he bade her begone—
"Which way?" cried she—"Follow your nose, silly woman!"

He sat waxed with pointed and petulant scorn.
Kate laughed and she whisper'd—"The jaunt is forgiv'n.

It implies such a compliment, dearest you know!
I'll follow my nose, sir, with pleasure—believe me,
If you'll show your's to the regions below!"

☞ We are requested to call the attention of the public to an extensive sale of Brandies, Wines &c., to take place this day at 10 o'clock, at the store of Messrs J. & J. Tardos, No. 31 Old Levee street, as per advertisement in our columns. Bernard Turpin, auctioneer.

THE SMALLEST STEAMER YET FOR CALIFORNIA.—The steamer Narragagus, of Cherryfield, Maine, bound for California, arrived at Boston on Sunday. She has one wheel in her stern and is only 48 tons burthen.

THE WHIG PARTY IS OUR ENEMY—NOT THE DEMOCRATIC!—was the language of one of the speakers at the Free Soil convention at Charleston, on Wednesday, and the same sentiment was re-echoed by nearly every speaker who took the stand during the day. The Democrats were their friends and brothers, and to them they were willing to extend the hand of friendship; but the Whigs—the "Taylor and slavery Whigs"—were their enemies, for whom they had nothing but hatred and revenge, and for whose destruction they invoked the aid of their Democrat friends!—Boston Journal, Sch.

Thereupon, the opposite counsel rose very much excited, and stated his objections in speech of about an hour long, to which the other replied in one of almost the same length. Then the judges consulted together, and, in a very learned and pompous manner, one of them stated the reason for considering it a very proper question, which must be answered. The great excitement now created by the audience, and a solemn silence was observed by the counsel, opened the question, 'What did Mary say?' To which the witness quietly replied—"She didn't say a word."

Horrid Murder—Plea of Insanity, &c.

Two young men, representing themselves to be French Counts, arrived in Galveston on the west, arrived a day or two since, and took up at Barnum's hotel. About 11 o'clock last evening, Mr. Barnum, a nephew to the proprietor of the hotel, was proceeding to his room, one of the Frenchmen fired a pistol at him, he dodged unexpectedly, and the ball passed entirely through his body. Albert Jones, who lodged at the hotel, hearing the report ran out on hearing the report of the pistol, and was shot through the head by the same person, and died immediately.

The murderer plead insanity, or his friend for him, but both were arrested and will be summarily dealt with according to law.

NEW YORK.—We are under obligations to Messrs LEA & BLANCHARD, publishers, through J. R. Siesel, for a copy of Miss Pardoe's new work, on the Court and Reign of Francis the First, King of France. We have read enough of this book to pronounce it delightful. Miss Pardoe is distinguished for her brilliancy and ease, having style, industry and zeal in investigating historical records, and her nice discrimination and rapid perception of character.

GOLD COMING.—The N. Y. Commercial understands that an insurance has been effected by one mercantile house in that city, on six hundred thousand dollars to be received by the three next steamers from California.

☞ Punch has seen with alarm, "ladies vests" advertised in the newspapers. The gradual invasion of male attire by the other sex ought to be looked to. Punch says they have already stolen our paletots—they may next take vests. Gracious goodness! what will they not do next. What will be left us?

Sure enough! (says the Boston Post) what will be done with the "what-d'ye-call-'ems!"

When coats, boots and jackets are taken
By our specious acquisitive spouses
Our Gentlemanly vests may be shaken
In respect to retaining our trousers!

☞ THE RUSSIAN MINISTER.—A Telegraphic dispatch to the Charleston Courier, says: Madam Bobisco has published a card, pronouncing the report of the exile of her husband a hoax. She has a letter from him, by the Europa, in which it is stated that he expected to be in Washington in ninety days.

HEAVY FROST.—Within the last two days we have received information, that a frost has been experienced in several sections of our State, sufficiently severe to have made ice, the correctness of which we have no reason to doubt; how far this frost may have extended throughout the Cotton region, or the extent of injury done thereby, remains to be ascertained.—Charleston Courier.

Ga dem Goods.
RECEIVED by ships Brunswick and Oregon, a large assortment of ORDER PEPSE, Purtoise Goods, Flower roots. Whereas the circle of acquaintance of the Proprietor of the Ga dem is very extensive, and extending over the whole American continent, from ocean to ocean and pole to pole, interest us with profound awe—But when it shall come down from the clouds, and condescend to state explicitly what its position is, the sublime will be succeeded by the ridiculous.

It is announced, not through the major or minor organ, of which the Union speaks, and with which are responsible and credited, but through more direct organs of the Secretary of State, that this government will not consult with England as to the Ocean Canal, nor accept her consent to its construction, but will demand from her that she will abandon all her assumed rights in the Mosquito country, whatever they may be, and resign from her settlement at Greytown, &c. This may be so, and this is what has been apprehended, and for a long time alleged, and frequently discredited. But it cannot be long before we shall know the truth of the whole matter; for, of course, Congress will probe it to the bottom.

Whatever course this question may take in the premises, it cannot expect to meet the opposition, as on the Panama question, in the Adams and Clay administration, the opposition will stand ready to take the side opposite to that assumed by the administration. The democratic press generally is now vindicating the course of that party, and it is in favor of a step far beyond any that they believe the administration can take.

Mr. Walter Forward, formerly Secretary of the Treasury, is appointed Solicitor of the Treasury, in the place of Mr. R. H. Gillett, removed. It is reported that the Cabinet have determined to remove Ashe—Post Master General Hobbie, and the Sixth Auditor, Mr. Washington. It is well known that the Cabinet has come to a decision to put their friends in possession of all the offices.

ANOTHER DISTINGUISHED SWEDE.—The old Saga Land a few weeks since sent us her sweetest, truthfulest novelist—the world-admired Frederica Bremer; though, in truth, we have seen very little of her yet, since she keeps as studiously from the public eye as her own motto—"Le retenue"—in that delightful domestic story, "The Midnight Sun." Scania is about to lend us another of the Northern stars—one Dr. P. A. Siljestrom, a philologer and writer of distinguished fame, an intimate friend of the late renowned Chemer, Berzelius, and now Vice-Professor of the Mathematics and Physics in the Royal Academy of Sciences at Stockholm—Dr. Siljestrom is on a governmental mission, and also on business for the Stockholm College of Commerce. He is expected in the next Cunard steamer. Over more than all, particular as we all hope it will be, the country—one who has converted kingdoms and never known to scream—one who has been years in public life and never provoked a slander—Jenny Lind, the divine—she is now at an approach distance from us, as Jenny Lind, and Scotland, and well-nigh you a debt that ages cannot pay.—N. Y. Tribune.

FUN AT THE EXPENSE OF JUDGES AND COURTS.—The Richmond Republican gives the following actual occurrence in a Virginia court lately, in the trial of Cogzell for kidnapping. It was a most ludicrous instance of the manner in which the time of courts is wasted:

"A witness, Miss Sloan, was under examination, and it became very important to know what manner of person had said to her upon the occasion referred to in the inquiry. The question was therefore propounded: 'What did Mary say to you?' Thereupon, the opposite counsel rose very much excited, and stated his objections in speech of about an hour long, to which the other replied in one of almost the same length. Then the judges consulted together, and, in a very learned and pompous manner, one of them stated the reason for considering it a very proper question, which must be answered. The great excitement now created by the audience, and a solemn silence was observed by the counsel, opened the question, 'What did Mary say?' To which the witness quietly replied—"She didn't say a word."
