INSTRUCTION.

ST. LOUIS INSTITUTION.

BOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES.

(Years 1850—'51.)

No. 148 St. Louis, between Dauphine & Burgundy.

THIS Institution, formerly known as Madame Dupuis' Seminary, now in its twelfth year, historical, moral, and intellectual, continues its functions, (formerly a septi and quadrennial in the Institute de la Legion d'Honneur, (Maison St. Denis,) has founded her present establishment, as far as possible, on the model of that great establishment, and has adopted as the plan of the First Northern Academies.

The Institution of St. Louis' Institution is one of the most agreeable and salubrious in the city, and whose locality, including dormitories, class and study rooms, play grounds, being very spacious and airy, and overlooking several gardens, is one of the healthy a position, that, not a single pupil has ever attended the term sustained illness.

The plan of instruction both in French and English embraces all the literary and scientific branches of a finished education.

The study of English is the object of particular attention. Madame Dupuy is scrupulously careful that the words Young Ladies should devote more time to the study of the English language and literature than to any other branch. Mr. Orton, a professor well known in New Orleans, continues his course of lessons every day. Two English governesses residing in the establishment, preside over the elementary classes, and contribute to the progress of the pupils by the continual use of that language in all the relations of ordinary life.

With respect to the study of French, besides the lessons of able professors and governesses, M. and Madame Duran themselves instruct in the different studies which are thus enabled by their personal efforts to insure the solidity and rapidity of the progress of their pupils.

The appointments of Music, including the piano, harp and singing, is under the direction of Madame Dupuis, an excellent music mistress, who formerly gave lessons in St. Louis' Institution, and who is now especially attached to the establishment. This young and talented lady, so justly classed at the head of the artistic celebrities of Louisiana, resumes to the study of Music in Madame Dupuis's Academy a marked superiority. No mistress can better gain a taste for music, and that is often the secret of the scholar's advancement. A musical examination taking place every month is intended to prove the rapid and beneficial progress of Madame Lavilleboeuve's pupils.

The system of instruction, which is the basis of every really good education, has received greater developments than in any other Boarding School in the city. Madame Duran herself superintends the religious exercises of the Catholic pupils, and M. l'Abbe Tholomier prepares them for their first communion. Protestants are confirmed by giving religious instruction several times every week in the Chapel of St. Louis' Institution.

RUSHTON, CLARK & CO.'S
CELEBRATED GENUINE MEDICINAL COD LIVER OIL,
For Consumption, Scrofulous Affections, Rheumatism, Gout, &c.

DR. PHILIP MAY, a celebrated Physician in London, states that having prescribed Cod Liver Oil in cases of Consumption which he had treated with Cod Liver Oil, and that there were followed by an unequivocal improvement, varying in degree according to the mitigation of distressing symptoms to an apparently complete restoration to health, and considers that pure, fresh, properly prepared Cod Liver Oil is more beneficial than any remedy under the sun. In a recent number of the Medical Times and Gazette Journal it was stated that since the introduction and extensive use of Pure Cod Liver Oil in England, the number of deaths from Consumption had decreased almost forty per cent.

As this remedy when pure, in cases where it is required, is the most valuable one hitherto discovered, in the country, when impure it is not only valueless, but positively injurious, as it disorders the digestive organs, and does more harm than good.

We are happy to say, many persons who had been using other oils, and failing to derive any benefit from them, were induced to give our oil a trial, it is disappointment but being prevailed on to use the oil of our manufacture, in a short time experienced the most astonishing effects.

As all the tests yet discovered are inadequate to prove the purity of the Cod Liver Oil, in order to guarantee our article to the consumer, we have been obliged to put it up with our signature across the cork of each bottle, and the oil put up by us and signed with our name, will be found genuine.

Prepared and sold, wholesale and retail, by RUSHTON, CLARK & CO., wholesale and retail Druggists and Druggists, and shall be in continue on hand a full supply of the above Medicine at our Depot, 110 Broadway, 10 Astor House, New York, and by all the principal Druggists in the United States and Canada.

For sale in New Orleans by N. JARVIN & CO., J. WRIGHT & CO., NICKLES & CO., RAY, DOLPH & POPE, and by the wholesale and retail Druggists generally.

CAUTION.—See that our signature is over the cork of each bottle, as without it, it is not genuine.
