Mr. CLAY'S HEALTH.—We see it stated that Mr. CLAY was unable to attend the Supreme Court at Washington on the 15th instant, and that he was very feeble. He has a cough, with occasionally a slight hemorrhage of the lungs.—A letter, however, states that Dr. JACKSON, of Philadelphia, has sounded his chest and pronounced that his lungs are not affected. Mr. CLAY has, ere this, gone to Philadelphia, to be the sucest of Dr. Jackson or Hon. Jossan Ranal. We trust that by good medical care and perfect quiet, the health of this distinguished man may be restored and his life yet prolonged for many years.

FROM THE RIO GRANDE.-By the schoone Cordes, from Brazos Santiago, we have received the American Flag of the 10th instant. We take the following from it, with the remark that the paper is bitterly hostile to the revolutionary movement:

the paper is bitterly bostile to the revolutionary movement:

The steamer Camanche arrived here late on Mohday nicht. bringing accounts of the revent battle at Cerralvo, between the forces of Carvajul and those of Gen. Jauregui. It appears that Gen. Jauregui had 220 men and represented the class of Jauregui and 220 men and a succeeded amounted to 350, men, without camon. Carvajul charked the class of Jauregui had aucceeded amounted to 350, men, without camon. Carvajul charked the class of Jauregui had aucceeded in driving him from his position, capturing much of the summunition and many horses, aaddles, wagons, and small arms belonging to Jauregui's camp; but from some unaccountable cause, fail caid in securing the large guns. Gen. Jauregui took shelter in a large atone house near the edge of the town, with his camon. There he held them at bay for two days, using small atones in stead of shot, with his large guns. At this juncture Carvajul received information of the near approach of a large detachment of Gen. Fraga's force, and he at once book up and commenced a precipitate retreat. We are informed that his forces became much scattered in their stammore, but most of them, with their leader, resched the most of them, with their leader, resched the most of them. Sinkiko of a Tenreser Mountain.—It is stated that a few days ago a portion of Waldon's Hidge sunk, with a noise resembling deeptoned thouser, leaving a huge-gap in the timber that fringes the sides of the ridge, extending about two miles in a parallel direction with the top. The gap in the dense timber appeared to be about sixty or a hundred feet in width, and the fissure in the surth reached to an unknown deth, in which trees of the larpest size were sorn up, and enotamous rocks, which had probably lain concealed for age, were rest from their primitive beddings and laid bare. The foundation on which the mountain rests is supposed to have given away.
