Mrs. Le Teller's Academy.

MRS. LE TELLIER will open a Private Teacher in the Public School, on Burgundy street, First District Schools, will open on Wednesday, September 1st, 1852, an Academy wherein all the branches of a solid education will be taught in the French and English languages, by her self—Professor.

Particular instruction is given in needle-work and accomplishments.

The number of boarders who have already been admitted at Mrs. Le Teller's new establishment compels her to open her Academy on Dauphine street, between Ursulines and St. Philip streets, instead of Bourbon street, as previously announced.

This vast edifice contains all that is requisite for the comfort of the pupils. The yard and dormitories are spacious and well ventilated.

The numerous pupils who, for the last two years have been confided to the care of Mrs. Le Teller, the greater number of whom are the children of the most distinguished families, expect the favor of families.

Mrs. Le Teller is a mother and a friend to her pupils, she nurses no favorites, she loves children, she calls them, and in bills these respects she claims general patronage. au26

KRASTUS EVERETT, A.M.,

Principal and Proprietor.

THE Session of 1852-'53 will commence on MONDAY, October 4th. The Principal will maintain for the School its long established character for thorough instruction in all the branches of useful and polite learning. He is glad to be able to announce at the same time, that he has re-engaged the services of Mr. Jean Baptiste Dubroca, a native gentleman, as Assistant, as Professor of Spanish and adjunct Professor of French; and Mr. Everett will be hereafter have charge of all the Englishclasses and a part of the Mathematical. The number of instructors will thus be increased, giving the corps of instructing officers a sufficient guaranty that no branch will be neglected. There will be no increase in the charges, the same Professors from year to year, thus securing just compensation to the services of each, and thereby the improvement is impossible.

Further particulars may be had at Mr. Lehrer's book store, Royal street; Mr. Guerineau's, corner of Royal and Dauphine, and Mr. Stahl's, Canal street, and Mr. Everett's, 5a Esplanade street. au4 1m MEDICAL.

DUCONGE'S

PECTORAL BALSAMIC SYRUP.

LABORATORY OF THE PROPRIETOR,

No. 39 Bienville street, N. O.

THE well known virtue of this vegetable syrup, in all ailments of the breast, such as colds, hoarseness, whooping cough, &c, &c, has been proved by its use in many years; by such extensive patronage, that it would be useless to dwell at any length on the kinds of diseases for which it is applicable, inflamatis of the throat, stomach or bowels, spitting of blood and whooping cough.

It has been found highly beneficial in all inflammatory disorders, such as fits complaint, fluctuations, in shortness, pulmonary consumption, and in fact in all those cases of obstinate which no want of proper medicine, or its improper administration, can cure.

In all affections of the lungs, verging on consumption, it has been found to prevent that dreadful scourge, whenever timely resorted to.

Besides its acknowledged curtaily of cure, this truly wonderful Medicine has over all those compounds of the same nature, the great advantage of being easy to its agreeable nature, it can be administered without difficulty to children, and it proves a very particular diet.

Prepared and sold at the Laboratory of the P. DUCONGE,

ST. LOUIS INSTITUTION.

To Rent for Term of Years,

Madison Female Seminary,

No. 143 St. Louis street, between Bourbon and Rampart streets.

SCHOLASTIC YEAR, 1852-'53.

THIS institution which is for the Education of Young Ladies, has been established for years, and its prosperity has resulted in usual course of studies since the last September.

Mr. Madison, who remains a pupil and professor of the Maison Royale of St. Denis, and a graduate of the University of France, has been called to the charge of this institution which she has acquired in the United states to the highest degree of reputation, and which she has given to the establishments in America.

Madame Beron, extremely devoted to her pupils' application herself not only to the cultivation of the mind, but also to the formation of the heart. She strongly desires to make her establishment a home for her pupils, and has marked for all those valuable qualities which constitute a truly amiable young lady, such as the love of home and country, sensibility of temper, and solicity of judgment, which are the true sources of that happiness which naturally easy grace and reserved elegance of manners. In order to attain this end, Madame Beron has always employed as assistants both foreigners and mistresses, the constant use of emulation, and especially rewards by appointments and premiums, which are awarded by the master-in-law, Madame Madeleine Beron, who, like herself, has been educated in the Maison Royale of St. Denis, and who is charged with the greatest zeal over the daily progress of the pupils.

The locality of the institution well known and appreciated in New Orleans, is one of the most healthy and agreeable in the city, is perfectly well arranged; the class and study rooms and dormitories are spacious and airy, the yard is large and planted with trees, and has a fine garden, a shooting gallery and a large gymnastic apparatus, and a terrace sheltered from the sun and intended for the use of the pupils in bad weather.

The general instructions is given both in French and English, and the scholars are divided into classes, each furnished education for young ladies. The English language is taught principally by native teachers, who converse in their communications with each other, and with their professors, to speak the English language exclusively.

The French language is taught by Mr. Madison, from the foundation, devotes a great part of his time to impart to the pupils of the higher classes a thorough knowledge of both English to construct or even imitate the dreadful effects of sea sickness. Several means have been tried without success. Attacks may be termed flattered by the personal of the annals of Pharmacy, Chemistry and Medicine of all countries, published within the last two years.

The inventor of the "Hygienic Elixir," has at length made the invaluable discovery. After numerous and minute observations in the composition of the substances composing this Elixir, he is enabled to offer it to travellers in the shape of a tasteless draught, but decomposed of sacred relief by climate of age.

The Elixir checks seasickness immediately, and restores the stomach to its healthy state. However delicate be the constitution of the person using it, it will not only invigorate and give a healthy feeling of ease and comfort. The nausea ceases as if by magic, calm and sleep are restored, and the fears and dread of the digestion effected promptly under the influence of this tonic.

The inventor having had an opportunity during a recent sea voyage, to make personally a final trial of his Elixir, has made up his mind to offer it to the public. He could cover the bottles with numerous and testimonials from several sea captains, but will appeal only to their opinion of one of the most distinguished commanders of the French Commercial Navy, Captain Labory, having had opportunity of testing under the most favorable conditions has the efficacy of this remedy, (then in the hope of publishing several voyages, since that time, and on his voyage to France I have had opportunities of testing, on divers persons, their remarkably agreeable qualities; I am happy to be enabled to report to you that I have obtained the best results, and if it were possible after this remedy to take a palatable draught, such as a lemonade of some kind, which could be more easily taken than in its present shape, especially when the convulsions has already commenced, nothing more would be required, and you would be entitled to the everlasting gratitude of all those who are obliged to travel by sea, without being accustomed thereto.

I am yours truly,

Signed, A. LABORY, Com'd. Ship Pilocar.

The improvement suggested by Capt. Labory, has been effected. The Hygienic Elixir, now in its present excellence, is sold in four ounce bottles with glass stoppers. Care must be taken to keep the bottles corked, to prevent evaporation.
