FEMALE ABOLITIONISTS.

The Duchess of SUTHERLAND and the other noble ladies of Great Britain, who have so kindly and warmly interested themselves in the welfare of our servile population, remind us of one of DICKENS' inimitable characters—Mrs. FALLTEF—a lady of much far-sighted philanthropy, that she was continually engaged in devising benevolent schemes for bettering the condition of the benighted natives of Borioboola -Gah in fashero Africa, but disdained the petty and degrading cares of her own home to hold. It is more than probable that the comments and counsels of the American press will never meet the eyes of the high-born dames who have volunteered so vast an amount of sympathy for our slaves: were it otherwise we might hope that they would profit by the excellent advice they so every where is receiving. We wish, in fact, that these gilded victims of Nobility, dwelling in the perfumed atmosphere of May Fair, hardly dream of the misery, vice and want that seethe and fester within a few squares of their lordly mansions. They have doubtless heard from casting and cursory fancies that the Americans have slaves, and imagine in their simplicity, that these slaves must be horribly treated, and are necessarily miserable.—It would be worth while to transport Her Grace of SUTHERLAND to the centre of a sugar plantation just about this joyous season, and let her realize for herself in the grins of the delighted darkies, in their songs and dances, their Christmas presents and their unmitigable gayety, a correct idea of their wretchedness, their vile treatment, their oppression and their sufferings. Such a lesson would not be lost upon these fair sprouts of British Aristocracy, for we are persuaded that their somewhat silly intermeddling in matters which concern them not, arises from a mixture of extreme ignorance and genuine good feeling. Were the former properly enlightened, the latter would be directed into more appropriate channels.

It is highly probable that if the Duchess of SUTHERLAND and her associates knew something of the institution, the squalid poverty, the dense and dreadful ignorance and the awful vice which hold their sway within most of that broad space known as the Eastern end of London, they would deem their charitable efforts far more required at home, than in distant and happy America. When every inhabitant of London shall, on rising in the morning, be enabled to command a meal, when the most lapdray that exists that great city shall begin to be removed, when thieves and prostitutes shall cease to be regularly reared to infamy; when operatives shall no longer be forced to choose between constant hunger and utter starvation; when needlewomen shall earn enough by their labors to preserve them from vending their virtue for a loaf of bread; when indigence shall be cared for and ignorance instructed; when the yearning stomach shall be filled, and nakedness sheltered from cold and rain—when any one of the giant evils that stalk over London shall be extirpated—then we Americans will begin to acknowledge the propriety of the interference of English ladies in the institutions of our country. But until then, and even American gallantry, proverbial as it is, can pardon the blunder. Let the fair sexlets look at home—let them do what they may for the alleviation of the social evils which surround them—let them strive to mitigate a wretchedness ten thousand times greater than the imaginary sufferings of the soulless Africa. There the field is wide enough for all their bounty—the objects numerous enough to evoke an inexhaustible sympathy.

CATHOLIC MESSENGER.—The Rev. Abbe PERCHE is about to establish a weekly paper, to be devoted to the defence of the Catholic religion. It will be published in the English language. Mr PERCHE is one of the most able divines and vigorous writers in New Orleans.

SUBSCRIPTION IN FAVOR OF M. PETIN.—We understand that a number of our liberal minded citizens have determined to get up a subscription, for the purpose of presenting M. PETIN for the loss incurred by him in the nearly total destruction of his magnificent balloon. Lists of subscription have been placed at No. 45 St. Louis street, at the cigar store of Mr. DALLIE.

JAMAICA.—By an arrival from Kingston, we have received Jamaica papers to the 8th instant. They are totally destitute of interest.

INSTITUTION OF MR. DUFAU.—The monthly exercises in elocution and music in this Seminary, will take place on Thursday next.

WALDE-WARREN, a Tale of Circumstantial Evidence. We are indebted to B M. NORMAN, No. 14 Camp street, for this new novel. It is a prize story, from the pen of Emerson Bennett, and is said to possess merit of a high order.

Amusements This Evening

St. Charles Theatre.—That delightful and talented actress, Miss JULIA DEAN, makes her second appearance this evening, as Marianna, in Knowles fine drama, "The Wife." The part of Marianna is one peculiarly adapted to the genius and style of Miss DEAN'S personation. The comedietta of "Faint heart never won Fair Lady," concludes the evening's entertainments.

Placide's Theatre.—Mrs. Karroway, or, the Miller of Whetstone," a comic drama, is announced for this evening, with Holland, Bradley, Mrs. C. Hill, Mrs. Howard, and other leading performers. To be followed by the beautiful drama of "St. Mary's Eve," and the laughable farce of "Cavaliers and Roundheads."

American Theatre.—Donsetti's wonderful troupe of acting animals will perform every evening this week. This, together with the marvellous feats of Herr Spingalco, constitutes abundant attraction.

The Campbell Minstrels.—These popular and most entertaining vocalists give but five more performances. Let all visit them, who have not yet visited their pleasant and laughter-moving representations.

Orleans Theatre.—Halevy's splendid opera, "The Queen of Cyprus," is announced for this evening at the Orleans Theatre, with Madame Wideman and Mr. Bordas as the principal characters.

CHOLERA IN APALACHICOLA.—The Albany (Ga.) Patriot learns that a "malignant and fatal disease resembling the Asiatic cholera has broken out at that place. Within ten days previous to the time the steamer Henry left, as many as seventy five deaths had occurred—and there was no abatement, at the time of her leaving. The disease is supposed to be caused by the eating of the oysters procured from the bay. Either from being deprived of salt water by the unusual quantity of fresh water discharged into the bay after the late freshet, or some other cause, the oysters have become diseased, and in large portions of the beds have died or disappeared. They are pronounced by physicians and others to be not only unwholesome, but absolutely poisonous.

We suppose the disease at Apalachicola to be identical with that reported in Columbus, some week or two since. If we remember rightly, similar effects followed the eating of New Haven oysters some few years ago.

☞ We perceive that the American bark Oronde, Captain N. H. Higgins, 25 days from Havre, bound to New York, with 149 emigrants and a cargo of merchandize, having experienced very bad weather, put into Nassau on the 3d instant, in distress, being leaky and out of provisions, and on Monday morning, the 6th inst., was unfortunately burnt.

☞ Twenty five casks, containing probably more than 1000 gallons of liquors, were taken at Machias, Me., on board of a small vessel on the 8th instant, under the provisions of the "Maine Law," and condemned. The defendant appealed to the January term of the Supreme Court, to be held at Machias.

☞ A Wall street Broker has been arrested in New York, charged with passing notes on fictitious Banks, by which he defrauded several persons out of $6,000. In the prisoner's pocket were found bills of various denominations on the Citizens' Bank, Washington, D. C., Merchants' Bank, Anacostil, D. C., and a large amount of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank, Georgetown, D. C., all of which are worthless, there being no such Banks in existence.

COMMERCE OF CUBA.—The following is the number of square-rigged vessels in port at the undermentioned cities on the 10th inst:

Ports.	Ships.	Barks.	Brigs.
Baltimore,	9	25	20
Charleston,	24	25	24
Savannah,	27	6	18

☞ Workmen, says the Philadelphia Ledger, are now steadily employed at the Navy Yard. We suppose, in the establishment of sixty six hydraulic jacks, for the Treasury Department. They are to be dashed in time for transmission to all the prominent points on the seaboard and below by the 1st of January, and are designed to test the strength of steam boats on two hundred pounds pressure to the inch—the strict and workable, fulfilled by the law of Congress. Each boiler is also to be provided with an alloy, fusible plug, which at a given heat will operate as an alarming check upon careless engineers.

MAD KILLER.—The Montgomery Advertiser says: A man named Dunn was arrested on Tuesday night on one of the middle streets of the suburbs of the city. He fought very much, charged by a crowd of citizens, but, after being secured, he died. It was ascertained, on examination, that he was a lunatic from home, and his friends were notified.

THE ELECTION.

Our authorities are recorded and the Whigs are thoroughly beaten. The Whig leaders take the vote very quietly to mend any chickenpox comments. To those friends we refer the curious reader.

Telegraphic Items.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.

LETTER FROM BUENOS AYRES.—Advices from Buenos Ayres to October 30th have been received. Official documents have been published in favor of opening the river Parana to the navigation of all nations. The independence of Paraguay is recognized. A correspondence has been published from Mr. Graham, U. S. Consul, urging the settlement of discriminations against United States vessels, and in favor of reciprocity. The Minister promises to refer the matter to the Legislature. Business was inactive. Hides plenty. The slaughter of mares had been authorized.

Advices from Rio Janeiro were to November 8th. The bark Hamletta had sailed from New Orleans. The bark Reindeer was in port loading for Baltimore.

Apprehensions were felt at Buenos Ayres of further trouble with Urquiza, Paraguay having refused to espouse his cause. Otherwise, everything was tranquil.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.

MARINE DISASTER.—The ship Windsor, Fay, before reported ashore on the Romer Shoals, has broken in two, and the lighters are engaged in scrapping her, and saving such part of her cargo as can be got at.

The schooner Pampero, from Georgetown, was run into yesterday morning, by the schr. Julia, and considerably damaged. The collision has caused her to leak badly.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20.

The brig Aconite, from New York for Baltimore, put in here this morning for repairs, having lost both anchors and chains on Saturday night, off Barnegat.

BOSTON, Dec. 20.

The brig Wm. K. Drew, of Holmes' Hole, from Philadelphia, bound to Boston, fell in with on the 18th, 40 miles west of Sandy Hook, the schr. Albert Wheal, from Philadelphia, for Portland, with a cargo in a sinking condition. Her crew abandoned her and reached the brig, saving nothing.

BOSTON, Dec. 19.

FLESH EXPLOSION AND LOSS OF LIFE.—John F. Fisher, while drawing some turpentine from a cask, on Saturday evening, at his grocery store in Garden street, confidentially lighted it with a lamp, and an explosion followed, which burned him so that he died at 9 o'clock this morning. The store was damaged by fire about $1000.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS.—It is understood that Gen. Cass will make a speech in favor of confirming the Lieutenant-Generalship on General Scott.

The laborers on the capitol extension pounded their hats supposing—Sunday. With an elegant service of plate. Interesting speeches were made by Major Stephens, of Alabama, and Capt. McCall, of New Orleans.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20.

ESCAPE OF PRISONERS—FATAL ACCIDENT.—Two burglars, named Smith and Lay, escaped from the prison van this morning, on their way to the court-house.

A colored infant was burned to death in Carlton street, this morning. The fire was caused by the child playing with matches. The garments escaped from the second story, but was sufficiently injured.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 18.

HEAVY DAMAGES.—The owners of the steamboat Navy Ann have recovered $6,500 damages from the city, for neglecting to keep a steamboat wharf unobstructed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.

RAILING OF STEAMERS.—The Northern Light, for San Juan, and Illinois, for Aspinwall, sailed to-day.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.

A distinguished Democratic Senator from one of the Southern States, has, as a matter of fact, decided to go against the nomination of Cobb in any shape in which the question may be put. He has argued that it would destroy the party, that the Democracy of the North will not for the accommodation of the ambition of politicians of the South, submit to the dictation of Congress, holding, as they do, the power of the Government, and that the nomination of Cobb is only a step to the nomination of Jefferson Davis, and that the Democracy of the North will not submit to the dictation of the South. This argument is supposed to be conclusive against Cobb.

The Whigs are in ecstacies over the result of the Presidential election in Louisiana. They say it is a Whig victory, and that Louisiana is a Whig State. Now, we would like to know how they make it out. Louisiana has given a majority of about 5,000 for the Democratic candidates for Governor, Congress, and Presidential Electors. Is that a Whig victory? Is that a Whig State? Is that a Whig majority? Is that a Whig Legislature? Is that a Whig Congressional delegation? Is that a Whig Governor? Is that a Whig Presidential Ticket? Is that a Whig Electoral College? Is that a Whig Senator? Is that a Whig Lieutenant Governor? Is that a Whig Secretary of State? Is that a Whig Auditor? Is that a Whig Treasurer? Is that a Whig Attorney General? Is that a Whig Superintendent of Education? Is that a Whig Surveyor General? Is that a Whig Register of the Land Office? Is that a Whig Receiver of the Land Office? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of New Orleans? Is that a Whig Collector of the Port of New Orleans? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Baton Rouge? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Bayou Sara? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Natchez? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Vicksburg? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Port Hudson? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Carrollton? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Algiers? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Madisonville? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Manchac? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Pass Manchac? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Pass Christian? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Shieldsboro? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Pascagoula? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Biloxi? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Ocean Springs? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Bay St. Louis? Is that a Whig Surveyor of the Port of Pass Caballo
