NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY MORNING. AUGUST 10. 1854.

[From the National Intelligencer.]

**The agolograms of our city boxels are familiar with the modest tone in which the moral "Reb" Vort. Heredd, "Tribun," "Times." "Baltimere San," "Intelligencer," "Union," &c., fall upon their case from a respectable olderly gentlement in the sarwayapar fine. At break of day we may find at the railroad dapet, with his headle of these "maps of basy life," at breakfast time he be at the hotel ready cash; and agalo as mid-sight draws ear, you will still find him pursaling the even tenor of his way, pressing his sales. We have observed him for many years going regularly through the routine. Many wonder if he ever slope. If "elevant viginace is the price of liberty," be is entitled to the largest that may be had. A corfoldly is often manifested to know his history. Some say that he has by dist of such natiring industry and perseverance laid up something handcome for a "rainy day,"
