THE DAILY BEE.

Monday Morning, November 27, 1854

THE NORTHERN MAIL came through yesterday with the latest dates.

THE ELECTION TO-DAY.

The readers of our paper are reminded that an important election will take place to-day. Every reformer is under an implied obligation to contribute his share towards the redemption of the State from the blighting influence of clique domination with a view of securing the services of capable, honorable, and unprejudiced men to fill the vacancies existing in the representation of our city, the reform party have brought forward three gentlemen who are eminently qualified for the offices they solicit at the hands of the people. For the Senate, to be voted for by the citizens of all four districts, JULES LAVERGNE has been put in nomination. It is almost superfluous to refer to Mr LAVERGNE. He is so well and so favorably known as a high-souled, true-hearted American, intelligent, experienced, of rigid probity, and enlightened understanding, that the simple mention of his name as a candidate will, we trust, suffice to secure him a cordial and enthusiastic support. Mr. LAVERGNE'S election will place in the Senate a steadfast friend of New Orleans, devoted to her interests, and wholly unhampered by previous pledges or political obligations. If his numerous friends do their duty, JULES LAVERGNE will receive a splendid vote, and an imposing majority.

For representative of the First District we have Captain JAQUESS, one of the most popular and estimable gentlemen in our city. He will command the suffrage of the mass of reformers who reside in his district. For the Fourth Representative District VALENTINE HERRMAN is the candidate. Mr HERRMAN has served with credit in the councils of our city; he is active, intelligent, and industrious, and will make an efficient and hard-working legislator.

The reformers have three excellent nominees. Let them put their shoulders to the wheel and ELECT them.

A FRIGHTFUL MISFORTUNE.

If you have tears, prepare to shed them now. Cruel destiny, the omnipotence of authority, a one-legged tyrant, and the stupid docility of the Mexican people have combined for the dreadful purpose of humiliating and ruining the Delta and the Bee. The decree has gone forth; the fiat of his most Serene Highness, irrevocable as fate, has been made known—and neither the Delta nor the Bee will henceforth be allowed to pollute the noble soil of Mexico, or to preach treason to its high-minded, loyal and magnanimous inhabitants. What a catastrophe! We are almost appalled at its magnitude. Our pen scarcely dares feebly to delineate feelings that are well nigh too big for utterance. Insatiate archer! would not one suffice? Could you not have satisfied your thirst for vengeance by launching one fatal bolt at the Delta, and have let the Bee go scatheless? Might you not have tempered justice with mercy, and limited the terrors of your wrath to one of these pestilent propagandists of liberal opinions? Alas, no! The crime was heinous, and the punishment was to be signal. Overflowing as is the bosom of SANTA ANNA with the milk of human kindness, on this occasion, he will be found to be inexorable. Nothing less than the exclusion of both journals could smooth the ruffled dignity of his Highness, and restore his wounded spirit to its wonted serenity.

Now that the deed has been done, we trust that SANTA ANNA will be enabled to sleep o' nights. We hope that his slumbers may no longer be disturbed by frightful visions of a cannon rammed with innumerable Delta's and Bee's thundering at the gates of the National Palace, that fears of insurrection may no longer haunt his distempered imagination, and that he may cease to apprehend disloyalty from the perusal of these pernicious sheets. Gigantic and crushing as is the calamity which has befallen us, we feel in our illimitable disinterestedness, that we can bear it with resignation, if it brings peace and comfort to the harrassed soul of the virtuous, patriotic, humane and single-minded SANTA ANNA. We feel that though, as SAM WELLER graphically remarks, "subbosin' a nature may possibly survive the infliction," the broad, catholic sentiment of a common humanity will sustain us in this our fearful hour of trial, and that we shall be heered and solaced by the reflection that on martyrdom has rendered SANTA ANNA ha'. Nor have we a doubt that our brother of the Delta participates in these laudable sentiments, and derives consolation from similar conglusions.

Let us hope that the tre of the Godlike will be appeased by this propitiatory oblation, and that having banished us with truculent rage from the light of his countenance, he will leave us to perish in our insignificance. May our humble prayer avert any further demonstration of displeasure, for we are fain to confess that we shiver with terror lest SANTA ANNA should prohibit the editor as well as his journal from setting foot within the glorious, enlightened and eminently free and tolerant Mexican Republic. Nay more! What will sustain us, what will be the meats that site in awful majesty on the throne of the Palacio Nacional should decree our death, set a price on our heads, and surrender us to the sharp and summary justice of a Mexican stiletto. We shrink horrified from the anticipation of so frightful a doom, and our pen drops from our nerveless grasp.

MEXICO.

The Orizaba arrived on Saturday, bringing dates from Vera Cruz to the 22d instant, and from the City of Mexico to the 18th instant, inclusive. Our faithful and reliable correspondence has failed on this occasion, having probably been intercepted by the minions of SANTA ANNA, for we are assured certain that it was forwarded by the Orizaba. Our correspondent tells the truth, and the wretched tyrant of Mexico is particularly averse to any process whereby the people of the United States may learn his exact position, and his execrable conduct.

On the 2d instant, a boat that was transporting specie on board the English steamer off Vera Cruz, was capsized, with the loss of $70,000. It is thought, however, that the specie will be recovered.

The papers are making a great fuss over an exposition of the products of Mexican industry lately held at the capital. If they were allowed to exhibit the fruits of Mexican government, what a startling they would make!

A number of executions have recently taken place of individuals convicted of assassination and highway robbery.

The ravages of the Indians on the frontier departments are a subject of constant and doleful notice in the public journals. His peissan Highness has not vigor and resources enough to put a stop to the atrocities of these barbarians, who murder and mutilate men and children, and ravish and carry off women.

Accounts are given of various triumphs obtained by the troops of the Government over the rebels of the South. It is rather singular that those same rebels, considering they are always routed with immense slaughter, should still keep the field, and maintain a formidable resistance. The fact is, these Mexican victories are fabricated to order in the Cabinet of his Imperial Highness, and sent to the press for publication. Our private advices have stated positively that Mexico is rent with civil discord, and that the revolution is progressing, like the siege of Sebastopol, slowly, but surely.

The new programme of the Cabinet is to be submitted to the popular vote in the beginning of next month. Of course the free suffrage to be accorded for the occasion, is understood to be a sorry farce. No man dares venture to offer the confirmation of SANTA ANNA, unless prepared for close imprisonment, or indefinite exile. The liberty of the press is to last for exactly 24 hours; but we to him who hazards on that day a word that can be tortured into censure of the tyrant!

Mr Rafael Rafael has been appointed Consul General of Mexico at New Orleans, in place of Mr Arrangois.

Valuable placers of gold have been discovered in the Sierra Madre.

The eight prefect-ships established in Mexico in 1853, have been suppressed by a ministerial order. Superintendents of police are to fulfil the duties of these offices.

Mr. Cagigas, editor of the Ira, has been ordered out of the Federal District. His pen had not proved sufficiently subservient to the Dictator.

A grand banquet was given by Santa Anna to General Paez, prior to his departure from the capital.

COLLECTION OF REVENUE.—The attention of all persons interested is called to the assessment by the Comptroller of the city, that on Monday next, 4th December, at 12 o'clock, M., the adjudication of the collection of the revenue of the Markets for one year, will be made at his office.

GENERAL PAEZ.—This distinguished Venezuelan patriot is in this city stopping at the St. Charles Hotel, having arrived from Vera Cruz, en route for New York, in the steamship Orizaba, on Saturday.
