OUR WASSINGTON CORRESPONDENCE. Wassington Connected States

Congress assembled today. There was a pretty fell assendance of members, and the usual friendly greetings between even those who had for months previous to their separation contended in hot and ungry strife. Not a few jukes were archanged by those who have the tabos of the people upon their backs, and the late whirtwad which had unseated there, was referred to with good temper and pleasantry.

THE ARREMATION OF THE SARBWICE ISLANDS has greatly lacepased in favor with the native population. The presence of the national vessels of the United Bases, and sepecially of the two splendid steam frigates, inspired confidence that private in the Hawrian people.—The interchange of courtesies between the officers of the United States Equadron at Honolely, and the King and government, had been at issued as with the most gratifying manifestations of matual harmsony and good feeling. What ever slight objection might have herelofore existed is any quarter to the speedy coassumation of the project had vanished, and the treaty ally settled in all its details will be forwarded forthwith to Washington.

It appears that the Prince and heir apparent LENGLIVEN had at first opposed the project of annexation, in coassquase of his desire to present a diadem to an English lady to whom he is betrothed, but the objections of that formidable personage have been removed, and the Court is now ananimosaly in favor of annexation.
